CANDIDATES ALL PLAN BUSY WEEK

Remaining Five Days of Campaign to Be Continual Round of Meetings.

CHOICE MADE SATURDAY

Lombard Continues to Demand Debate With Rushlight, Who Promises Early Statement Defining Position.

The final guns in what is proving the most spectacular municipal campaign Portland has witnessed in many years will be fired Friday night. It will not be until Saturday that the people will have their say. In the primary elechave their say. In the primary election, which will be held that day, the electors will determine the candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties for the city election of June 5. The polls for Saturday's nominating election will be open from noon until 7 P. M.
Interest in the pending campaign has centered largely around the three Republican candidate for the nomination for Mayor. With the verdict of the people six days away, each of the three aspirants is professedly certain of win-ning. From the beginning of the fight Rushlight and Werlein have been equally confident. Lombard and his friends have not been optimistic until within the last two or three days, when the chances of the ex-Councilman have improved wonderfully. Lombard has increased in strength substantially forceased in strength substantially during the last ten days, and if he keeps up his present strides into popular favor, he admittedly will have better than an even chance for the Republican nomination next Saturday.

Candidates All Busy.

The remaining five days of the cam-paign will be utilized, every minute of them, by each of the three candidates for Mayor. The programme of joint de-bates between Werlein and Lombard has been carried out, and they will not has been carried out, and they will not appear on the same platform again during the campaign. Lombard is thirsty, however, for a joint discussion with Bushlight, and today will renew his challenge to the East Side plumber and retiring Councilman for a joint debate. If Bushlight refuses, Lombard will hold individual meatings of the councilman for a point debate.

retiring Councilman for a joint decade.

If Rush'ight refuses, Lombard will hold individual meetings every night in different sections of the city.

The same policy will be pursued by Werlein in concluding a campaign that has come very near sending him to the hospital because of its strenuosity, Rushlight remains sphinx-like, but has announced that he will early this week issue a signed statement of his position on municipal questions, what he has done and what he intends to do for the city if elected. In his statement, Rushlight has intimated he will not only give a satisfactory report of his stewardship as a member of the Council, but at the same time will ask some pertinent questions of his opponent, Lombard.

The sudden and unexpected retirement of H. S. Rowe as general agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul yester-day, started the rumor that he was thinking of entering the contest for Mayor. # ABOUT RESIGNING

Police Chief Under Indictment to See Lawyer Before He Acts.

Mayor Accepts Appointee's Offer to Quit, but Accused Man May Change Mind-Grand Jury

Work to Continue.

A. M. Cox' resignation as Chief of A. M. Cox resignation as chief of Police in Portland is due this morning, according to an announcement made by that official following a conference with Mayor Simon Saturday afternoon. If the resignation is submitted, the Mayor will appoint John T. Moore, head of the detective bureau, acting Chief and Cantain Moore will assume Chief and Captain Moore will assume immediate control of both branches of the department.

An element of uncertainty was in an element of uncertainty was injected into the situation yesterday by Chief Cox. Since his offer to resign was accepted by Mayor Simon, soon after the Chief's indictment by the grand jury Saturday afternoon, the head of the police department has considered the situation more thoroughly and now says he desires to consult with his attorney, Ralph E. Moody, be-fore acting. Should Mr. Moody advise Chief Cox not to withdraw from his office, it is possible that the Chief will reverse his decision of Saturday. It is generally believed, however, that Chief Cox will stand by his offer, which was made voluntarily to the Mayor and accepted by that official.

Cox Is Reticent.

When asked yesterday as to what course would be pursued today. Chief Cox expressed unwillingness to discuss subject until he had talked to Mr. Moody. Since his interview with Mayor Simon Saturday afternoon, the Chief of Police has heard from many private friends, some commending what they termed his manly spirit in declining to retain his office while an indictment rested against him, and others con-demning the act on grounds of political expediency.

A consideration which may cause the Chief to waver in his determination, is the indefiniteness as to the date when his cause can be brought to trial. Being dependent upon his earnings, he does not wish to be idle and in suspense for a long period, and may prefer to retain his office while under indictment, if he cannot look forward to a ment, if he cannot look forward to a speedy vindication or conviction in the State Circuit Court.

District Attorney Cameron said yesterday that the case could scarcely be brought to trial before June, on account of a lack of open dates. He said his office was ready to proceed with the trial as soon as there was an open. the trial as soon as there was an op-portunity. Prospect of a delay of this length is viewed with disfavor by Chief Cox, who expressed hope for a much earlier disposition of his case. It is probable that his attorneys will work for advancement of the case on the

'The Chief of Police and all city officials charged with enforcement of police regulations and laws in any city might be indicted, if the precedent of this grand jury were carried out," said an old member of the force last night. 'We read of the existence of the social evil in the book of Genesis and we read of it in the newspapers today. I fail to see where the world has grown better or worse since the first book in the Bible was written. "One thing seems strange about the indictment of Chief Cox. If the grand jury had in its possession such a long list of disorderly houses and the evilist of disorderly houses and the evidence, why did it not also indict the keepers of those houses? The whole circumstances of the indictments show that the Chief is being made a 'goet' and that is all there is to it. I hope the Chief will not resign and if he does, that his resignation will not be accepted. The department is standing behind him to a man so far as I have been able to learn, and I have managed to get all along the line. That fact is sufficient to absolve the Chief from responsibility which, he is charged with shirking by the grand jury indictment. No jury will find the Chief guilty, so why should he resign?"
