French Maid Says Hounding by Kohl's Watchers Made Her Desperate.

WATCH KEPT IN PORTLAND

No Sentimental Reason for Desiring Millionaire's Death, Girl Declares—Kohl's Chances of Recovery Improving.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—(Special.)—Praying fervently that Frederick C. Kohl, whom she shot, might live, Adele Verge, French maid, told today the simple, hysterical reason why she snapped the trigger and nearly ended Kohl's life.

There is nothing sinister, no hidden mystery or deep-dyed villainy in the story of Adele Verge. But there is much that is pitiful—in the loneliness and sensitive pride of a woman, an alien, among strange and unsympathetic people far from home.

Men Always on Watch.

"For two years I have suffered," she said, "always followed, always watched, losing a place as soon as I would get one. They were men, tall, clean-shaven young men in a brown suit, and a smaller one in the grayish green suit with a soft hat. I moved from place to place and they were always after me. I even went to the W. Y. C. A. in Oakland and there the mafiosi said they couldn't follow me, but they did hear them telling her that I wouldn't work—that it was no use to get work for me. Always when I would get a place to work in, I was made to make trouble—and the people I worked for would say they didn't need me any more."

Kohl Much Improved.

As the result of an X-ray examination made to fix the exact location of the bullet, the physicians in charge of the case declare Kohl's chances of recovery are 100 per cent better than they first thought them. Kohl is still at the Adler Sanitarium, where he is steadily improving. The physicians declare it will probably be some time before any attempt is made to remove the bullet, and that it is possible that it may never be removed, if there appears to be no danger of its causing any permanent disability.

WOMAN AND MAN INJURED IN LOS ANGELES COLLISION.

Motorist May Die, but Although She Is Thrown Far, Fair Companion Is but Little Hurt.

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—(Special.)—Traveling at a rate which witnesses admit to have been nearly a mile a minute, a Pacific Electric double-decker crashed into an automobile containing Miss Clara Amon and Walter Gilmore, at the intersection of the beach and Sierra streets, Covina, at 8:00 o'clock this morning.

Gilmore was hurled from the machine to the track, suffering severe cuts and bruises, a ruptured artery in the back and internal injuries. Dr. Jennings, of Azusa, who was summoned to attend him, said tonight that his death may result.

Amon was thrown straight up in the air by the force of the impact, but alighted beyond the range of the car fender. Aside from a shaking up and bad fright, she was unhurt.

The machine was a total wreck and the front of the car, which traveled nearly 1000 feet before it could be stopped, was crushed.

Motorman Watterson and Conductor Brown deny that the electric car was traveling more than 30 miles an hour and assert that they whistled on approaching the crossing, contradicting the two witnesses to the collision. The question will be taken up by the grand jury.

CAGWIN VISITS SCHOOLS

Member of State Board of Control Looking After New Buildings.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 11.—(Special.)—A. E. Cagwin, chairman of the State Board of Control, arrived tonight from Olympia to be present at the opening of the new buildings for the State School for the Deaf, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. He will represent the Board in an official capacity and will deliver an address to the graduating class, which will be translated into the sign language by Thomas P. Clarke, superintendent.

Mr. Cagwin is also looking after the proposed new building for the State School for the Deaf and Blind, about $100,000 this year. Bids for the construction of the new buildings will be opened at Olympia, June 27. The plans are already perfected by Olof Hanson, architect of Seattle, and blueprints and specifications will be out this week.

The buildings at the School for the Deaf will cost approximately $45,000. There will be a dormitory for girls, two stories and a basement. When this is completed the school will have accommodations for 200 pupils. The capacity now is 125. There are 61 girls and 64 boys. At the State School for the Blind a new building to cost approximately $50,000 will be built to the left of the present one.

Mr. Cagwin says that the people of Vancouver have in the past done very little for the two state schools here. Had they worked for larger appropriations for new buildings in the past they would more than likely have secured them.
