Fullerton Cries for Help.

None of the Vernons thought they None of the Vernous to duck soup were going to get a lot of duck soup after breakfast this morning. Mo-Credie stuck in Young Fullerton to wait on the table. As soon as this one began to bring on things, the Vernons started to sling 'em around the room and he hadn't made half the round of the table before he had to yell out to the kitchen for help.

He managed to fan Ross, the first one he reached at the head of the table, but the next four in line took a punch at him and he soaked the sixth one in the back. About this time he began to cry and McCredie hurriedly yanked him out and put in Ariett. Ariett stuck until after the start of the fifth, when he began to give Brashear a base on balls. McCredie quickly chased him and put in Steen, who hung ou to the ninth, when Mac chased in Seaton, who lost the game for Portland.

By way of a contest the afternoon performance was a peach. Hit heaved a dandy game for Vernon. Two singles and a sacrifice was the best the Beavers could do with him. Archer started for Portland and did well for the first two innings. In the third the Vernous raised up and fell upon him for two triples, a single and a McCredie hurriedly yanked h him for two triples, a single and a long fly, that scored two runs. An-other in the fourth came from a double and a single. The fourth resulted from two singles, a sacrifice and an error and the final started with a hit Pitcher and a steal and ended with Coy's, slam to left. Fullerton was Archer's rescuer in the fifth. The Beavers were never dangerous either before or after the fourth.

More than 2500 fans saw the afterneon game. The principal fielding feature of the morning's game war
McDonnell's left handed catch of Peck-McLeannest's left handed catch of Peck-inspaugh's fly back of short in the sev-enth inning, while the afternoon game showed Ross making the same kind of a catch against the left fence of Rapp's long fly in the seventh inning.

GAMES ARE PLAYED IN MUD

At home and abroad the Roadsters were victorious yesterday, the regular division of Nick Williams' squad defeating "Red" Rupert's Eschles bunch with a score of 15 to 2 at the Vaughn Street grounds and the reserve nine hammering out a 12 to 2 victory at Vancouver, where the season opened with an automobile parade and all the frills which go to make up a regular "opening."

Rain interfered more or less with both games, but between the showers the sun shone brilliantly and players were able to snatch out enough time in both cities to complete the alloted nine innings. The many Vancouver fans who say the game were given a treat to a batfest such as is rarely seen. The Portland sluggers met the ball squarely and drove it to all corners of the field, ran bases like demons and fielded beautifully. Errors by the amateurs to the number of 11 marred the game and helped pile up a big score for the Roadster Reserves. There was a big crowd in attendance at the local game and Williams' men here too showed their prowess with the bat.

Wet Ball Doesn't Hurt.

Strange to say, the wet ball and slippery ground did not bother the players to any great extent, although several boots" came from that source. Stovall nade Portland's only miscue when he dropped Rupert's high fly to right field in the fourth inning. It was a costly muff, however, permitting Briggs to score from second after two were out. The Eschles tossers were charged with five "boots."

There was no especial "class" to the There was no especial class to the game other than the hard poling of the ball by Williams' men. They took kindly to the horsehide as dished up to them by Messrs Hyde and Harlow and them by Messrs Hyde and Harlow and landed 15 safe bingles, five of which were good for two bases each.

The men have been meeting the ball hard and stand up to the plate nicely. Excepting yesterday's game, when eight men whisted, but a few have struck out. Another testimonial to the way the men are meeting the ball is shown by the small number of assists made by the Eschies team. Most of the putouts in the field were after line drives had been caught.

Stovall Day's Star.

Jerse Stovall, the ex-Vernon center annual drill exhibition for her department, was the best producer for ment in the men's gymnasium here williams yesterday, getting three hits Williams yesterday, getting three hits and three runs out of as many trips to the plate. He was taken with a chill in the game and quit, Mundorff substituting for him. Asher Houston, playing third for the losing side yesterday, also stung the hall hard, making three hits out of four times up, one of which was a two-sacker to deep center field.

Red Rupert pulled off the feature Red Rupert pulled off the teature stunt of the day. Although much over weight, he made a dandy long run and pulled in Casey's skier along the right field foul line. Rupert sprinted about 50 yards and hooked the ball with his outstretched hands.

Runs Begin in Third.

For two innings and a half the game went along nicely, each side being re-tired runless. But in the last half of the third the heavy hitting of the Roadsters came into prominence and before the cannonading was stopped five hits and six runs had been record-ed. The following inning another was made. There was nothing doing in the fifth, but in the sixth after Eschies had made a two-hit and a sacrifice, the bombardment began again and before bombardment began again and before the smoke cleared away five more scores were across the pan. Two more were made in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Williams worked Baldwin, formerly with St. Louis: Bloomfield, last year with the Beavers, and Jesse Garrett in the order named. The men took things the order named. The men took things easy and lobbed the ball over, the visiors getting nine hits as a consequence.

This afternoon, weather permitting, the Roadsters will play the Lincoln High School a practice game. Tuesday afternoon Whitman College, on its way to Corvallis and Eugene, will play the Northwestern team, and on Wednesday the Mulmomah Amateur Athletic Club nine will be the contestants. Following is the score of yesterday's game: This afternoon, weather permitting PORTLAND.
