Search Is Made Anew for Man Judge Tazwell Freed.

TRAIL LEADS TO SEATTLE

Statutory Charges and Bigamy Are Offenses of Which R. A. Lovegrove Is Accused—Police Court Not to Try Next Case.

With complaints accusing him of statutory offenses and bigamy, the Constable's office is making every effort to bring about the arrest of R. A. Lovegrove, who was released from the County Jail a few weeks ago by Judge Tazwell, on a technicality, after William Brannock, an ironworker, followed him and Mrs. Brannock for two years in an effort to arrest him for breaking up the Brannock home in Taft, Cal.

Lovegrove and Mrs. Brannock disappeared from Taft, Cal., more than two years ago, taking with them two of the Brannock children, and leaving Mrs. Lovegrove and four children stranded in a California farming district. Mr. Brannock began a search for the elopers, and after two years' quest, which cost him $18,000, they were arrested near Sandy and charged with a New York larceny offense. They were released under unusual circumstances by Judge Tazwell. Mr. Brannock returned to California recently, taking with him his two children, whom he recovered after the arrest at Sandy.

A letter which has been received from Mr. Brannock from California by Juvenile Officer Whyte says that he has been given a good home but are watched closely to prevent their being kidnapped again by Lovegrove and Mrs. Brannock. Mr. Brannock says he is anxious to bring about the arrest of the two again and is ready to come to Portland to testify against them. Lovegrove has also promised to come here to testify if Lovegrove is arrested.

MID-WEEK FILMS ARE NEW

Fifteen First-Run Reels Exhibited by People's Company.

That a widow wins out against all odds in a battle for a man's affections is shown in "Divided Interests," at the Star Theatre. "The Express Envelope" is a well-told melodrama portraying a thrilling episode in railroad life. Two Father comedies and a rich scenic complete the pictorial end of the entertainment. Miss Virginia Dorothy Hill sings and Lloyd, the Coaster singer, repeats one of his London music hall hits. "The Squaw's Love," an Indian picture, will be the Sunday feature.

"The Prisoner of the Mohicans," a picture of Indian nature; "The Sheepman's Triumph," a picture of the cattle rustlers, and a double biograph film filled a well-blended programme at the Oh Joy, while new programmes drew the usual crowd to the Crystal and Crystal Theaters, on the East Side.

RAIL RIGHTS QUESTIONED

City Attorney Doubts Legality of Railway Franchises.

That the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company may have no franchise under which to operate on the West Side, is the statement of City Attorney Grant, in a letter to Mayor Rushick made public yesterday. Mr. Grant recommends that no further franchises be given this corporation until such time as its officers make a detailed report to him as to the city on bridge and improvement work, including the dispute on the right of the company to operate over the Hawthorne bridge. Mr. Grant said he had been going into these features of his official duty, as laid down by the charter, and was soon to make a detailed report to the Mayor and Council, but he hastened to submit his views at this time because the streetcar company had filed application for a large number of extensions and new franchises, with a lot of streetcars which the corporation wished to relinquish its present rights.

HOTELMEN TO AID OREGON

Campaign Will Be Waged to Bring Tourists Here.

"More tourist travel for Oregon" will be campaigned for by members of the State Hotel Men's Association, which held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the Oregon Hotel. To bring about the conditions they seek, members of the association will make steps to form a more comprehensive organization of the hotels of the state, and will co-operate with the commercial organizations and the transportation companies to give publicity to the features that will attract tourist travel to Oregon. Speaking of a recent trip through California, E. Jorgensen, of the Lenox Hotel compared the conditions that exist in that state with those that obtain in Oregon, and declared that only through raising the standard of service in the hotels in small places throughout Oregon could they hope to attract automobile and touring parties that bring so much revenue into California. M. C. Dickinson, of the Oregon Hotel; L. Q. Swainland, of the Perkins; and George Dixon, publisher of the Hotel News, were appointed to arrange a date for a state convention of hotelkeepers, to meet in Portland for the discussion of plans to attract and hold the tourist trade in Oregon. R. W. Raymond and C. C. Chapman, representing the Portland Commercial Club and the convention committee, promised all the assistance in giving publicity to the movement for better tourist accommodations, and members of

The association agreed to subscribe $20 each for two years, to the publicity committee of the club. Hotels of the state will be brought into closer cooperation by the publication of a list of members of the association, which will be circulated throughout the state, that hotel keepers in different towns will be able to direct tourists from one place to another. These lists will give the rates prevailing in the various hotels and the number of rooms available. They will be published monthly, that travelers may be enabled to plan their stopping places with certainty while passing through the state.

CITY PRACTICAL IS CITY BEAUTIFUL, SAYS BENNETT.

Chicago Architect Addresses Ad Club on Remodeling of Portland. Aid Promised Project.

"Not the 'city beautiful,' but the 'city practical' is what I am working for," said E. H. Bennett, addressing the members of the Ad Club at the weekly luncheon in the Portland Hotel yesterday. "People are inclined to give the wrong construction to the word beautiful and for that reason, the Civic Improvement League should try to get away from it. As a matter of fact, however, the city which is laid out on practical lines, must be beautiful, for utility and beauty go together."

ICE SHORT, FINE $50

PROPRIETOR OF COMPANY CONVICTED, APPEALS.

Thomas Barnes Said to Have Carried Sliding-Price Scale to Cheat Patrons—Woman Complains.

Thomas Barnes, one of the proprietors of the National Ice & Coal Company was convicted in the Municipal Court yesterday of selling short-weight ice, and a $50 fine was about to be imposed upon him, when his attorneys requested that the fine be raised to $25, that he could appeal. Judge Tazwell raised the fine to $50, and the appeal was taken.

is the fate of C. Howard Acker, who is appearing this week at the Orpheum as the stage manager in "The New Leader." Acker was just ready to go on to play his part at the theater last night when a Portland attorney appeared at the stage door and handed him a copy of the decree as entered by a New York court.

The action taken by Mrs. Acker is especially unsatisfactory because the court has given her entire control of her 16-year-old daughter," said the actor after the performance. "The child is as tall as I am and is more often taken to be my sister rather than a daughter."

"Mrs. Acker was a Baltimore girl and we were married when she was 16 and I was 17 years of age. When success came to me in Eastern stock engagements and the matinee idol stuff began to come out in the newspapers my wife did not like it. She had never been on the stage and did not understand what it meant any more than a good many other wives."

"Then I went on the road with a Henry W. Savage production and Mrs. Acker brooded over her imagined grievances until she concluded to sue for a divorce. I went back as soon as I heard of it and we became reconciled. The case was not withdrawn, but when I left New York with Mrs. Acker's company Mrs. Acker agreed to have the case thrown out of court immediately. Since then I have been making remittances to her out of my salary and had absolutely no knowledge that she had changed her mind."

"I shall let the subject rest until I go through with the present tour, and then seek the advice of an attorney. I will not give up my rights to the daughter without a fight. Mrs. Acker's parents are prominent in Baltimore."

ELECTRIC CHAPTER DESIRED

To organize an Oregon chapter of the National Electric Light Association, the Comerford Martin, of New York, National secretary, will arrive in Portland next Tuesday. Mr. Martin is on his way to Seattle to make arrangements for the holding of the National association meeting there in 1912. He will get from Portland to Spokane, where he will attend the Northwest Pacific Electric Light & Power Association meeting. While in Portland he will deliver a lecture Tuesday evening in the assembly hall of the Electric Building, Seventh and Alder streets, and at this meeting steps will be taken to form the Oregon chapter of the National association. Every person in the electric light business is entitled to become a member and to attend the lecture. The active co-operation has been secured of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, the Pacific Power & Light Company and of the Mount Hood Railway, Light & Power Company in forming the chapter.

Judge Tazwell raised the fine to $50, and the appeal was taken.

Barnes was accused of selling short-weight ice to Mrs. E. C. Masters, at 44 East Fifteenth street, September 7. Mrs. Masters had a standing order with the ice company to deliver 50 pounds, and had been accustomed to pay one-half cent a pound for it. When the ice, said to be under weight, was weighed, it was found to contain only 38 pounds. It was alleged by the prosecution that Barnes had cards with sliding scales of prices in his pocket, and that whenever he was called to account for delivering short-weight ice he could exhibit a card with a price printed on it to the particular customer, and which usually showed that the customer had really obtained more ice than due.

Mr. Bennett's address on the "City Practical" as he insisted on calling it, was followed by a speech by Dr. J. R. Wetberbe, of the Civic Improvement Committee, inviting the members of the Ad Club to visit the Art Museum, where Mr. Bennett's designs for Greater Portland are on display, promising to give any time they should require to a full explanation of the plans.

The Ad Club has decided on a method of lending its support most effectively to the movement of the Civic Improvement Committee, to set aside a day in the near future and visit, in a body, the museum where the plans are displayed.

"The best thing we can do, to set the people of Portland interested in this work," said J. F. Larsen, is to get together and make as much noise as possible about it, when we go to examine the plans."

Other speeches on civic development were made by Lionel R. Webster, of the Good Roads Commission, and A. E. Chambers, of the development commission of the Great Northern Railway. In the business session a committee of 15 was appointed to arrange for the entertainment of delegates at the convention of the Pacific Coast Advertis-

THE STABILITY OF THE ARTISTIC PIANO

To build a truly artistic piano, one that will meet the highest requirements of the most exacting artist, that will maintain for a lifetime its elasticity, resonance and perfection of tone, that will stand, uncompromisingly, the terrific strain imposed by the concert pianist, is the goal sought for generations by all builders of high-class instruments—and with but one exception unattained.

Primarily, the decay of tone in a piano is due to one cause—the flattening of the arch or crown of the sounding-board.

The TENSION RESONATOR (patented), as used exclusively in the sustains and supports the crown of the Mason & Hamlin sounding-board so perfectly that it not only insures the permanent perfection of the piano, but also it adds to the vibratory quality of the sounding-board to such a degree as to produce a tone of such rare sweetness, singing quality and purity as is found in no other piano in the world.

Mason & Hamlin pianos instantly compel the enthusiastic admiration of the true musician, and when once tried prove every claim made for their superiority, establishing a new standard of excellence which places them absolutely on the pinnacle of perfection. We cordially invite you to inspect them most thoroughly at our warerooms. When desired they may be purchased on easy payments.

Have You Suspected Your Kidneys?

There are two ways to tell whether you have weak kidneys. The first is through the pains in the back and other outward signs. The second is by examination of the kidney secretions.

That is why physicians make such a careful examination when you apply for insurance, and if there is any sign of kidney trouble you are surely rejected.

Kidney disease is so dangerous that it is a bad mistake to overlook or neglect it, and if pain in the back, recurring headaches, or a fretful, nervous, tired condition makes you suspect some kidney trouble, take the trouble to watch the kidney secretions. Look for any of the following signs:

- More or less than three and one-half pints passed daily.
Too dark or too pale a color.
Passages too frequent, profuse, or much reduced, or scalding and painful.
Beady, gritty or cloudy settings.
Fat or oily-looking layer which gathers on the surface when allowed to stand, or a jelly-like thickening.
Staining of the linen or bed odor.
Temporary changes may occur for a time from things eaten, but if the changed appearance continues, your kidneys are out of order and need help. Neglect may prove serious.

Doan's Kidney Pills correct and regulate the kidney secretions, stimulate and heal sick kidneys and thereby drive away backache, rheumatic pain, nervousness, dizziness, bloating and other results of kidney disease. Home proof is the best evidence.

PORTLAND PROOF

Fred Muralt, 873 Haigh avenue, Portland, Or., says: "I suffered intensely from kidney complaint and although I was treated by physicians, I failed to get relief. There was a steady pain in the small of my back and the least cold I caught made my trouble worse. Other symptoms of kidney complaint were present and when I heard that Doan's Kidney Pills were effective in cases of this kind, I procured a box. They brought relief in a remarkably short time from every symptom of my trouble. I publicly told of my experience in October, 1907, and at this time I am pleased to make the fact known that my cure has remained permanent."

"There's that awful pain again."
