SPEEDING JURIST IS GRATEFUL-AT-SPENDING JURIST IS GRATEFUL.—Arress and suspended sentence from the Municipal Court have not greatly perturbed Superior Judge Donald Mc-Master, of Vancouver, who while on an automobile trip to this city carly in the week, was caught speeding and was summoned before Judge Taxwell. Patrolman Evans, who made the arrest is in receipt of a letter from the jurist, expressing appreciation of the courtesy shown him in the trying ordeal. Judge MacMaster expresses the belief that if all speeding citizens were treated as considerately as he, the moral effect on them would be better than that of severe punishment. than that of severe punishment.

between the double tracks with crushed rock and treat the intersections the same as other portions of the street. President Josselyn told the committee of the Rose City Park Improvement League that owing to the great amount of work the company has on hand it could not lay 72-pound rails and pave the center of the street. He contends that crushed rock will be better for both the community and street railway company as it will prevent the space occupied by the tracks being used by general traffic which would delay the streetcars. Questions bearing on this subject have been submitted to the City Attorney. These will be read at the league meeting next Wednesday night.

The ceremony will be performed either by the apostolic delegate from Washington, or Archbishop Christie. It is not yet known whether the apostolic delegate will be here in time for the ceremony. Rev. Father Joseph Gallagher, president, who is in the East, is expected to return within two weeks. Construction on the dormitory will be rushed as rapidly as possible that one-half may be finished by the time classes are resumed in September, and the remainder will be finished by October. Charging that property owners in the Riverside sewer district had been deceived into thinking that 2000 lots were included in the district, when only 1291 were assessed, making the cost for each lot excessive, and that defective work had been done, a committee of 12 appointed to investigate recommended that the meeting held last night in North Albina employ an at-torney and engineer to investigate the sewer condition and that money be raised to defray the expenses. After full discussion Charles E. Steelsmith and Eugene Palmer were ap-pointed to ascertain the cost of an at-torney and engineer before starting to raise funds and report back to the meeting. It was also reported that the opinion of the City Attorney had been asked whether it would now be legal to enlarge the district after the work had been completed. It was charged that 700 lots had been left out of the district, in Madrona and Terminus, for some unknown reason, and which must be connected with the Riverside sewer in future, and that an inlet had been left in the main conduit so this could be done. Lind & Co. did so this could be done. Lind & Co. did

East Second-Street Fill Nearly Done.—East Second-street fill between East Oak and Hawthorne avenue is near completion. The street has been filled from material from the basement of buildings from East Oak street to East Main street, and the embankment is to be finished with material from the river hauled by dump trains. The work will be completed this month. It will cost the property owners about $40,000. The O.-W. R. & N. Co.'s track occupies the center of the street and will pay part of the expense. This is the final large fill in the warehouse district between East Oak street and Hawthorne avenue all the streets in that territory having been filled the total cost amounting to about $500,000.

Complaint Against Rats Made. total cost amounting to about $500,000.

COMPLAINT AGAINST RATS MADE—
Councilman Joy, of the Seventh Ward, has been asked to require the owners of the block bounded by Division, East Eighth and East Ninth streets to fill the pond of stagnast water there, which is a breeding place for wharf rats. Owners of the old Portland Cannery Company's building, on Division and East Ninth streets, will also be asked to take care of the premises. Residents say the neighborhood is overgrun with rats from the cannery building and the vacant block.

He urged that this street he widened as it is sure to become a tween Killingsworth and Patton avenues. The chief complaint was that the assessments are not uniform, one property-owner saying that she was assessed $208.20 on a 100-foot lot, while her neighbor nearby, with a 150-foot lot was assessed only $75. Another property-owner said some property was assessed $50 a lot, while across the street the assessment was $11 \text{a lot}.

The committee decided that on account of the random and conflicting statements made, the best way would be to defer action on the subject until Rose City Park Hall Association is paying for the proposed clubhouse site owned by B. Wortman & King as Before.

Inability on the part of Portland and New York men to finance the Olds. Wortman & King deal, announcement of which was made in April, has compelied the prospective purchasers of the large department store to give up the project. Since the option on the prop-Macadam street from the north line of Dakota street to the city limits will probably be paved with asphalt pavement. The street committee decided erty has expired and the conditions have not been compiled with, the own-ership and management will continue

W. P. Olds, the senior member of the firm, said yesterday that since the firm had established itself in the new building covering a full block bounded by Alder, West Park, Morrison and Tenth streets, a marked movement in busi-ness up Morrison, Alder and Washing-ton streets had followed. He is of the opinion that within the next few years the bulk of Portland's retail business interests will have abandoned the downtown section for larger sites and more modern buildings further uptown. This is the tendency, he says, in nearly all growing cities.

The firm, originally known as Olds & King, was established in business in Portland 33 years ago. Mr. Olds was Portland as years ago. ar. Olds was connected with the city's business in-terests ten years prior to that time, having therefore been in business here for 43 years.

The option which was taken by Portland and New York men covered the entire leasehold on the department store site, real estate in other parts of the city and business of the depart ment store. The price to have been paid, it is understood, was $2,500,000.

E. Henry Wemme entered a protest to the street committee of the City Council yesterday against widening of Seventh street from Burnside street to the Union Depot to less than 70 feet. there is no question as to the value of the blocks as paving material, and that they will probably be adopted as a standard pavement for certain parts of the street, making the street so feet wide. Later the property owners feet wide. Later the property owners on the east side of the street proposed to pay the property owners on the west side of the street for the damage to their property on account of the pro-posed widening, if the street would be widened only to 70 feet. Mr. Wemme says the property owners on the west side of the street will not accept such an agreement. This street will be the outlet for the new Broadway bridge.
