

MEN OF LEARNING EASY FOR FAKERS

Rev. Norman Plass, Head of Mining Company, Says So in Advertising.

MINISTER ADVISED CAUTION

Pastor Charged With Urging Buyers to Look Out for Worthless Promoters While He Was Selling Valueless Stock.

BOSTON, June 6.—College presidents and professional men generally invest their money judiciously for the reason that they are thoroughly absorbed in their professional work and do not take time to look into investments.

This is the sentiment alleged to have been written by the Rev. Norman Plass, head of the Redoubt Investment Company, to the Rev. George E. Ladd, of Colorado, in 1910.

Mr. Ladd was on the witness stand at the opening of the trial of the mail fraud charges preferred by the postal authorities against three officers of the company in the United States District Court today.

On cross-examination his work in that line he had decided, Plass wrote, to help professional men to make judicious investments. He requested the witness to read the pamphlets enclosed in the letter, and to let him know what he thought of the proposition.

The witness testified that he purchased $100 worth of redeemable stocks and on hearing of the raid by the postal authorities, asked to have his stocks redeemed. He received, in exchange, he said, $100 worth of Santo Domingo Mining Company stocks.

George W. Mitchell, postmaster of South Britain, Conn., told the jury he met Plass in his home in 1909 and invested in the redeemable stock. Plass stated in a letter to the witness that the vice-president of the company had invested $100,000 cash in the Santo Domingo Mining Company, and that over $1,000,000 worth of gold was at that time on the dump at the mine.

Company Was Never Bonded. James W. Mitchell, manager of the National Surety Company of New York, testified that application for bonding the company was made in 1909, but that the papers were never signed.

DRUG LAW TO BE AMENDED Opinion of Supreme Court Compels Change Regarding Statements.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Informal conference was held shortly by Senators who wish so to amend the pure food and drug act of 1906 as to make it apply to misstatements about the curative effect of medicines, as well as misstatements about the ingredients. The Supreme Court of the United States, on May 23, held that the law did not prohibit misstatements as to curative effects. No amendment to the act has yet been introduced in the Senate for the reason that Senator Hughes, despite dissenting opinion of Justice Hughes, which was not available until today, it is probable that Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, will introduce the amendment.

WOOL REPORT MADE

House Committee Takes Rap at Taft at Outset.

EXTRAVAGANCE IS CHARGED Democrats Say It Made Duty on Raw Wool Necessary—Republicans Say Measure Coldblooded—Debate Will Be Long and Hot.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The long-expected wool tariff bill was introduced in the House of Representatives today by Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee. Debate on the bill will begin in earnest tomorrow.

The measure was accompanied by a lengthy report from the Democrats of the committee, in its favor, while the Republican members, headed by Representative Payne, of New York, unanimously reported against it.

Indications are that the passage of the bill will be stubbornly contested. Sharply criticizing President Taft, the Republicans and the tariff board, the majority report quotes President Taft's address after the passage of the Payne-Aldrich bill, in which he declared that the woolen schedule is indefensible and I propose to say so.

The report deals at some length with the attitude of the Administration in not communicating to Congress data on the "woolen trust" and other industries now being investigated, and the failure of the tariff board to communicate data on the woolen industry.

The committee insists, as the Democratic caucus did, that the duty "is not to be construed as an abandonment of any Democratic policy." It says that Republican extravagance makes it necessary to maintain the revenue at approximately the total of the fiscal year 1910.

All the Democratic members of the committee, with the exception of Francis Burton Harrison, of New York, signed the report. The minority report is signed by Representatives Payne, Dainoff, Needham and Longworth.
