

LOVE SAYS HEAR IT WAS NEVER FICKLE

Wife's Lawyers Cannot Get ex-Broker to Admit He Loved Many Women.

EX-NEW YORKER SCATHING

He Says Spouse and Her Mother smoked 25 or 40 Cigarettes Each, a Day—His Sister Testifies and Plaintiff's Case Rests.

BAKER, Or., June 14.—(Special.)—At the close of a day wherein Mrs. Sidney C. Love's attorneys failed to bring testimony from Love that he had loved many other women while living with his wife, and in which a sister of the plaintiff, Miss Elizabeth Love, testified, the plaintiff's attorneys rested their divorce case. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow morning.

In the course of his testimony Love said that on January 3, 1904, Mrs. Love seized him by the throat and attempted to choke, during a violent fit of rage. He also said that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Frances C. Burns, smoked from 25 to 40 cigarettes a day and that his wife smoked an equal number. He said he paid for them.

Miss Love, sister of the plaintiff, testified that up to the time of her departure for Europe, Mrs. Marjorie Burns Love expressed great love for her husband, and that after she was several days out on the ocean sent a wireless message to him, couched in endearing terms, and signing the baby, "Muriel's name to it. She declared, however, that she thought her sister-in-law's actions were rather queer when she visited her brother and his wife in New York.

Month's Time Granted. Judge Smith granted Mrs. Love a month's time in which to take testimony after the plaintiff was through. "They need it," was the only comment of John L. Rand, Love's attorney. Love was very bitter on the stand against his wife for her alleged infidelity with him in getting his polo trophies, books, furniture and other belongings out of a New York storehouse. He declared he was not interfering with Mrs. Love if she wished to get her things stored there.

"For instance, her appendix is there," he said. "I don't want to keep that although I paid for it."

Attorneys for Mrs. Love tried hard to elicit admissions concerning his relations with four women, but Love's answers were denials. His wife's lawyers said they had the names of 18 other women they were prepared to ask about.

Love Tells of Habits. Love denied that he spent all his nights playing cards in his clubs, declaring that when Mrs. Love was present at the time he did not devote to business was spent with his wife. Love admitted that he often visited the Metropolitan, the Union, the Polo, the Pacquet and other famous New York clubs to which he belonged.

In a letter written by Love to Mrs. Love on Christmas day, 1909, he asked her to come back to him and promised to forgive her. The letter was not couched in loving terms, however. It began: "My Christmas greeting to an unfaithful woman, who shows her gratitude nor truth," and referred to her letter to him in which she had told him to go and clear his name, declaring it "dirty."

Concerning his accusation that his wife tried to shake him, Love said he subsequently wrote her: "Did I turn you out of doors for that? Instead I took you to my arms and nursed you for 15 months."

Mrs. Love Not Envious. The letter closed with the statement that Love did not envy Mrs. Love's lot in the future, for the world does not care for women who desert their husbands in time of stress.

Miss Love was asked by Love's attorney to read a number of letters received by herself and mother from Marjorie Burns Love, Attorney Tusken, for Mrs. Love, objected strenuously and examined the letters very closely. Miss Love read six in all, which were written from Rowant, England, in the summer and autumn of 1909. Each one was full of expressions of her devotion and love to her husband and how happy they were. In several she urged Miss Love and her mother to come home and make their home with them, "where we can all be happy together."

Also, she said, her brother's wife had sent them pictures of the baby taken to her husband's arms and told them how she loved them both and hoped that she could go on forever as it was then.

SOLDIERS PLAN FOURTH

VANCOUVER BARRACKS TO SEE SOME NEW EVENTS.

Athletic Contests and Company Drills to Be Part of Day of Festivities.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., June 14.—(Special.)—Picked athletes from 120 soldiers will compete for cash prizes in an immense field meet on the post grounds, to be held on the afternoon of July 4, and this will probably be the largest athletic event ever held in the garrison. It will be free to the public and is being arranged for by the committee of the Fourth of July committee of the City of Vancouver. It is intended to make this the big feature of the celebration this year.

Besides the regular field day events, there will be many laughable and comical side features, such as shoe races, where all of the shoes of the contestants are shaken in a barrel and then thrown out, the soldier to get his shoes laced first will win the prize.

The machine gun platoon of the First Infantry, which established a world record in April, running 100 yards, firing a shot and returning in 36 seconds, will put on an exhibition.
