RUSHLIGHT PACT SEEN BY LOMBARD

"Inner Circle" of Council, He Avers, Wants to Hold to Present Order.

SUPPORT THEORY IS HELD

Following Attack on Bushlight, Opponents of Lombard Find Selfish Motives for His Attitude Toward Street Paving.

Turning his rapid fire guns tempor arily on Rushlight, one of his Republican opponents for the Mayorulty nomination. Gay Lombard yesterday declared that the support of the East Side man for Mayor by members of the inner circle" of the Council is in puruance of a pre-election understanding between Rushlight and those Councilmen who are now "under fire." Lombard declares that Rushlight is being actively supported by Baker, Belding, Concannon, Kubli and Driscoll.

"In this connection it is a significan fact that every one of these Councilmen Is seeking re-election," said Mr. Lom bard yesterday. "The query naturally suggests itself, why are they all lined up in support of Rushlight? The reason is not difficult to ascertain. This combination of Councilmen is support ing Rushlight for the simple reason that they desire his election as Mayor along with their own re-election in or der that they may perpetuate the ex-Isting conditions in the Council.

"Present Order" to Be Maintained.

"They realize that with themselve returned to the Council and Rushlight in the Mayor's chair they will be able to continue the present order of things These Councilmen have either received from Rushlight, in consideration for their support, the assurance that he will not oppose their game or realize that they can run things to suit them selves with or without Eushlight's con sent should be be elected Mayor.

"It is entirely reasonable to assume that Baker, Driscoll, Kubii et al are not supporting Rushlight unselfishly They undoubtedly have some object in whew. That object was made the consideration of the understanding that unquestionably already has been reached and subscribed to by the Councilmen referred to and Rushlight. No other interpretation can be placed to the present situation. The game is not hard to see through and it will not deceive the people of Portland. The record of these Councilmen individually shows what each stands for Their indorsement of Rushlight for Mayor carries with it his acquiescence in their programme, what they have stood for and what may be expected of them as Councilmen in the future.

Voters Must Be Alert.

This state of affairs should serve further to impress on the voters of this city the imperative need for being awake to the situation. They must be on the alert in selecting their Council-men. independently of whom they choose for Mayor, if the present de-plorable conditions in our city adminpossibility of corrupting influence as it is now wielded by public service corporations in municipal affairs. Unless the right character of men are elected to the Council, no relief from present conditions can be expected."

Replying to Lombard's attack on embers of the Council, Councilmen taker and Kubli yesterday charged combard with having private interests which he furthered during his service in the Council. They compiled statistics from the city records showing that Lombard introduced more resolutions for street work during his term as Councilman than any other member. The same figures show that over $300,000 of bonds were supplied paving contractors by the Oregon Surety & Casualty Company, of which Lombard president. Answering this charge, Lombard said yesterday that the company referred to by Baker and Kubli is in no sense a "get-rich-quick" project, having at no time since its organization declared a dividend. "Next month," said Mr. Lombard, "we expect to declare a divi-dend of $1300 which is 1 1-2 per cent." Associated with Mr. Lombard in the are Henry Ladd Orange M. Clark and C. Hunt Lewis.

Railway to Emphasize Im-, portance of Industry.

BOOKLET TO BE SENT OUT

Long Haul of Meat Products Is Unnatural, Says R. B. Miller, and Oregon Should Produce Its Own Supply.

To encourage hog-raising among the farmers of Oregon and Washington the O.-W. R. & N. Company has spent of the year and is preparing to dis-tribute even greater amounts in the belief that hog husbandry, more than anything else, will aid in the rapid development of the agricultural regions of the Northwest. Probably the most elaborate scheme yet adopted to point out the many ad-vantages of bog-breeding in the state is the publication of a neat 20-page booklet, well illustrated, which is on the press and which will be mailed to farmers and prospective farmers in Oregon and other parts of the country next week booklet was edited by D. O. Lively, manager of the Union Stock-yards, and others. It was prepared under the direction of R. B. Miller, traffic manager of the railroad, who first pointed out the neglect of the hog industry in the state and the seem-ing mad rush of farmers and city men alike to grow rich by fruit-raising.

Industry Means Profit.

"Because there is good money in fruit-raising everyone now wants to go into that business," said Mr. Miller yesterday. "I can't understand why they are overlooking the fact that there is money, and probably more money, in hog-raising. This is a serious subject with me and I am mighty anxious to see that it gets some attention from others. The future prosperity of the state depends upon it more than most of us lave any idea.

"Here we are spending millions of dollars every year for hogs shipped in from Nebraska and Kansas, when we should be producing those pigs ourselves. Not only that, but we should be produced the state of t be growing them for export to other states. Oregon, if it wants to, can produce almost enough pork to supply the Nation.

"Although the railroads get a long haul on hogs shipped into Portland from the Middle West and thereby de-rive more freight revenue than on a short haul from the interior of the state, it is undesirable business for us. We would rather do the short-haul business. The long haul is an unuatural movement and sooner or later must adjust itself to natural conditions. The natural condition in this instance is for Oregon to produce enough pork for its own use, at least. That's the reason we are eager to establish that condition as soon as possible."

Dairying Important, Too.

Next to hog-raising, Mr. Miller ts copies will be used in mailing one to every farmer on the O.-W. R. & N. Company main and branch lines. Through much effort the traffic department has obtained the name of every farmer living on these roads and has prepared a mailing list. In many cases canvassers were sent into the field so that no farmer might be neglected. The local commercial bodies and public officials also aided in supplying names. lying names.

HEIGHTS TUNNEL WANTED

Tualatin Valley Residents Inquire Into Feasibility of Plan.

Ten per cent of the acreage which yould be benefited by a tunnel under Council Crest, connecting Portland with the Tualatin Valley, was represented at a meeting held last night in the Raleigh schoolhouse. The 38 persons present expressed themselves as in favor of asking the City Council to appoint a commission to determine the feasibility of the tunnel, and to suggest ways and of the tunnel, and to suggest ways and means of legally bonding the 5000 acres of property which would be benefited. A petition to this effect, addressed to the council, was signed by those property owners present, and will be circulated throughout the district.

Two more meetings will probably beheld next week, one at Garden Home and another at Hillsdale.

An area of 10 square miles would bear the expense of the tunnel if one were put through. The City Engineer were put through. The City Engineer made a rough estimate of the cost made a rough estimate of the cost about a year ago, and decided it would be less than $1,000,000. Property owners would be largely benefited by the increased value of their property by the lessening of the mileage to Portland. Whether a tunnel could be constructed for vehicles, pedestrians and trains is a question which the property owners desire the commission to be appointed by the City Council to decide.

SOCK HUES CLASH

Lincoln High Students Appear in Flaming Hosiery.

EVEN GIRLS WEAR THEM

Every Conceivable Combination of Colors, Adorned by Flashy Garters. Is Used by Rooters in Classes and at Game.

Polka-dot socks, barber-pole socks heckerboard socks and socks of almost very conceivable color and combination of colors and varying degrees of loudness were in evidence at Lincoln High School resterday in honor of the opening of the baseball season. In one instance a sock was worn as a necktle. So extravagant were the ideas of some sock-wearers that members of the faculty hesitated as to admitting them to class rooms. Even a few of the young women students joined in the celebration by wearing attentionattracting hosiery.

The result of the opening game-Lincoln, 5; Jefferson, 4—the boys of the former school believe was a reward for their initiative in thinking of such a novel way of celebrating the advent of the season. The students, still wearing their variegated hosiery, congregated on the side lines and cheered their nine on to viology.

Olson wore pink silk garters ornamented with huge rosettes on a pair of blue stockings with huge polka dots. Sherman Harkson created a sensation by display-ing flesh-colored socks of the chorus-girl style with a pair of huge slik garers just below his knees. Harkson were a pair of cardinal socks with polka dots almost as large as sau-cers and the initials L. H. S. embroidered in white. Ridehalge, the yell leader, brought to view one flame-colored sock and one purple sock when he arose at 9 o'clock to address a meeting on the necessity of rooting. Other school ora-tors, clad in loud socks and with trous-ers elevated so as to permit of none of the effect being wasted, also harangued the crowd.

The general plan of the students was not to have the sock on one leg correspond with that on the other. They succeeded remarkably well. Combinations of noisy checkerboard and polka dot and barber-pole and light yellow proved par-ticularly effective if the attention which they attracted may be taken as a crit-erion. Sid Laswell made the hit of the day by shedding his necktle and substituting a nock of extravagant colors.

ROTARY CLUBS COMING

CONVENTION WON BY PORT-LAND; VOTE IS CLOSE.

Kansas City Has Better of Contest Until Last Day-Date Probably Will Be in August.

Portland has won the National convention of the Rotary Clubs of America, to be held next August. It was decided in Chicago yesterday by a vote of the board of directors of six for Portland and four for Kansas City. A vigorous contest has been waged by the two places for the meeting and until yesterday, morning the vote stood. Since the first announcement of the company's intention to issue the book- let was made through The Oregonian several weeks ago inquiries for copies of it have been received from every part of the country, showing the wide-spread interest in Oregon.

Mr. Miller said yesterday that the first copies would be placed in the mails some time next week.

and by C. C. Chapman, manager of the Portland Commercial Club. The news came in a telegram from R. W. Raymond, manager of the Portland convention bureau, who is in Chicago. Mr. Raymond told the story of the contest in the following language:

Yesterday the ballot which was being taken by mail steed four to three in favor of Kansas City. Got busy on the wire with the result that the two delinquent ballots of the National Board of Directors came in this morning. Then the discovery was made that by the constitution at least six votes must be given for any one city to insure a choice. President Harris gave the deciding vote this afternoon. The directors voting for Portland were from Chicago, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland. Those who favored Kansas City were New Orleans, Boston, St. Louis and Kansas City. President Harris will designate the dates later. It cannot be held within 90 days from date. It is hoped it may be held before July 10, so that the low convention rates can be secured on the railroads, President Harris and Secretary Parry favor August. However, no decision will be reached until a telegram is received from President Edwards, of the Portland Club.
