SEALS FALL UPON M'CREDIE'S TEAM

First Clash of Season With San Francisco Disastrous for Champions.

HENDERSON KNOCKED OUT

After Heavy Hitting of Enemy Compels Retirement, Benny Long's Men Get More Tallies Off

of Fullerton.

BAN FRANCCISCO, May 2.—(Special.) Playing San Francisco for the first ime this season, with Henley in the ox after a full week's rest. Waiter Mo-redie today saw Benny Henderson, one his twiriers, ignominiously batted out the hox, and then writted in silent cony while the Scals went along gath-agony while the Seals went along gathering in more runs off Fullerton. Thanks to a let-down by Henley, or a batting rally by the Beavers, the Oregon delegation did not quit the game scoreless, but they were so far behind that their two runs to the eight of Ban Francisco hardly counted; it was the same old-story—a lot of hitting for the locals and smashes that came close enough together to count mightily in the getting of tailies, and a trio more of the bingles in the fourth for two more scores assisted Benny back to the bench. Fullerton shut down on the bitting capacity of the men who faced him, but he could not locate the plate and that, with an error in left, was responsible for the further tailying plate and that, with an error in left, was reaponsible for the further tallying of the Californians, who are so close to the leaders that another victory to-morrow afternoon would puncture that commanding position of the Beavers. Henley was in just enough trouble all the way to keep the game interesting, but until Tommy Tennant started the elanth by dropping a throw across the diamond, the San Francisco right-hander was not scored on. That inning, however, sew the Beavers take a brace and their three hits with the one error explains how they scored twice.

The lop-sided score doesn't by any means show the Beavers off to the best advantage. Their hits, not quite up to those of the locals, came in bunches at times, but as they were usually with two down, it reduced their chances of sending men around the sacks. The ending men around the sacks.

Ever since February Shaw has been dickering with Danny Long relative to money matters, for the player believed he was entitled to a raise, citing the fact that he led the league in batting. This distinction is generally credited to Artis Krueger, of the Portland team, but Shaw participated in many more games than did the Portland outfielder. Shaw also refuses to play infield any more, and, as he has come to an ami-cable agreement with Long, it is likely that he has won his point, for the Scals are badly in need of an outfielder who gan hit the ball once in a while, and Shaw seems to possess this qualifica-

According to advices from Tacoma, Fred Annis, the Tiger southpaw twirler, who deserted the team shortly before the Northwestern League season epened, is about to come back into the fold. Like most left handers, Annis is eccentric. He became "peeved" at acceptabling several weeks ago and something several weeks ago and deserted Schreeder's camp.

Some Cleveland scribes are touting Gus Fisher, the catcher with the Champion Beavers last year, as an out-fielder. Fisher has been pressed into service as a pinch hitter by the "Naps" on several occasions and made so good that some of the "dopesters", advocate the making of an outfielder of him in order that he may play regularly, for he has little chance of becoming a regular Eddie Hallinan, the Angel thirdsacker of last season, seems to have beaten Frank Truesdale out of the utility job for St. Louis Browns. Truesdale formerly played second base for the Oakland club and has been turned over to Buffalo in the Eastern League, while Hallinan has been retained by St.

The Portland Northwest squad now numbers 17 men, as follows: Catchers, Harris and Snooks; pitchers, Archer, Tonneson, southpaws, and Berger, Lamline, Garrett, Bloomfield, right-handers; infielders, Williams, Casey, Mensor, Mundorff; outfielders, Speas, Ort, Miller, Stovall and Gough.

Ort to Be Retained.

Williams calculates to keep six pitchers through the season, so if San Francisco succeeds in getting waivers on Browning and he joins the Roadsters, another scaip will have to come. Ort will undoubtedly be retained in the utility role, but one of the outfield quartet. Stovall, Speas, Miller and Gough, will be forced to walk the plank before June 1.
