Eddie Klein in the initial inning of the first ladies day game of the season yesterday. Portland managed to nose out the heavy-hitting Angelic crowd by a score which eventually read 8 to 6 in the champions favor.

It was a thrilling game despite the big lead the Beavers acquired in the opening frame, for the Angels soon made such strong advances under the handleap that Koestner, who started for Portland, was almost continually in trouble. He was hit hard and often by the Seraphs and when the visitors brought their total score to within three of the home team's total McCredie derricked the tail twirler and substituted Charley Fullerton. Fullerton lacked control and the scoring of another run, giving the Angels six, caused McCredie to change twirlers again, Benny Henderson going in to stem the tide. And he did, disposing of the visiting band in grand style.

Klein Is Pounded.

Klein Is Pounded.

Right off the reel, the Beavers took kindly to Eddle Klein's offerings and the youngster was tapped hard and often. Chadbourne opened with a single to left center. Byan bunted and when Akin tossed to center field because no one was covering second. Chadbourne scored and Ryan brought up at midstation. Sheehan doubted up at midstation. Sheehan doubled over Charley Moore's head, scoring Byan. Then followed a bombardment. Krueger and Rapps singled, Peckinpangh sacrificed and Rodgers tripled

This gave Portland five runs and Criger was substituted for Klein. Murray signed and a wild pitch and a double steal with Chadbourne stealing second and third and Murray the plate. swelled the total to seven tallies.

The Beavers scored another in the fourth. Ryan doubling to center, and scoring on a duet of sacrifices.

The Angels commenced pounding Kestner in the second and third innings when they scored one run in each frame. In the fifth they put two over, frame. In the fifth they put two over, and in the seventh Krueger's perfect toos of Stadelle's fly caught the speedy Daley at the plate and saved a run at that period.

In the eighth. Koestner slapped Smith, the first man up, in the slats, but Criger forced the catcher at second. Akin lammed out his third hit of the game, scoring Criger, and when Melzger followed with a single, Koestner was flagged and Full-riton substituted. Moore walked, filling the bases, and Daley's fly to Ryan tallied Akin. Dillon walked and again the sacks Dillon walked and again the sacks were loaded.

In the ninth Benny retired the Angels in order and another victory was an-nexed by the Boavers.

Breakfast Food for Fans

MANAGER MCREDIE is following a policy of "derricking" his pitchers | the moment signs of weakening are; displayed, and yesterday he not only took Koestner out, but also Fullerton. McCredie believes in sentiment attached to baseball, but not where pitchers are concerned. He is out to win and says that he will use five pitchers or more, if necessary, to win a game will begin at 2:30 P. M. The game will begin at 2:30 P. M. The game.

who started to pitch for the Angels yesterday, has the distinction of hav-ing shut the Portland team out with one lone hit during the series at Los Angeles, but yesterday the Beavers had their revenge.

Hardly any other player in the league, with the possible exception of Pete Daley, would have been able to hook three sacks on the same kind of a drive made by Bill Rodgers in the first inning yesterday. Bill sure can run the bases, and so can Daley.

Pets Daley is one of the warmest admirers of Portland in the league. The speedy little Angeleno center fielder started boosting Portland to his team-At this juncture McCredie derricked business and the new Beavers as well during the series opening week at Los Angeles, and new he struts around a fig. to Ryan and the danger was over. And they all agree with him.

Terry McKune, a former outlaw, has hooked up with Happicus Hogan and his Vernen outfit. Terry is likely to supplant McDonell at shortstop for the Hooligans. McKune is eligible to play on the Vernen club under the ruling which permits Henderson, Sheehan and United to play with Poerland.

With two men out in the fifth inning and Daley on first by virtue of a ticket issued by Koestner, Dillon whanged one to deep right. Chadbourne would have made a sensational catch of the drive had it not been for the canvass "rain protectors" piled against the in-closure, which well-night tripped him just as he reached the ball

Buddy Ryan pulled a corking two-bagger along the right field line off Elmer Criger in the fourth inning, and this was the only Bingle Buddy was able to collect off the two Angel southpaw twirlers. Ryan is trying to get a bat that suits him, for he broke his favorite stick against the Oakland pitchers last Sunday and has not been able to replace it with a satisfactory

"Romeo" Krueger distinguished him-self with a couple of "blows" yester-day, and they were good, clean hits, which means that the big "Dutchman" has his eye on the ball and will commence clouting at his old speed from now on. Krueger is one of the best batsmen in the league, but has been hitting "out of luck" recently.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COL-LEGE, Corvallis, Or., April 21.—(Special.)—Forty-five gridiron candidates appeared on the campus today to take their initial workout under Coach Doiah. This will mark the first attempt at this institution to do anything like extensive Spring footbail practice.

The men will be given work three times a week. The practice will be devoted to handling the forward pass, which Coach Dolan is very anxious to Characterizes Game.

LOS ANGELES, Cal. April 21.—Vernon played hard today to make it four straight, but lost to Oakland 9 to 5. Heavy hitting, fast fielding and good base running marked the game which Coach Dolan is very anxious to perfect. The men will also be given work in kicking and some of the simpler formations. Dolan expresses himself as very much pleased with the large number of men who have turned out in response to his call for new material.

a 7 to 4 victory in easy fashion because the rest of the team was particularly effective with the pole at the right time. Now and again Strand got the wagon into a rut, but pulled out with only a little creaking.

He was aided in no small degree by the wagon kongue of Frisk, who leaned the wood against a fast ball in the fourth inning with two men on bases and landed that Spalding ball so far that he roosted on third base before it reached the infield again. Strang, who appears to have the earmarks of a comer, had about everything a pitcher's should have; curves, change of pace, command and speed unlimited. Now and again he contributed a wild pitch just to show his versatility. Two of these wild pitches gave Portland opportunity to score.

He Hit Hard When Needed.

Strand also contributed three safe hits, all of them sizzlers, and he made almost enough runs to win the game. Hence the contest was a Strand affair. Outside his pitching and the timely hitting of Frisk and Nordyke, the game was devoid of incident. Portland had an off day in the field, not playing together like the seasoned machine of the Indians.
