LIVELY CONFERENCE SURE

Appointment of District Superintendents by Prelate Is Fought by Many in the Church Who Want Choice Made Elective.

Indications point to the most animated session in years of the Oregon Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which will convene in the First Church, Salem, next Wednesday, Caurch, which will convene in the First Church. Salem. next Wednesday. Bishop Smith will preside, this being his third consecutive year in the presidency of the Northwest conferences. Ministers of the denomination are arranging to close up the work of the year preparatory to attending the annual session, and tomorrow will present musi session, and tomorrow will preach their last sermons before going to the gathering which is to decide their fate for another 12 months. Election of ministerial and lay dele-gates to the general conference, which will meet next May in Minneapolis; discussion of whether district superintendents shall be elected by the con-ference or appointed by the bishop; and the question of placing more or-ganizations on a basis of official life will be themes calling for oratory, and it is predicted that the session of the conference, will be lively. Always of great interest to minis-ters and members of all the churches are the pastoral appointments, to be made by the hishop. He has power, under the discipline, to shift every preacher in the conference, if he sees fit.

Few Changes Expected Here While he probably will not be so drastic, it is said that a good many changes will be announced, probably on Monday night, September 25. It is believed, however, there will be no changes in pastors of First, Grace and Centenary Churches, Portland, where Dr. Benjamin Young, Dr. John H. Dr. Benjamin Young, Dr. John H. Cudlipp and Rev. Delmer H. Trimble, respectively, occupy the pupits. Neither is Dr. W. H. Fry expected to be moved from Sunnyside Church, to which place he was brought last year by Bishop Smith to finish a stone building. He has done the work well and is in high favor with the congrega-tion, so that he probably will be sent back to them.

Great interest centers in the selection of delegates to the general conference. Birenuous efforts are put forth by the friends of various candidates, which include Dr. Benjamin Young, of First Church, Fortland; Dr. J. W. McDougal superintendent of Portland district; Rev. Clarence True Wilson, becretary of the general committee on temperance, formerly paster of Grace and Contenary Churches. Portland; Rev. James T. Moore, superintendent of Salem district; Rev. James T. Abbett, superintendent of Eugene district; Rev. Hiram Gould, paster at Forest Grove, and Dr. Fletcher Homan, president of Willamette University, the denominational school at Salem. Great interest centers in the select thool at Salem.

Insurgency is rife in the church and there are many who want some radical changes in the administrative branch changes in the administrative branch of the denomination, such as giving the conferences the right to elect the district superintendents, now appointed by the bishop. In this conference there are four of these, and it is probable that there will be a big debate over this important question. The superintendent of a district stands next in authority to the resident bishop. In the bishop's absence, be is in complete control of the ministers and, in certain emergencies, has authority to change appointments.

Four Superintendents Affected.

Should the general conference amend the discipline in respect to the district superintendents, giving the annual conferences power to elect, the four men now helding those positions in the Oregon Conference might be changed; at least, they would have to take chances with their fellows in an election. These are Dr. McDougall, of Portland District; Dr. Moore, of Salem District; Dr. Abbett, of Eugene District, and Rev. R. E. Bunlap, of Klamath District. Klamath District.

Friday afternoon the laymen of the conference will meet. They, too, must elect three delegates to the general conference, and this feature is attractconference, and tals feature is attracting widespread attention this year. It is generally conceded that R. A. Booth, of Eugene, will be elected, leaving two to be chosen. First Church, Portland, has indorsed by resolution A. M. Smith. Robert H. Hughes, acting editor and business manager of the Pacific Christian Advocate, member of First Church, and Norman C. Thorne, of the same church, are mentioned. John Corkish, of Grace Church, Portland, is another. A. F. Flegel, a member of Woodlawn Church, also is discussed. A. E. Lee, of First Church, Salem, is another candidate.

lican," qualified the Southern Democrat.

"Texas Democrats are divided on the subject of a candidate for President in their own party. Some are for Harmon and others favor Wilson, while many, like myself, would like to see Represenjative Underwood, of Alabama, head the Democratic ticket. Undentably, Underwood has proved himself as Democratic leader of the House to be a bly and capable man.

"Bryanism will no longer control Democratic sentiment and action in Texas. Although Bryan has a number of frieads among the leaders of the Democratic party in my state, the rank and file of the party do not want him. They feel that he has run his course and should be shelved politically for all time to come."

Mr. Imboden formerly published a newspaper at Rusk and has served his county as District Attorney and State Senator. He is now engaged in the practice of law. Imboden says the people of Texas are satisfied that Senator Balley's recent announcement of retirement from public life is genu-
