Piet Moto Unwillingly Implicates Relative as Slayer of Macedonian.

SEVENTH ARREST IS MADE

Prisoner Set Free Without Bond, as Authorities Count on Him for Further Help—Greeks Will Aid in Prosecution.

Through the evidence given by Piet Moto concerning the murder of Theodore Atiam, by 17 Bulgarians, nearly two years ago, the informant's own brother was arrested yesterday morning by Patrolman Hirsch, and was booked at the police station on a charge of murder in the first degree. He was the seventh man to be arrested for the crime. After being booked he was set free on his own recognizance.

Piet was not a willing betrayer of his own flesh and blood, but on admission of his led to another, until he reluctantly confessed that his brother, says, sat around the dead body of Atiam and drank beer and ate peanuts in a house at Seventh and Flanders streets, while they discussed the disposition to be made of the body.

Prisoner May Aid Prosecutor.

The entry on the police blotter, explaining Jim Moto's release without the usual request for bond, has been placed in police annals. After his name and the charge "first degree murder," is the abbreviation, "recog.," with the explanation, "request of the District Attorney." Police officials say that this is the first time within their knowledge that a man accused of murder in the first degree has been allowed to go free without any guarantee for his appearance.

The reason for the action is that the prosecution looks to Moto for material assistance in the case. They have learned that he talked of the case, following the first exposure, in a manner showing that he knew more than he would tell. He will be kept under surveillance to insure his appearance, to prevent any attempt to influence or intimidate him.

Police Are Confident.

The prisoner is 22 years old and gave his occupation as that of porter. Like all the rest, he denies any knowledge of the crime with which he is charged. The police feel that he is a valuable asset to the prosecution, and that he will help them to find the guilty man or men. They are confident that they will be able to bring the case to a successful conclusion.

Funds will be supplied by the Greek colony in this city for the prosecution of the alleged slayers of their countryman. The Greeks have been thoroughly aroused by the revelations of Piet Moto, which have fanned the already smoldering fire of hatred between the Macedonian Greeks and their neighbors, the Bulgarians. The Macedonian Greeks have been killed, was caused by the forcible capture and attempted marriage of a Macedonian girl, while every man in the neighborhood was armed and ready to celebrate the forced nuptials that Atiam and his band descended upon them at night and waged slaughter.

After the raid, Atiam fled to America, apparently led by his fate, settled in Portland, where many of the relatives of the slain Macedonian were living. He was advised by mail of the massacre and of the flight of Atiam to this country. Four years they waited, keeping in touch with the relatives in the country and with countrymen in other parts of the United States. At last the slumbering vendetta found meat to feed upon when Atiam, who was a laborer, employed first in one part and then another, on construction jobs, was found quartered in this city. Council members, usually the Flanders street house, and at last the marked man was lured to the place, by what means, no one but the conspirators themselves in that place were known to death and his corpse was consigned to the river.

Punishment for murder, as a matter of public policy, is not contemplated by any other faction of the feudists. To them it is a grim game that has been played, and in the interest of the local authorities, the Macedonians justify the vendetta, even if it means the death of every man who will give them their things. They justify the raid of Atiam's party as an act of legitimate warfare, as the Macedonians justify the vendetta, even if it means the death of every man who will give them their things. They justify the raid of Atiam's party as an act of legitimate warfare, as the Macedonians justify the vendetta, even if it means the death of every man who will give them their things.

Macedonians Seek Revenge.

Execution of the seven accused murderers by process of law is the move now sought by the Macedonians, and for which they will pour forth their funds as needed. All of the accused men have been supplied with attorneys, and are standing mute. None of them will implicate another, even in hope of exculpating himself. The problem which now confronts the authorities is to establish the body of the crime by convincing the jury, even if it means the death of every man who will give them their things. They justify the raid of Atiam's party as an act of legitimate warfare, as the Macedonians justify the vendetta, even if it means the death of every man who will give them their things.

Back From Tour of Contry, C. N. McArthur Prefers Home.

"No other state that I visited equals Oregon in climate, soil, resources and natural beauty," declared C. N. McArthur, ex-speaker of the Oregon Legislature and private secretary to Governor Beason, here on his return from a tour of the East and South. Among the prominent cities visited by Mr. McArthur were New Orleans, New York, Washington, New York, Montreal, Louisville and St. Louis, returning to his native state via Denver. Mr. McArthur refused to discuss either politics or his future plans. He visited the Legislatures of three states—Colorado, Tennessee and New York—while the lawmakers were in session.

"Thousands of people from throughout the East and South are coming to Oregon," said Mr. McArthur. "The trains are running in two and three sections and all are crowded. One station agent in a Georgia town told me that during the week before last he had seen more than 500 people from the East who preferred the extreme climatic conditions that obtain in the West to have them, but it is Oregon for me."

SHARP CURVE UPSETS HIM

Mastering of bad roads and deep ruts on high speed gave "Tex" Schurman confidence enough to tackle the famous Brickyard turn on Barnes road at high speed in yesterday's hill-climb and endurance run of the Portland Motorcycle Club, bringing him to grief on the far end of an "S" curve. Riding without sense of fear, Schurman took the lower grades of the hill-climb at terrific speed and gained 1 minute and 25 seconds on his rivals in the seven-horsepower class.

GOVERNOR EXPECTED TO FILL NEW PORT COMMISSION.

When the members of the new Board organized recently, the employment of an attorney to take the case into court was authorized, but following the announcement made by Governor West that he would give the members of the old Board the appointment by the old Board until today to determine whether they would accept the appointment, it was mutually understood that no further action would be taken until the Governor acted.

LEGAL CRISIS IMPENDING

Neither Old Nor New Body Will Transact Much Business Until Issue Is Settled in Court As to New Laws.

Appointments of three new members of the Port, Portland Commission are due today from Governor West to fill the places made vacant by the refusal of Messrs. Wheelwright, Almsworth and Adams to accept appointments to the new Commission.

The appointment of the new members of the Commission will have a tendency to bring to a crisis at an early date the controversy concerning the validity of the new law, which abolishes the appointment and authorizes the appointment of the new Board.

EAST SIDE WOULD INITIATE CITY OWNERSHIP.

Officials Already Have Power to Reduce Cost by Withholding Work, Says Mr. Menefee.

A movement has been started on the East Side to submit an initiative measure to empower the city to establish a municipal paving plant. The purpose of the advocates of this measure is to get it on the ballot at the June election. It is urged that if the city owned a paving plant it could compel a material reduction of the cost of paving in Portland.
