JUDGE EXCORIATES LAW SCHOOL SWAY

McGinn Argues That Embryo Attorneys Invade by Taking Courthouse Room.

BENCH FELLOWS RAPPED

. Jurist Declares Occupants of Woolsack Have No Right to Be Faculty Members for Extra Pay. Library Is Fought,

An emphatic demand that the Multnomah law library be allowed no space in the new Courthouse was made on the County Commissioners yesterday by Circuit Court Judge McGinn in a speech in which he declared the members of the legal profession consider themselves s privileged class, and in which he made various uncomplimentary remarks about the law department of the University of Oregon and its faculty, of which Judge Gantenbein is dean and Judge Morrow a

The County Court will decide today. Commissioner Lightner said, if a room is to be given the Library Association. Architect Whidden, of Whidden & Lewis, who are supervising the construction of the new Courthouse, has reported to the Commissioners that the only room which could be possibly turned over for the housing of the library has floor strength sufficient for only from 2000 to 4000 books whereas there are here. to 4000 books, whereas there are be-tween 11,000 and 12,000 volumes in the library. Mr. Whidden has refused to library. Mr. Whidden has refused to listen to the suggestion that the halls and corridors of the new building be used for bookcases.

Fee Law Censured.

Judge McGinn commenced his talk to the Commissioners with a vehement at-tack on the law which provides that liti-gants must pay fees toward the support of the library when filing and answering

This is the only piece of Socialistic legislation on our statute books," he deciared. "It would have been declared unconstitutional three years ago had it redounded to the benefit of anyone other than the lawyers. We are making litt-gants pay for the education of lawyers. How long would this special privilege last if it were in favor of the carpenters or the painters? Every child who comes into court to claim his patrimony must into court to claim his patrimony must perforce pay something toward the sup-port of this library, which is of no earthly use to him.

"They say that it is done largely in the interest of the law school. I submit that this school is not an elemosynary institution. It pays and pays well. The fact that Circuit Judges are the head of it doesn't alter the right or wrong. It is a private corporation which exacts fees and good fees.

Discrimination Is Alleged.

"I am not blaming the young men, but I object to this school being known as the law school of the Circuit Court of Multnomah County. Would you give Portland Academy similar privileges? Its character is not changed because att Judges are receiving large pay

Too many lawyers in the Legislature have been ready to crook the knee to the Circuit Court Judges. Why, I could go before the people of the county on this proposition and there wouldn't be a greate spot left of the lawyers or the CHOLERA BARS CONCLAVE

"It says here that the only books the student requires are the 10 volumes of Ballinger & Cotton's code, and that they are allowed the use of the Multnoman law library free of charge.

Bookstore Is Advertised.

The gentlemen who conduct this school also consider it necessary to advise the boys where to buy these books. They say they may be obtained from George A. Bateson & Co., Buchanan building. Wonder why they advertise this firm? Wonder how the J. K. Gill Company and other hook-selling con-

Judges' Act Condemned.

"A judge can no more legally give part of his time to his judicial duties and part to class instruction than he can act as a flidge and practice law at

"As further proof of the fact that As further proof of the fact that this law school is a paying institution I read that first-year students must pay $80, juniors $75 and seniors $75 and that these fees are payable strictly in advance. In addition there is a fee of $10 for graduation. Last year there were $4 seniors, 43 juniors and 75 freshmen. The total receipts on his basis were $11.858. "You gentlemen represent the peo-ple of the whole county, not the legal profession. Let them take their library and law school elsewhere."

Commissioner Lightner said that one of a committee of lawyers which had begged for space in the new building had admitted to him when "pinned fown" to a definite answer that the Commissioners should put the library out of the Courthouse building. Judge Cleeton suggested that the library be made public property, but Judge Mc-Glun was of the opinion that special legislation would be necessary. He pointed out that there is already a public law libray in the Capitol at Salem which has been paid for by pubthe taxation.

Two Jurists in Faculty.

Judge Gantenbein is dean of the law school and Judge Morrow is a lec-turer, Other members of the faculty are William B. Gilbert, ex-County Judge Northup, Martin L. Pipes, Francls D. that last year he received at the rate of $36 a lecture for delivering 40 lectures and that the others had received a similar amount a lecture for a smaller number. In 1998 the amount was $27 a lecture, but in years gone by. Judge Gantenbein said, it was sometimes as low as $2 and $3 a lecture. The system is to divide all the money received from students among the lecturers after expenses have been paid. The exter expenses have been paid. The expenses amount to less than 20 per cent of the receipts.

Lectures Given Elsewhere.

"We are not holding our lectures in the Courthouse but in the Chamber of Commerce building," said Judge Gantenbein, "and we pay $75 a year for the use of the law Hbrary. We paid nothing formerly but a few years ago a rival law school demanded a similar right and then we arranged to pay $25 a term. The other school has not seen fit to pay the fees. Over all the United States Circuit and Supreme Court Judges are deans and lecturers of law. "We are not holding our lectures in Judges are deans and lecturers of law

Ex-Judge Cleeton explained to Judge Ex-Judge Cleeton explained to Judge McGinn that the policy of the County Court is to allow the library room only if it can be spared conveniently and that the county does not propose to, nor can it legally incur any extra expense in fitting a room. A little later Judge Cleeton mentioned that a room would probably be strengthened in the new wing. When asked if that would not be incurring extra expense he said: "Well I understand that the archi-"Well. RIVERSIDE DISTRICT MEN IN-VESTIGATE IN VAIN.

Uncharted Debris Meets Gaze of Committee of One Who Is Sent Into Bore With Tapeline.

A committee representing property owners in the Riverside sower district, in Albina, yesterday looked for the inlet in the main conduit which it was claimed had been left to accommodate later about 700 lots which had been left out of the district, but failed to liscover it.
L. G. Brazen, the smallest man of the committee, went into the sewer at the manhole near Delaware avenue managed to crawl a distance of 106 feet, according to the tape line he took with him, but he found the conduit clogged up with some lumber and the snag of a tree, water and some gravel and had to turn back. He did not discover the inlet while working from this man-hole, but did find that a lot of debris had been left in the conduit that may give trouble unless removed. Mr. Brazen then went into the sewer from the manhole near Burrage street, and made a distance of 200 feet, but did not find the inlet, although he said his light was somewhat indistinct and he might have passed it without seeing it. He did find mud and water and some

The investigation, however, did not satisfy the committee that the inlet is not somewhere near the manholes entered by Mr. Brazen, and some further investigation may be undertaken. The conduit is 32 inches high and runs across the land between the bluff and the river. It is claimed by the prop-erty-owners assessed that the lots left out must eventually be drained through this conduit, and they want the prop-erty included in the assessed area and have asked the City Attorney whether this can be done. Charles E. Steelsmith, who was appointed chairman of the committee to ascertain the cost of employing an attorney and an expert civil engineer to investigate the Riverside sewer, expressed the opinion yesterday that there is nothing wrong with the sawer.

Many Shriners who met at the annual convention in Rochester, N. Portland Is Cheered. "Portland had all the best of it in the parades, in the exhibition drills and in the social functions. Al Kader Temple carried a huge banner, hearing 'Portland, Oregon,' in large letters. As soon as the people caught a glimpse of it they started cheering. As we passed along the streets the applause was tumultuous. The cheering continued un-

No other city received such recognition, "Although no banners were awarded atthough no camers were awarded in the exhibition drills, it is certain that Portland would have received first prize. We drilled in competition with nearly 200 other patrols and received greater applicates than any of the others. As our patrol left the field Captain William Davis was showered with roses—a tribute won by no other leader." The trip from Portland to Rochester on board a special train over the Cana-dian Pacific was one long triumphal journey. When the train arrived at Seattle on the morning following its de-parture from Portland, they were met by Shriners and taken on an automo-bile ride after breakfasting at one of the leading hotels. At Vancouver, B. C., they were entertained similarly. At Glacier they were sidetracked and al-lowed to see the sights. A delegation of Shriners met them at Banff and escorted them to the principal points of interest.
