Festivities to Continue.

Visitors from near and far continued pouring into the city with every train and all are being accommodated at the hotels and at private residences. People are coming and going by thousands from Puget Sound points, from all over Oregon, from various points on the Coast and even from the Middle West and Eastern states.

From now on the round of festival existy will continue without lanea. Today will prove another busy day with the decorated automobile parade and the Rose Show as the principal feat-The rose display at the Armory will continue into the night.

Tomorrow's great event will be the decorated horse and vehicle parade, in which more millions of roses will be used in decorative effects on traps, coaches, tallyhos and vehicles and horses of every sort. This procession, as the entry lists already indicate, will several miles in length.

It was said that this is no sudden attack, but rather a gradual dissolution due to old age. Dr. Bigslow is in his 94th year.

He returned from a trip abroad on April 36, and on May 24 spoke at the opening of the new public library in New York City. The following day he went to his Summer home. "The Squirreis." here he started to work on his book of memories, part of which he has already published. He spent Wednesday at his literary la bors, and the present attack In bors, and the present attack came that evening. His two sons and daughter are with him.

was brought to my ears that a rumor had been stagted to the effect that I was fighting the church and had made up my mind to remain as pastor, regardless of what happened Such could not be further from the truth, but, as I told the congregation in my resignation, I feel that I was called to a ministry of peace, not of belligerency, and therefore believe that my period of usefulness in this church has come to an end."

Pastor to Resume Traching.

Pastor to Resume Teaching.

Mr. Storey was formerly a professor in McMinnville College and expects to resume teaching. He intends to take up high school work. It seems that the trouble started a

It seems that the trouble started a little more than a year ago, when Mr. Storey attended the dedication of the new Christian Church. At that time he participated in the communion service and thereby committed a grievous affense in the eyes of L. E. Penland, deacon, and one or two other "hard-shalled" close-communion Bantist war. shalled" close-communion Baptist mem-shelled" close-communion Baptist members of his congregation.

Later he occupied the pulpit of the Christian Church one Sunday in the absence of the regular pastor. Since that time he has occupied the pulpits of every Evangelist Church in this city, According to Deacon Penland, this was not to be tolerated, and he proceeded to line up the reactionary members of the congregation who decided that Mr. Storey was not a Baptist.

Close Communion Opposed.

Deacon Penland and his followers not only objected to their pastor par-ticipating in the communion service at another church, but they also object-ed to members of any other church pared to members of any other church par-ticipating in the communion service of the Baptist Church. They insisted that the pastor dismiss the congregation on communion days and administer the service to Baptists only. Mr. Storey refused to do this, declaring that the church no longer held to the close-communion theory and that it was for each person individually to decide whether he was qualified to partici-pate in the service.

whether he was qualified to participate in the service.

Rev. Mr. Storey, who has been one of the mest popular pastors in the city, has been an aggressive progressive in all church work. He has graded the Sunday school until it is one of the most down-to-date in the Northwest and has insisted on the church's finances being conducted in business-like manner and on a cash basis. This has antagonized the "hard-shelled" part of the congregation. The faction has been especially opposed to the organized Sunday school.

"The girl of sixteen whose skin is dark and 'muddy,' or rough or red, or who has wrinkles not sent by Father Time, or hair on lip or cheek, or pim-ples and blotches-how does she compare with the woman that is 'wondrous fair' at forty?

"And the fair woman at forty is with us oftener than we realize. We know when she is fair-but we do not know when she is forty.

"If you would be eatisfied with your complexion, massage your face, arms and neck once a day with a solution made by dissolving a small original package of mayatone in eight ounces

"This treatment is harmless and gives of blemishes, and preventing wrinkles
