mother's home. He failed to return with it and has not been seen since. If the young man has escaped foul play, his mother believes that he has gone to Chicago, in which city he formerly lived. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall and of blonde complexion.

With all the fury of a lady ostrich scorned, Desdemona dashed at her partner chest to chest, kicking and kicking again. The male bird responded just as vigorously and soon the ostriches were aiming the most vicious kicks at each other, any one of which, it was said, was powerful enough to kill a man.

Accusations against Chin's place had been received by Judge Tawell and Chief Glover in letters and the officers said they were victims of the habit and had secured their supplies from him. Chief Glover ordered Ackerman to investigate and the officer made several days in the neighborhood. He made two attempts to purchase the drug himself, but the Chinese was too wary.

While keeping watch Ackerman saw several men enter the place who bore all the marks of the habitual drug user, but could not get close enough to obtain convincing evidence.

Yesterday morning, accompanied by Patrolman Taft, he was near the store when he saw Henry Fitzgerald enter and emerge with a small packet in his hand. The officers approached and one gripped the hand that held the package.
