

RAIL BOARD ISSUES WARNING TO RAILS

Speed Violations Not to Be Condoned, Says Report of Trunk Wreck.

DISOBEYED ORDERS CAUSE

Commissioner Files Opinion That Accident, in Which Seven Died, Could Have Been Averted.

SALEM, Or., July 24.—(Special.)—Excessive speed coupled with a defective roadbed is assigned by the State Railroad Commission as the cause of the wreck on the Oregon Trunk Railroad in the Deschutes canyon on July 10, in which seven persons were killed and 17 were seriously injured, in a report forwarded to the prosecuting attorney of the Seventh Judicial district.

After taking into consideration the conflicting stories told by the witnesses the commission expressed conviction that the train, at the time of derailment, was running faster than the order issued by a dispatcher of ten miles an hour. The report says in part: "The speed, and the alternate rising and lowering of the inner and outer rails of the curve brought about increasing side to side oscillations of the tank, filled with tons of shifting oil and water, until an oscillation to the right brought the engine down on the right hand side bearing and allowed the flanges of the left-hand rear truck to mount the rail. The next oscillation, to the left, made the engine jump the rail and the rear end of the tender was whirled outward and over into the bank.

Had high speed alone been the cause of the derailment it is inconceivable that the engine would not have buried itself in the soft earth and it may be doubted if the engine would have gone 500 feet in the curve before leaving the rails if the speed had been sufficient to cause it to topple over. If the wide gauge be assigned as a cause, or as a contributing cause, it is sufficient to raise the question as to whether the rails anywhere near the place where the derailment occurred.

With relation to the prevention of such accidents in the future, we are not unimpressed that the present operating officers have been in charge of the Oregon Trunk a well constructed and well operated property.

Orders Must Be Followed.

"It is, however, apparent that at the outset and continuously thereafter, employees must be made to realize that orders mean what they say and must be obeyed. Violations of operating rules devised for safety must be dealt with so that self-interest will insure their observance. Nor should such violations either be condoned or soft undiscovers until an accident brings them to light. This is a duty owed by operating officials, which the public expects them to perform unrelentingly and faithfully, and the public will properly hold them responsible for lapses of discipline resulting in injury."

BALLENGER ATTACKS ALASKA RESERVE PROCEDURE.

Ex-Secretary of Interior Says Forestry Bureau Desired to Get Control of Coal Land.

SEATTLE, July 24.—Ex-Secretary of the Interior Richard A. BALLENGER, who is taking a deep interest in the public land convention to be held September 26 in Denver, today gave out an attack on the Government's Alaska policy. He said: "Alaska's first and greatest misfortune was the establishment of forest reserves. As a matter of fact, the existence of these reserves for the conservation of water sheds to protect the flow of navigable streams, is not the mature as nature reserves these areas without the aid of the 'Silviculturist' nor is there, because of great precipitation, danger from forest fires. Much of the timber contained within these reserves is over ripe and should be marketed and used in Alaska for its own necessities. The Chugach National Forest as first established did not extend beyond the city of Seattle. It was extended in 1907 and 1908 by proclamations, with no other conceivable purpose except to bring these coal measures within the domination of the forestry bureau."

HUCKLEBERRY CROP IS BIG

Hills Around Klamath Falls Reported to Be Laden.

KLAMATH FALLS, July 24.—(Special.)—Forest rangers and bear hunters have been through the hills declare that the huckleberry crop is going to be enormous this season. Word was brought to town that probably never in the history of the country has there been as great a crop of these big, luscious berries on what is known as Huckleberry Mountain west of Coquille Lake, as this year. Although the berries are not yet more than half grown, by August 1 they will begin to ripen, and by the latter part of August will be picking the mountain is one of the greatest rendezvous for campers in the state. During the berry season, from 1890 to 1900 people have been known to stand, and thousands of gallons of the berries are picked annually and taken to the Rogue River and Klamath rivers and sold. They usually bring from $1.50 to $2 a gallon.

Cornell President Believes Application of Criteria Laid Down by Court Will Be Guarantee of Fair Play.

SEATTLE, July 24.—Jacob Schurman, president of Cornell University, was entertained at luncheon today by the Commercial Club of Seattle. Speaking after the luncheon, he said: "The decisions of the Supreme Court mark an epoch in the tobacco cases and cases furnish business men in business in the United States. The court held, in substance, that only such restrictions of competition as are unreasonable are forbidden by the Sherman law. The application of the criteria laid down by the Supreme Court should be a sufficient protection to the public and to business men in competition with rivals and fair prices to the consuming public, and as a condition of both, the absence of anything like monopoly."

Public Is Protected.

"I believe that the decisions of the Supreme Court in these great cases furnish business men in business in the United States. The application of the criteria laid down by the Supreme Court should be a sufficient protection to the public and to business men in competition with rivals and fair prices to the consuming public, and as a condition of both, the absence of anything like monopoly."

Socialistic Result Seen.

"Applying these considerations to Mr. Wickersham's proposal, we have to face the contingency of Government ownership of business corporations. That, however, is full-blown Socialism, with its fundamental doctrine of the ownership of the means of production and distribution. Of course Mr. Wickersham does not contemplate any such result. But the question is, what the public policy he advocates will naturally and indeed inevitably lead to.
