VARIED INDUSTRIES BEST

RAILWAY OFFICIAL SAYS HOGS AND DAIRYING IMPORTANT.

R. B. Miller, of O.-W. R. & N., Speaks Against Danger of Overdoing Fruit Production.

Further emphasizing the necessity of the Northwest engaging in other than the fruit industry, R. B. Miller, traffic manager of the O. W. R. & N. Co., with a party of other officials of that road, returned to Portland yesterday from North Yakima, where on Wednesday they attended the celebration of the North Coast's entrance into that city.

The local Harriman officials were entertained Thursday evening at a banquet and entertainment by the Commercial Club of Kennewick, Wash., which town promises to become one of the largest and most important cities on the new road. Robert E. Strahorn, builder of the North Coast and now manager of the second district of the O.-W. R. & N. system, was one of the principal speakers. William McMurray, general passenger agent, delivered an address full of praise for the Yakima Valley and bearing predictions for future development.

Mr. Miller, R. Burns, district freight and passenger agent at Walla Walla; H. E. Lounsbury, assistant general freight agent, and C. E. Woods, right of way agent, spoke along the same lines.

Mr. Miller made a study of crop and soil conditions of the Yakima Valley, and when he returned to this city yesterday he was convinced more firmly than ever that dairying and hog raising should be taken up by the people of that section at once to avoid the danger of having the entire country dependent upon the fruit industry alone. In discussing this subject yesterday he said:

"It is not wise for any community to have all its eggs in one basket, because in the event of adverse market conditions, short or damaged crops, the entire district suffers. In my opinion the time will come when dairying and hog-raising in the Yakima Valley will be one of the principal if not the foremost vocations, and in the interest of the general welfare it seems to me that it should be fostered and encouraged in every practicable way.

"The predictions that have been made as to the shipments of apples from the Yakima Valley within the next few years are astounding. Yet similar predictions are made by many other sections, including the Rogue, Umpqua, Willamette, Hood River, Mosier and Grand Ronde valleys in Oregon; Walla Walla, Palouse and Wenatchee valleys in Washington, and in addition, British Columbia, Southern Idaho, Montana, Colorado and California are equally optimistic as to the future production in their respective localities, so that within a short time the total production will reach an enormous total for which markets must be found.

"I do not wish to be regarded as speaking disparagingly of the fruit industry in any locality, and particularly in the Yakima Valley, but I do wish to suggest that because the Yakima Valley is so well adapted in every way to the successful production of hogs and dairy products, that it would be the part of wisdom and in the interest of the country as a whole, if that industry should be regarded as of equal importance to the fruit industry and its promotion undertaken to such extent as may be regarded desirable. There can be no over-production of hogs and dairy products."

DEAL FOR MILL SITE ON

MOUNT HOOD ROAD OFFICIAL NEGOTIATES TO BUY.

R. C. Gillis Figures With Inman-Poulsen—Chief Engineer Says Company Not in Transaction.

It has become known that R. C. Gillis, chairman of the executive committee of the Mount Hood Railway & Power Company, has been negotiating for the purchase of the Inman-Poulsen millsite on the east river front.

Mr. Gillis himself is not in the city, but C. B. Smith, chief engineer for the company and in temporary charge of affairs, last night denied absolutely that the Mount Hood concern intends purchasing the property, although he admitted that Mr. Gillis privately may be contemplating such a transaction.

"I know that the company does not need and does not want the Inman-Poulsen river front," said Mr. Smith, "and that it has not been negotiating for its purchase. I have heard Mr. Gillis speak of the matter as reports of the sale appeared in the papers, and if he has been connected with any deal involving this property it has been for himself personally, and not for the company."

This is the first time that Mr. Gillis or the Mount Hood Company has been connected in an authoritative way with the Inman-Poulsen tract, although nearly every other railroad enterprise in the Northwest has been reported as buying it or about to buy it.

The Milwaukee road has been mentioned frequently as the probable purchaser, and at various times the Southern Pacific has been reported to be negotiating in this direction. Likewise the Hill interests and the Canadian Pacific have been connected with it, and the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company has alternated with the others in bearing the burden of the frequent rumors. In the meantime officials of the Inman-Poulsen Company deny that they ever have been approached by the officials of any railroad company for the purchase of their property.

GRANGE FOR EDUCATION

REFERENDUM AGAINST APPROPRIATIONS OPPOSED.

Agricultural College and University Unanimously Indorsed—Reciprocity Opposed.

It was the sentiment of Washington County Pomona Grange, which met in Forest Grove Wednesday, that the referendum on the appropriations for the Oregon Agricultural College and the State University would work great injury to those institutions and also to the state at large if the appropriations should be held up. The topic was discussed freely by members present and all expressed the hope that the movement would be discontinued and that the two state educational institutions would not be hampered.

Mortimer Whitehead, former National lecturer, opposed the reciprocity agreement with Canada and the Grange adopted resolutions in opposition to the agreement.

"I attended the meeting of Washington County Pomona Grange in Forest Grove Wednesday," said Mrs. H. L. Vail, member of Evening Star Grange and also of the State Women's Work committee, "and heard the discussion of the referendum measures. The sentiment was overwhelmingly against any referendum on these appropriations. I think that it would be a great calamity to hold up these appropriations and thus seriously hamper education in this state."

"I don't know how far the referendum has gone," said J. J. Johnson, master of Evening Star Grange and ex-state lecturer, "but it would be wrong to hamper either institution. We may think that the appropriations are large, but the institutions are growing and need money for new buildings. I have not heard much about the progress the referendum is making, if any."
