Police Commissioner Says Administration Will Play No Favorites.

CRUSADE MOVES SLOWLY

Energies of Rushlight and His Subordinates Thus Far to Clean Out Vice Element Limited to Trio of Arrests - Shakeup Duc.

"Public gambling in Portland has get to stop," said Police Commissioner Cof-'ey yesterday, duscussing the raid on Wong Sing Jong's gambling-bouse at EK Everett street, early Sunday morning.

The administration is not going to play any favorites. All of these resorts must either suspend operations or be forced to go out of business.

"The attitude of the administration will be the same whether the offenders are white, black or yellow. The Chinaman or the negro has no more right to break the law as to gambling than has the white man and they will all be dealt with alike. The objection to public gambling lies in the fact tha tlaboring men with size. The objection to public gain-bling lies in the fact tha tishoring men having a penchant for gambling are lured to these resorts and then relieved of their wages, with the result that their families suffer and they neglect honest obligations.

"Clubs" to Be Watched.

Other places, some of which are conducted as "clubs," in which gambling is known to be carried on, have been reported to Mr. Coffey. He intends to take decisive action against these resorts as soon as he is satisfied of their character.

energies of the administration The energies of the administration thus far in its vice crusade have been expended almost entirely in raiding a few gambling games. Disorderly houses, scattered throughout the city, continue to enjoy immunity. Policemen remain hind as to the existence of these playes, which are doing a thriving business and dispensing liquor in violation of state and city statutes.

Acting Chief Slover's order of Satur-and city statutes.

Acting Chief Slover's order of Saturday, directing the sergeants and captains of police, through their command, to arrest and bring into Municipal Court the male parasites who infest the prominent street corners by day and late into the night, apparently has not been taken, serfously by the officers to whom it was addressed.

Only Three Arrested So Far.

This is true even though the order rovided that failure on the part of members of the department to round up these undesirables and bring them into Police Court would be considered proof of inefficiency and dishonesty and would be taken as ample reason for distance and property and the proof of the missing such policemen summarily from the department. Since the order was is-sued three alleged undestrables have been arrested. The rest of them conbeen arrested. The rest of them continue to parade the streets.

Those citizens who have placed any reliance in the "promises" of Mayor Rushlight to give Portland a genuine "housedeaning" as to vice in its various forms are patiently awaiting developments in that direction. While some progress has been made toward putting a stop to gambling, the dissolute women of the city and their male consorts are not being disturbed to the extent, at least, that their unlawful business is being noticeably curtailed.

The red lights continue to burn, music and reveiry fill the midnight air, and patrons of these resorts go and come patrons. mithout molestation from any source. These demanding evidence of real reform where it is needed are beginning to insist that Rushlight and his subordinates turn their attention to something else than the arrest of Chinese fantan

Slover and Coffey Ignorant?

Slover and Coffey Ignorant?

Both Chief Slover and Mr. Coffey profess not to know anything about the impending dismissal of 50 members of the police department, including not less than one captain of police and one or two sergeants with probably the same number of detectives. Their denial of any knowledge of this prospective action, however, is not taken seriously. There is every indication that fully half-a-hundred members of the department are soon to be relieved of their positions and given an opportunity to look for other employment.

The removal of this number of po-licemen may not take place today or tomorrow but it is known that the department is to be weeded of "un-desirable," inefficient or alleged dis-honest members to that extent.

hopest members to that extent.

It is not probable that all will be dismissed simultaneously within any 24 hours. The process of elimination will be taken up gradually, it is believed, and will proceed just as rapidly as Chief Siover and Commissioner Coffey gather the evidence upon which to prefer charges against the suspected members of the department. Both Slover and Coffey for the last month are known to have been conducting investigations. The further fact is known that they have sufficient evidence in their possession in a number of cases to warrant action when they of cases to warrant action when they get ready to proceed. Just when that time will arrive nobody knows but them and they will not tell.

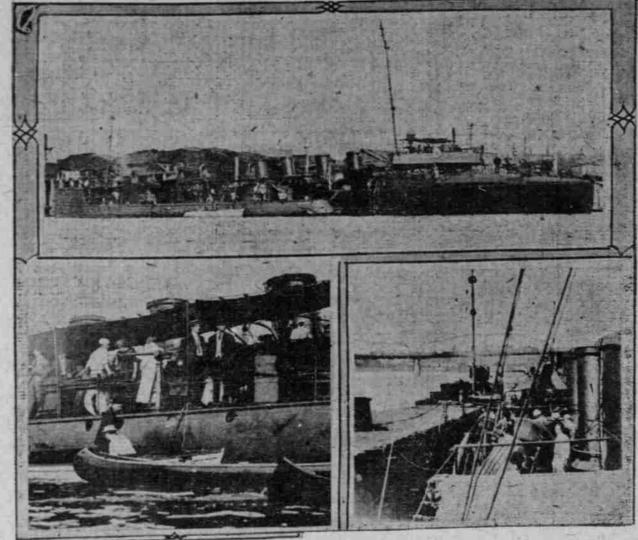

Maher Case Resumed Today.

Further testimony will be taken today in the hearing by the County Court into charges that have been preferred against County Detective Maher and Frank L. Forkins. The hearing will be resumed before County Judge Cleeton and Commissioners Hart and Lightner at 9:30 o'clock.

The heavy front doors and three sets of lookouts were judged impossible to page and the police turned their attention to the neighboring stores. The tion to the neighboring stores. The store next door to the cigar stand which masked the front of the gambling den was entered shortly after midnight. From it a passage led into the gambling den, but the door was of two-inch planks, heavily studded with bolts. It was judged too hard to make a sudden entrance and a partition wall was attacked at a signal from Acting Chief Slover and Police Commissioner Cof-fey. With crowbars and axes the offi-

While Sergeants Smith and Kienlen broke through the partition, Officers Maddux and Royls surprised and captured the lookouts in the cigar store before they could give the warning signal. Then, with an improvised battering ram, they attacked the front door, which gave way after the inch-thick steel boit had been bent and twisted and the hinges had been knocked off. Two other doors were broken down before the officers from the front entrance could enter the room. Officers of the Burns detective agency in Portland yesterday said W. J. Burns, head of the organization, would arrive in this city from Los Angeles either today or tomorrow. It is feared by some that any investigation Burns may make person-ally, tending to clear up the trouble between his agency and Carpenter, will only result in further complicating a graft situation that thus far has not been definitely exposed and the offend-

Conditions Reviewed at Recent Street Improvement Meeting.

PORTLAND. Aug. 12—(To the Editor.)—
The street committee of the City Council called a special meeting of the interested inspayers for last Tuesday night; the invitation said to give the taxpayers an opportunity to discuss the street improvement problem and the cost of same. A large number of taxpayers were present to have and hear a discussion about this excessive cost, and why competition is eliminated. The chairman of the committee announced that all the taxpayers present would have a chance to express their views on this important matter. But did they have a chance? Not much. The chairman ordered the clerk to take up the reading of the different proposed street improvements, and asked for any reason why they should not be passed. In every case the excessive cost was the only objection.

The fact that no competition was allowed on this class of work brushed aside any chance for a reduction in the cost, and streets and districts after districts were passed by this committee, at the same price throughout—$1.55 per yard—and to the same concern laying the bituilithe pavement. But when the bill is paid it will amount to $2.50 per yard, and with one or two exceptions the committee passed every street that the Council had resolved should be paved with bituithic or Hassam. Thousands of dollars worth of improvements were passed against the wishes of the property owners. Why should this condition of things be allowed to exist?

Gravel and macadam improvements of late years have been taid on our streets in the best manner known to modern engineers, all the crevices were filled with created rock so that when the roadways were finished they were as solid as it was possible to make them. They were one foot thick, and the cost of same less than one-third the cast of bituithic. Now comes along a presumed patented process, but which, in fact, has been in use in the older countries for over 40 years, and by contivence the promoters got the City Council to pass a resolution eliminating all competition on street work by designat

GOLDENDALE. Wash., Aug. 12.—(To the Editor.)—If our Uncle Samuel had only possessed a foresight anywhere approachthe Editor.)—If our Uncle Samuel had only possessed a foresight anywhere approaching his hindsight ability, he would be 99 years shead of where he is today. Take the matter of good roads alone as one glaring illustration. Good common sense, or just ordinary cayuse sense, should have suggested to any way-taring citizen old enough to vote that the maning of good wagon roads should have proceeded hand in hand with or better still, have preceded the construction of railroads. Instead we see the railroad builders at this late day forced to take the lead in the mere preliminary public discussion and agitation for good roads.

The fact is Uncle Sam has been so busy of late posting "Keep off the Grass" and "No Trespass" signs, and in shooing the hold, bad railroaders off the reservation, that he has had no time to improve his own private roads, and seems to prefer to ride to town and get stuck in the mud with an empty wagon.

Samuel Hill, who has demonstrated by practical example and at much expense of his own and money in Kilckitat County, will be present at the Good Roads Convention at Astoria Tuesday, and will again argue for what he so constantly advocates as necessary. First of all, for the more rapid improvement and development of this country, with these three most important essentials—good roads; second, better roads, and, third, the best roads in the United States, for the best people in the United States, many of whom will be attracted here by the opening of the Panama Canal.
