

SUES FOR PITCH UP DIFFERENCES

Wife to Withdraw Suit for Separate Maintenance by Traction Magnate.

HE WANTS HER AT HOME

Woman's Preference for Paris Instead of New York Said to Have Played Big Part in Recent Misunderstanding.

PARIS, July 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Harriet Amelia Shonts, who makes her home in this city with her daughter Theodora, widow of the Duke of Chaulness, is to withdraw her suit for a separate maintenance against her husband, Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York and ex-chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission. Such is the news here now.

It is understood that there has been a reconciliation between Mrs. Shonts and her husband, the American millionaire. How genuine it is cannot be said, but at least they have agreed to patch up their present differences and Mrs. Shonts will cease her efforts for a separate maintenance. There was never any thought of divorce, friends of the Shontses declare.

Settlement is Urged. Six-Judge Leventritt, the New York lawyer, who is Mrs. Shonts' counsel, has been in consultation with his client here and it is known that he urged a settlement of the misunderstanding between husband and wife without recourse to the courts. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shonts are much opposed to airing their marital difficulties in public.

Mrs. Shonts likes Paris as a place to live while Mr. Shonts wishes her to spend more time in New York and this, it is said, was the principal cause of the misunderstanding.

To Mr. Shonts' opposition to the late Duke of Chaulness as a son-in-law and to his wife's fondness for Europe is ascribed the causes that led to the recent misunderstanding between Theodore P. Shonts and his wife, by Madame Charlotte Zunderman Schmitt, formerly confidential secretary to the Shontses household and now acting in the same capacity for a rich family in California.

Madame Schmitt spent several months with Mrs. Shonts and her daughter, the Duchess Chaulness, looking after the financial details of their Paris establishment and she says Mrs. Shonts was much opposed to his wife's residence in Paris and to the large expenditures she made.

"Come Home," Urged Shonts. "Why don't you come and spend our American-made dollars at home; you are being robbed in Paris," Mrs. Schmitt says Shonts wrote to his wife. "Mrs. Shonts, importunities never seemed to worry his wife," said Madame Schmitt recently. "The large checks he sent pleased her very much, and just as often as the checks came she would exclaim, 'Mine is an ideal husband. How he does love me!' It was only seldom that she said, 'We had better come home, my missus me!'"

"Mrs. Shonts would always reply affectionately to the missives, but she asserted in her own emphatic way that she would stay in Paris and only return to New York for the winter. "The domestic life of the Duchess was always happy, it seemed. We had the little Duke with us. His advent into the world was the ray of sunshine that came into the home in Paris after the death of the Duke had made it so gloomy.

Duke Not Liked. "Marguerite Shonts, the Duchess' sister, seldom came to visit her mother in Paris and she said she could not be plainly seen that she had taken arms with her father and wanted Mrs. Shonts to go back to America. Mrs. Shonts spoke of Marguerite as the only one who treated him right. There was no mistaking of Mr. Shonts' opposition to the Duke. His letters revealed that.

"After the death of her husband the Duchess announced to the public that she would settle all of her husband's debts. Scores of bank creditors put in their claims and were paid. "Mr. Shonts found much to complain about in Mrs. Shonts' administration of her husband's household. He found fault with Mrs. Shonts' practice of leaving money about the house to test the honesty of her servants. Well, the money was always taken care of and she was always leaving the house, having been doubly paid for their services. Mr. Shonts wrote her to stop throwing money away."

ELKS JOIN ENDEAVORS Head of Order in United States Attends Big Meeting.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9.—The men's meeting on the Million Dollar Pier, in connection with the 25th annual Christian Endeavor convention was one of the largest ever held here. In the crowded packed auditorium was August Hermann, of Cincinnati, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, who held their annual reunion here this week, and nearly his entire delegation. Ex-Vice-President Fairbanks arrived this afternoon and is the guest of the Rev. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor Society. He will speak tomorrow night.

BOOMERS HAVE NO FAITH (Continued From First Page.) they are confident of controlling the next Congress. It is apparent that the Democrats if they had control of both houses, would manage up the tariff in such a manner as to bring on a panic in the country, as they did under the Wilson bill. Although the Democrats in the last Congress were enthusiastic advocates of a scientific revision of the tariff through a commission, they have totally ignored the commission plan and have reported out tariff legislation without hearings and with no consideration of the merits of the bills. To make matters worse, speakers Clark has announced that the Democrats will pursue a schedule by schedule revision plan and there will be no rest for the business interests of the country as long as the Democrats are in control of the House. By the time the next Congressional election arrives, the country will be ready for a rest from constant tariff agitation and will bring this about by the election of a Republican House.

WIFE, WHO HAS WITHDRAWN SUIT FOR SEPARATE MAINTENANCE, AND HUSBAND, WHO WANTS HER TO SPEND MONEY IN AMERICA.

PLEAS POURING IN

Ottawa Besieged in Effort to Save Mrs. Napolitano.

MODERATION IS EXPECTED Dominion Cabinet Will Decide Case on Merit, but Petitions From Distant States Will Carry Some Weight, It is Believed.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9.—Three more stacks full of petitions praying for executive clemency in the case of Mrs. Angelina Napolitano under sentence to be hanged at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., next month for the murder of her husband, were received yesterday by the justice department. The petitions, now number tens of thousands, representing all parts of the continent.

Because of its peculiarly distressing condition, the case has aroused special interest in the United States. Petitions have been received by hundreds from Chicago and other American cities. Even from Oklahoma and other points thousands of miles away have come requests for mercy and offers to pay for legal assistance for the woman if her case comes before the cabinet for final consideration.

In only one instance has capital punishment ever been imposed on a woman in Canada. It appears to be thought here that the sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment, but the subject has not yet been considered by the cabinet.

The petitions may have some weight with the Government, but the evidence will be weighed on its merits when it comes up for review some time within the next fortnight.

Florida Sends 20,000 Names. FLORIDA, Ill., July 8.—Petitions containing 20,000 names asking for a pardon for Mrs. Angelina Napolitano, the woman sentenced to hang in Canada in August for murdering her husband and to save her honor, left here this morning. It was intended to send the petitions last Thursday, with 5000, but the eagerness of the public to sign necessitated the delay.

ROADS BUYING EQUIPMENT Northern Pacific and Great Northern Figure in Orders.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The railroads fulfilled expectations last week by placing orders for equipment and other similar contracts are about to be closed. The Northern Pacific and Great Northern and the Missouri Pacific 50 locomotives and the Great Northern and Illinois Central each 30 engines. Rail contracts, however, were small, but contracts are pending for 200,000 tons, including export business. Activity continued in steel building work in all sections. Including railroad work, fabricated steel orders last week aggregated more than $9,000,000. There are important orders for gas pipe for shipment to Japan and additional orders for galvanized and black sheet for South America and the Orient. The Italian government has awarded 4000 tons of armor plate for battleships to the Carnegie Steel Company.

WIRELESS MAY FIGHT FIRE Forest Supervisor Sees Adoption of Modern Methods by Service.

LEWISTON, Idaho, July 9.—(Special.)—Recent heavy rains that swept over North Idaho have eliminated danger of forest fires in the mountain regions for at least two months, is the belief of Major Frank A. Penn, supervisor of the Salway Forest Reserve, with headquarters at Kootenai, who passed through Lewiston today en route to Boise to meet Assistant Chief Forester William Potter, of Washington, D. C., who will confer there with all the forest reserve supervisors of the Northwest relative to plans being evolved for the prevention and suppression of forest fires. Wireless telegraph stations and aeroplanes will be discussed, and Major Penn predicts that in a few years both will be installed as a regular part of the forestry service equipment. "A man in an aeroplane," said Major Penn, "could make a more accurate and extensive survey of the situation in the

6 OF FAR WIVES

Comedian, in Book, Dwells Sarcasically Upon Costly Social Seasons.

WIFE NO. 3 IS DESCRIBED

Actor Ruefully Recounts Expense of Launching Ambitious Stage Beauty on English Social Sea. Theft of Her Reward.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 9.—(Special.)—Having previously intimated that in his book relating his extensive matrimonial experience he would devote considerable space to Maxine Elliott, wife No. 3, Nat C. Goodwin, the comedian, has given a portion of it to a waiting world. As he said he would when he first announced he was deep in literary labors setting forth the fads and follies of his ex-wives, Mr. Goodwin describes Maxine Elliott's ambition as that of a Cleopatra; her demeanor Nero-like and her dignity that of Joan of Arc and charges that the beautiful actress used him as a ladder with which to reach fame. "She found her crowning glory in the brilliant glare of a myriad of incandescent lights that spelled her name over the portals of a New York theater," Goodwin writes.

After attributing the dominant qualities of Cleopatra, Nero and Joan of Arc to "wife No. 3," Mr. Goodwin writes: "She was one of the dearest women I ever met" and that despite her ambitions and her dignity, she was imbued "with channels of emotion, that manifested womanhood in the truest sense of the word."

Part of Goodwin's memoirs relating to Miss Elliott follow: "During the early days at Jacksonville, England, home when I was busily engaged in hiring guests to come and partake of my board and rooms (I mean the professional order) in the most difficult of hiring patrons, I had plenty at my command so far as professional friends and visiting Americans were concerned, but the fair Maxine had the English bias in her American bonnet and insisted that we must try and get together some of the impetuous nobility and a few army men as guests.

"Saphead" Is Persuaded. "I knew of no one who represented those particular branches of society and had no desire to, but, being under her hypnotic influence, I sought a woman, the wife of a friend of mine, an American mining man, who, discovering I knew all the swagger members of the guards—one particular one—and through her influence one of these 'sapheads' was persuaded to visit our humble home on Saturday to Monday. He came, accompanied by one of the present dukes of England (whose father, by the way, died owing me a paltry £1000 when I was in the race-course at Deauville, France).

"They all came down this particular Saturday in conjunction with Mrs. Maxine Elliott, Chamberlain, the 'Poo-Bah' of the house on the Thames. We had a lovely time (that is, I presume they did), as Maxine insisted on my entertaining the guests between courses, but I was so busy with my own affairs, after the telling of each one, which occupied some little time, my portion of the feast was either cold or confiscated. The American friends, however, did not mind anyway, except when I was reciting anecdotes, and on the first of every month when the bills came due.

Butler Is Companion. "However, finally, this particular evening, the guests sauntered into the drawing room, expecting to hear Melba sing, but she had even taken, and the party, in groups of two, sauntered through the house and inspected the grounds. I being on particularly good terms with the butler, selected for my companion, I quietly strolled through the upper rose terrace, discussing the men that would appeal to the next influx of English's dilettante (by this time I had learned to speak English), as Maxine considered them extremely common.

"The butler and I were figuring out the expense of the past month, as the pale moon cast its rays over my book of memoranda, when we stopped before an open window of the drawing room to figure. We quite casually heard the remark: "How could you possibly have married such a vulgar little person?"

Goodwin Is Self-Conscious. "I being terribly self-conscious at all this, said to my butler: 'Lulu, that's me that chocolate soldier is referring to; listen and you will have a warrior's opinion of a sheepskin.' I heard the following dialogue: "She: 'Do you think him vulgar?' "He: 'Not necessarily vulgar, but an awful accident.' "She: 'Well, no one ever accused him of an American accent. He was educated in Boston. Don't you think him rather amusing?' "He: 'By way of anecdotes and funny stories.' "She: 'Were those stories he told at dinner supposed to be funny?' "He: 'Of course; didn't you hear the guests laugh?' "She: 'Yes, so I did, but simply in an spirit of compliment. He is supposed to be a comic man in your country.' "She: 'Extremely so.'

My Lord Is Rebuked. "He: 'Well, maybe, but I was deafened by your debut. I saw nothing but those beautiful eyes of yours, my dear Mrs. Goodwin, and everything else was a blank. Really.' "She: 'I don't pay me silly compliments, Lord A.; it isn't nice.' "He: 'I beg your pardon, but please tell me how did you happen to marry the funny little man?' "She: 'Now, don't ask impertinent questions; one has to get married; and, really, when he talks he says something.' "She: 'Does he, really?' "The butler and I quietly resumed our stroll. Some time after I met this greaser, I talked and said something, but she wouldn't deign to print it. "Jackwood proved a lovely Summer abode for me. It cost me $5,000 to get it, $25,000 a year to keep it up, we were there about 20 weeks every season, and it cost me $25,000 to get rid of it. The little comic man did one thing, however, he launched his third wife on the waves of English society, and they repaid him by stealing her from him. Did they get a bargain? I wonder."

The project of a railroad across the north Africa is being pushed by a Russian committee. The road is to cost $125,000,000 and to be 1844 miles long.

6 OF FAR WIVES

Comedian, in Book, Dwells Sarcasically Upon Costly Social Seasons.

WIFE NO. 3 IS DESCRIBED

Actor Ruefully Recounts Expense of Launching Ambitious Stage Beauty on English Social Sea. Theft of Her Reward.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 9.—(Special.)—Having previously intimated that in his book relating his extensive matrimonial experience he would devote considerable space to Maxine Elliott, wife No. 3, Nat C. Goodwin, the comedian, has given a portion of it to a waiting world. As he said he would when he first announced he was deep in literary labors setting forth the fads and follies of his ex-wives, Mr. Goodwin describes Maxine Elliott's ambition as that of a Cleopatra; her demeanor Nero-like and her dignity that of Joan of Arc and charges that the beautiful actress used him as a ladder with which to reach fame. "She found her crowning glory in the brilliant glare of a myriad of incandescent lights that spelled her name over the portals of a New York theater," Goodwin writes.

After attributing the dominant qualities of Cleopatra, Nero and Joan of Arc to "wife No. 3," Mr. Goodwin writes: "She was one of the dearest women I ever met" and that despite her ambitions and her dignity, she was imbued "with channels of emotion, that manifested womanhood in the truest sense of the word."

Part of Goodwin's memoirs relating to Miss Elliott follow: "During the early days at Jacksonville, England, home when I was busily engaged in hiring guests to come and partake of my board and rooms (I mean the professional order) in the most difficult of hiring patrons, I had plenty at my command so far as professional friends and visiting Americans were concerned, but the fair Maxine had the English bias in her American bonnet and insisted that we must try and get together some of the impetuous nobility and a few army men as guests.

"Saphead" Is Persuaded. "I knew of no one who represented those particular branches of society and had no desire to, but, being under her hypnotic influence, I sought a woman, the wife of a friend of mine, an American mining man, who, discovering I knew all the swagger members of the guards—one particular one—and through her influence one of these 'sapheads' was persuaded to visit our humble home on Saturday to Monday. He came, accompanied by one of the present dukes of England (whose father, by the way, died owing me a paltry £1000 when I was in the race-course at Deauville, France).

"They all came down this particular Saturday in conjunction with Mrs. Maxine Elliott, Chamberlain, the 'Poo-Bah' of the house on the Thames. We had a lovely time (that is, I presume they did), as Maxine insisted on my entertaining the guests between courses, but I was so busy with my own affairs, after the telling of each one, which occupied some little time, my portion of the feast was either cold or confiscated. The American friends, however, did not mind anyway, except when I was reciting anecdotes, and on the first of every month when the bills came due.

Butler Is Companion. "However, finally, this particular evening, the guests sauntered into the drawing room, expecting to hear Melba sing, but she had even taken, and the party, in groups of two, sauntered through the house and inspected the grounds. I being on particularly good terms with the butler, selected for my companion, I quietly strolled through the upper rose terrace, discussing the men that would appeal to the next influx of English's dilettante (by this time I had learned to speak English), as Maxine considered them extremely common.

"The butler and I were figuring out the expense of the past month, as the pale moon cast its rays over my book of memoranda, when we stopped before an open window of the drawing room to figure. We quite casually heard the remark: "How could you possibly have married such a vulgar little person?"

Goodwin Is Self-Conscious. "I being terribly self-conscious at all this, said to my butler: 'Lulu, that's me that chocolate soldier is referring to; listen and you will have a warrior's opinion of a sheepskin.' I heard the following dialogue: "She: 'Do you think him vulgar?' "He: 'Not necessarily vulgar, but an awful accident.' "She: 'Well, no one ever accused him of an American accent. He was educated in Boston. Don't you think him rather amusing?' "He: 'By way of anecdotes and funny stories.' "She: 'Were those stories he told at dinner supposed to be funny?' "He: 'Of course; didn't you hear the guests laugh?' "She: 'Yes, so I did, but simply in an spirit of compliment. He is supposed to be a comic man in your country.' "She: 'Extremely so.'

My Lord Is Rebuked. "He: 'Well, maybe, but I was deafened by your debut. I saw nothing but those beautiful eyes of yours, my dear Mrs. Goodwin, and everything else was a blank. Really.' "She: 'I don't pay me silly compliments, Lord A.; it isn't nice.' "He: 'I beg your pardon, but please tell me how did you happen to marry the funny little man?' "She: 'Now, don't ask impertinent questions; one has to get married; and, really, when he talks he says something.' "She: 'Does he, really?' "The butler and I quietly resumed our stroll. Some time after I met this greaser, I talked and said something, but she wouldn't deign to print it. "Jackwood proved a lovely Summer abode for me. It cost me $5,000 to get it, $25,000 a year to keep it up, we were there about 20 weeks every season, and it cost me $25,000 to get rid of it. The little comic man did one thing, however, he launched his third wife on the waves of English society, and they repaid him by stealing her from him. Did they get a bargain? I wonder."

The project of a railroad across the north Africa is being pushed by a Russian committee. The road is to cost $125,000,000 and to be 1844 miles long.

No Poisons, No Crockery, No Liquors. Lipman, Wolfe & Co. Merchandise of Merit Only.

A Noteworthy Sale of Reliable Undermuslins at HALF PRICE

—Another opportunity to buy manufacturers' samples of fine undermuslins, including gowns, white skirts, Princess slips, drawers, corset covers, combinations of corset covers and drawers or corset covers and skirts, short undershirts and chemises. —All full cut and full length. The best workmanship and trimmings of dainty laces, including torchon, cluny, valenciennes, English eyelet, blind and open embroideries, insertions, beadings and ribbons.

Gowns from $1.25 to $12.00. Corset Covers from 65c to $3.00. Drawers from 75c to $5.00. White Skirts from $1.25 to $16.00. Combination Suits from $1.50 to $8.00. Chemises from $1.25 to $3.50.

All at Half Price

GAGE BUYS NOTES

Ex-Secretary Participant in Carnival Queen Contest.

SAILORS' CHOICE OPPOSED

Wife, Seeking Election of Society Woman, Has Husband Draw $150 Check, Which Is Protested, but Cash Is Found.

SAN DIEGO, July 9.—(Special.)—A check for $150 given by Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, was protested here today. The protest was made to the managers of a voting contest for the choice of a Queen for the carnival in connection with the exposition ground-breaking ceremonies to begin July 19.

At the inauguration of the contest it was announced by the committee that nothing but real cash in exchange for votes would be accepted. The contest closed last night. At the beginning, a waitress, Miss Georgiana Lee, was the choice of the sailors of the fleet. Leaders of society decided recently that Miss Lee should not be Queen. Miss Helen Richards was induced to enter the contest and for the past few days leading society women in automobiles, headed by Mrs. Gage, canvassed the city for votes for Miss Richards.

Shortly before the polls closed it was whispered about that if society expected to beat Miss Lee a large sum of money was needed for votes. Mrs. Gage, leader of the opposition to Miss Lee, promptly called on her husband. As the polls closed friends of Miss Lee called the committee's attention to the rule, declaring that checks would not be accepted. T. B. Richards manager cashed the check. By the time the time was returned it was declared money, however, was received amid protests of Miss Lee and her friends, Miss Richards won.

STOKES' LETTERS VEX

PURLOINING OF MISSIVES FROM ACTRESS PUZZLE POLICE.

Detective Is Unable to Explain How Packet Was Taken From Miss Graham's Apartment.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A thorough investigation to determine how nine of the letters written by W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire hotel man, to Lillian Graham, the show girl, were abstracted in Miss Graham's room, has been set in motion by the police department. James Cummings, a hotel detective, admitted on the witness stand on Friday that he took the package from the young woman's room in the presence of police detectives two days after the shooting of Stokes and put it in his pocket. Later, he said, he turned the package over to Stokes' counsel.

At Deputy Police Commissioner today examined the three detectives left in charge of Miss Graham's room after the shooting. He declined to make public his findings, but said that he hoped to trace the missing letters to their ultimate disposition.

WOMAN WILL BE CALLED

Committee Wants Evidence in Controller Bay Only Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Taft's order transferring coal lands at Controller Bay, Alaska, from the forest reserve to the public domain will be the subject of inquiry tomorrow by the House committee on expenditures in the Interior Department. Mrs. M. F. Abbott, who has been investigating Alaskan affairs, will be questioned particularly regarding statements attributed to her concerning the subject of the Interior Bill. In which Ryan wrote that Charles F. Taft, brother of the President, asked the Chief Executive to issue the Controller Bay order.

BIBLE CALLED GUIDEBOOK

Rev. Mr. Garvin, of Seattle, Urges Laboring Men to Study Book.

The Bible is the guidebook for all labor unions, said Rev. Joseph L. Garvin, of Seattle, addressing a congregation of nearly 300 workmen in the Baker Theater yesterday morning on "How the Gospel of Christ Fits the Laboring Man." "If it were followed exactly, the problems that confront the laboring man and the problems that confront the capitalist would solve themselves."

SCOTTISH MASONS COME

Representatives of World's Oldest Lodge Bring Historic Seal.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Three representatives of St. John's Lodge of Glasgow, Scotland, the oldest Masonic lodge in the world, arrived today. The worshipful master, James Strang, a past master; Andrew Brown, and the junior warden, John W. Dempster, composed the party. Mr. Brown brought with him the badge of his office, an exquisite gold chain. The central link of its 40 golden shields and stars is the official seal of the lodge, the gift of Malcolm Canmore, King of the Scots, in the year 1067. The chain is insured for $2500, but its sentimental value is far above that price. The Scots will remain in America six weeks. They will visit lodges in Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago and Detroit.

M'NAMARAS PLEAD TODAY

NEW INDICTMENTS EXPECTED IN HALL OF RECORDS CASE.

Trial Date of Brother May Be Set if Judge Refuses Motion to Quash.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—John McNamara and his brother, James B., will enter their plea today in the case of charge of dynamiting the Times building on the morning of October 1 last, if the motions for the quashing of the indictments against the prisoners are overruled by Judge Bordwell. Assistant District Attorney Ford will conclude his argument within an hour after the case is called on for trial. No reply is expected from the counsel for the defense, as their main objection to the indictments—the fact that the names of three testifying witnesses were omitted from the grand jury indictments—has been withdrawn. Judge Bordwell's decision whether the indictments made sufficient cause to quash the indictments will probably be given tomorrow. An adverse decision on the motion of the defense will force Attorney Barrow and his associates to enter the plea of not guilty or to file demurrers, and it is believed the trial date will be set.

New indictments for Bert Connor, Ira Bender and A. B. Maple, charged with conspiring to dynamite the Hall of Records, will be issued by the grand jury, according to the District Attorney's office.

PAVING OUTLAY $120,000

McMinnville to Install Storm Sewer System With Street Work.

McMINNVILLE, Or., July 9.—(Special.)—A contract for street paving involving the expenditure of approximately $120,000, exclusive of excavating and curbing, has been placed by the McMinnville City Council with the Warren Construction Company for treating with asphaltic about 85 blocks, embracing all of the business section of the city and a part of the residence district. It is hoped that a part of the hard surface pavement may be laid by Fall. This will be the first pavement laid in the city, although there are several miles of macadamized streets.

In addition to the paving contract bids have been asked for the construction of a complete storm sewer system. Wooden water mains throughout a portion of the district also are to be taken up and replaced by cast iron, and it is probable that the Council will order telephone and light wires placed beneath the surface in the business district. At a cost of $16,000 the city has recently installed a 250,000-gallon water filtering system to supplement from the Yamhill River the gravity water system during the dry season.

MOTORCYCLIST HITS CAR

Two Boys Believed to Be Dying as Result of Crash.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 9.—(Special.)—Apparently unable to gain control of his motorcycle when riding over the thoroughfare today, Henry Simpson, aged 19 years, made a heroic effort to save his little friend, Robert Johnson, aged 9 years, who was a passenger. The machine struck the car with terrific force and while the two boys escaped instant death, they were unconscious at a late hour and perhaps fatally injured. The younger boy was immediately removed to the office of Dr. J. B. Anderson nearby and it was found that his nose and one arm were broken, but it later developed that he had suffered a fracture of the skull. The Simpson boy was hurried to the Emergency Hospital, where it was found that his nose was broken. He was in a critical condition when removed to his home tonight. Dr. E. J. Gallagher, who attended the

SCOTTISH MASONS COME

Representatives of World's Oldest Lodge Bring Historic Seal.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Three representatives of St. John's Lodge of Glasgow, Scotland, the oldest Masonic lodge in the world, arrived today. The worshipful master, James Strang, a past master; Andrew Brown, and the junior warden, John W. Dempster, composed the party. Mr. Brown brought with him the badge of his office, an exquisite gold chain. The central link of its 40 golden shields and stars is the official seal of the lodge, the gift of Malcolm Canmore, King of the Scots, in the year 1067. The chain is insured for $2500, but its sentimental value is far above that price. The Scots will remain in America six weeks. They will visit lodges in Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago and Detroit.

M'NAMARAS PLEAD TODAY

NEW INDICTMENTS EXPECTED IN HALL OF RECORDS CASE.

Trial Date of Brother May Be Set if Judge Refuses Motion to Quash.

LOS ANGELES, July 9.—John McNamara and his brother, James B., will enter their plea today in the case of charge of dynamiting the Times building on the morning of October 1 last, if the motions for the quashing of the indictments against the prisoners are overruled by Judge Bordwell. Assistant District Attorney Ford will conclude his argument within an hour after the case is called on for trial. No reply is expected from the counsel for the defense, as their main objection to the indictments—the fact that the names of three testifying witnesses were omitted from the grand jury indictments—has been withdrawn. Judge Bordwell's decision whether the indictments made sufficient cause to quash the indictments will probably be given tomorrow. An adverse decision on the motion of the defense will force Attorney Barrow and his associates to enter the plea of not guilty or to file demurrers, and it is believed the trial date will be set.

New indictments for Bert Connor, Ira Bender and A. B. Maple, charged with conspiring to dynamite the Hall of Records, will be issued by the grand jury, according to the District Attorney's office.

PAVING OUTLAY $120,000

McMinnville to Install Storm Sewer System With Street Work.

McMINNVILLE, Or., July 9.—(Special.)—A contract for street paving involving the expenditure of approximately $120,000, exclusive of excavating and curbing, has been placed by the McMinnville City Council with the Warren Construction Company for treating with asphaltic about 85 blocks, embracing all of the business section of the city and a part of the residence district. It is hoped that a part of the hard surface pavement may be laid by Fall. This will be the first pavement laid in the city, although there are several miles of macadamized streets.

In addition to the paving contract bids have been asked for the construction of a complete storm sewer system. Wooden water mains throughout a portion of the district also are to be taken up and replaced by cast iron, and it is probable that the Council will order telephone and light wires placed beneath the surface in the business district. At a cost of $16,000 the city has recently installed a 250,000-gallon water filtering system to supplement from the Yamhill River the gravity water system during the dry season.

MOTORCYCLIST HITS CAR

Two Boys Believed to Be Dying as Result of Crash.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 9.—(Special.)—Apparently unable to gain control of his motorcycle when riding over the thoroughfare today, Henry Simpson, aged 19 years, made a heroic effort to save his little friend, Robert Johnson, aged 9 years, who was a passenger. The machine struck the car with terrific force and while the two boys escaped instant death, they were unconscious at a late hour and perhaps fatally injured. The younger boy was immediately removed to the office of Dr. J. B. Anderson nearby and it was found that his nose and one arm were broken, but it later developed that he had suffered a fracture of the skull. The Simpson boy was hurried to the Emergency Hospital, where it was found that his nose was broken. He was in a critical condition when removed to his home tonight. Dr. E. J. Gallagher, who attended the

KRYPTOK FAR VISION Without Lines in the Lens THOMPSON'S KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

These bifocals made by fusing two pieces of glass of different indices of refraction together by electric heat so as to look like and to all practical purposes actually be one solid piece of glass are the most perfect lenses ever made. All the old objections to bifocals, including the most serious of all—the feeling that the wearing of bifocals was a confession of age—are done away with because it cannot be seen that these lenses are bifocals except by most minute examination. Kryptok bifocals of Thompson grinding are better because we put into them that little indefinable something in the way of finish and perfection which makes Thompson's work known as the best in the world over.

THOMPSON EYESIGHT SPECIALIST Second Floor Corbett Bldg., Fifth and Morrison.

Has LINOCORD Buttonholes front and back. SKY-MAN LINOCORD BUTTONHOLES are easier-to-button and they don't STOP OUT.

SWAMP. Is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found that the remedy you need. At drugists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.