New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

AN entertaining bill in a theater that is cool throughout makes life worth living at the Orpheum anyway, this week.

A rip-sporting comedy act, "In and Out," headlines the other good things with Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler as sponsors, aided and abetted by an excellent support of five vaudeville acts.

There's a girl with a giggle—a refreshing wholesome girl and her jolly giggle—who cheers folks considerably with her chatter about her yoked relatives and her own bucolic pleasures.

A Partisan gymnast and trapeze artist is Miss Minnie Emerie, who looks like one of the beautiful advertising pictures in the backs of magazines.

It is "whoop-la" at the Pantages this week. It is the featured act. Funny and at the same time unique and skilful is the hoop rolling of the Kraytons, two men and a woman, who conduct this miniature town "on wheels."

The final exercises of the elementary department of the public school, yesterday morning, this is a new departure. It corresponds to the elementary grades of the public school and the program was given by the various classes of the department.

The dependability of the grill—not open today and closed tomorrow, but open today and night for the past 72 months—has been the favorite dining place in the city by the best people.
