There were plenty who believed Wiltoused it to Bonner, who had awkwardly loped to the plate.

Bonner's Swipe Starts It.

Bonner made a swipe at Speas, who had hit the dirt, and the ball, according to several hundred self-appointed um pires in the stands, and missed Speas by a foot or more. Umpire Longanecker made the guess that Speas was touched out, refused to change his conviction and right there was where Williams got into the argument and presently

The work of the Roadsters was not up to standard. Thompson dropped a fly in the outfleid and Garrett and Harris made wild heaven. Garrett was treatenedy also, and got the team in a fiele too often. Portland's run was accomplished by Garrett, who made a third strike at a wild pitch that went to the stand, stole second and scored on a two-base swat.

rounds Murphy tired and McFarland toyed with him.

The first round gave indications of a good fight. In the second Murphy brought a roar of applause when he sent a victous left to the wind, staggering McFarland and sending him to the ropes. But Murphy's lend was shortlived. McFarland came back with a smile and from then on Murphy never had a chance. Murphy fought victously, doggedly, but he was unable to pass McFarland's guard. the fight, and gave an exhibition of foot-work and blocking that brought cheers. With a right and left to the face he sent Murphy to the ropes and followed his advantage with another dose of the same medicine. Murphy strug-gled to break through McFarland's guard but was unable to reach him. Throughout the remaining rounds Mc-Farland forced Murphy, landing stinging rights and lefts.
