W. J. Clemens, Representative, Declares Special Session Is Political Move.

NEEDLESS

Member of Lower House Asserts That Executive Should Have Thought of People Before. West Makes Statement.

Governor West's attitude on the good roads question has done much toward bringing about an unsettled spirit among many members of the Legislature and good roads advocates, with the result that the chances for the enactment of proper road laws are more remote than ever. Behind the present programme is politics. The Governor probably wants road laws enacted, but they must be so framed that they will be satisfactory to him and his supporters. In other words, the good ruads question is more important in camenting the Governor's political strength than building up and developing the state.

Such is the conviction of W. J. Clemens, member of the House of Bepressers, member of the House of Represents. Governor West's attitude on the good

Such is the conviction of W. J. Clemens, member of the House of Representatives, who discussed the question resterday. Mr. Clemens also takes Governor West to task for exercising his prerogative over the will of the people in vetoing the five measures passed at the last session of the Legislature. The bills were not perfect, it is admitted, but Mr. Clemens contends that they embedded all the essential features desired by all classes of people and that they would have served as a starting point in the good roads development in Ovegon. If it were found that parts of the bills were conflicting or not satisfactory, they could have been amended at the proper time. The bills vetoed were satisfactory to the farming classes and there seemed to be little crificism from other classes.

People's Rights First.

People's Rights First. There is no person in the state who wants good road laws and good roads more than L" said Mr. Clemens. "I am willing to do all I can now to bring about the best legislation possible on this subject, but I do think that the people sught to have their rights in the subject. The Governor has been arbitrary all along. Now that the situation is worse than ever, he says he is willing to waive his views and to let the people settle the question. Why did he not take this view at the time the five bills were submitted to him? the nve bills were submitted to him? He vetoed them because they did not suit him. Did he forget that the propie of the state were entitled to their rights and that their views on this subject were just as important as his subject were just as important as his own?

"Furthermore, he inelsts that if a special session is called no other business shall be considered but the new bills that have been drafted by his special committee. If we elect to go to the Legislature without any expense to the state, should we not have the right to consider any legislation we may choose? For instance, there is the model vehicle license law? Look what shape it is in. The Aitorney-General says it is unconstitutional. If that be true, why could we not amend that law without waiting to have the points at lasue settled by the Supreme Court.

Merit is Bills Vetocd.

Merit in Bills Vetocd. Merit in Bills Vettock.

"The bills that were vetted were, of course, not perfect, but the majority of the members of the Legislature considered them meritorious or certainly they would have defeated them. The bills now proposed have good features. Would it not be possible to select the best features of the vetted measures and the new bills and frame even stronger measures? But here is the situation. The devernor will call a The Governor will call special session on the condition that we consider only the bills that his spe-cial committee has framed Unless that procedure is consented to, there will be no special session. Our altermative would be then to consider only what may be acceptable to the Governor. We want good road laws and must have them, but I insist that the Governor should withdraw gracefully and let us have a free and open

The growth and development of our state has created a demand for better lighways. The members of the Legislature at the regular session had their opportunity to enhet legislation, which would have brought about a more exinctifier and eccombinal system of road building. HELD BERTHS DISLIKED

EFFORT IS MADE TO CHANGE PULLMAN SYSTEM.

Practice of Reserving Space to Be Fought by Northwestern Passenger Association.

A concerted effort to abolish the system of reserving Pullman accommodations as now practiced by the Western railroads will be made at the meeting of the Northwestern Passenger Asso-ciation at Vancouver, B. C. October 1. F. D. Chamberlin, district superins tendent of the Pullman Company, in Portland, has been endeavoring to do award with this practice for nearly a year. He declares it a nuisance all around, a constant source of annoyance to the railroads, a deteriment to the Pullman interests and an inconventage of the province of the pullman interests and an inconventage of the province of the pullman interests and an inconventage of the province of the prov ience to the traveling public.

United action on the part of the railroads is necessary. In the last few days Mr. Chamberlin has interviewed passenger representatives of lines terminating in Portland and has obtained consent of nearly all of them to terminating in Portland and has obtained consent of nearly all of them to advocate his reform.

The Canadian Pacific and Soc lines and the Great Northern, which operate private sleeping cara have agreed to quit making reservations if similar action is taken by the lines that carry Pullmans. The Milwaukse, which also has its own sleepers, is yet to be heard from but its consent is almost certain. Mr. Chamberlin proposes to make every Pullman patron pay cash for his accommodations at the time they are ordered. The privileges of making reservations from two days to two weeks in advance has been much shused and everyone concerned has suffered, he says.

Persons who pay cash for Pullman tickets can have them redeemed if offered at the office of the company prior to the train's departure and this privilege will be retained when the reservations are abolished. There is no chance for legitimate purchasers to less anything by the new plan, it is pointed out.

NO RESERVATIONS TAKEN

Designation of Meeting Place Is Also Burning Question as Auditorium May Not Be Ready-Order's Chief Is Due Soon.

Now that the dates on which Portland will entertain the Elks' grand land will entertain the Elks' grand lodge convention have been definitely fixed from July 8 to July 13, 1913, the two questions that are uppermost in the minds of the executive board having the affair in charge are the selection of grand lodge headquarters and a meeting place.

Pending designation by the officers of the grand lodge of the hotel in which they will establish their offices and headquarters while in Portland, much business that might be transacted by the local Elks is delayed. The board yesterday communicated with John P. Suilivan, of New Orleans, grand exalted ruler, urging him to come to this month.

Many lodges are clamoring for reservations, but the hoteis here have refused to grant accommodations to any of them pending the decision of the grand lodge. While only four hoteis are active candidates for the honor, all others are affected, as the proximity of the grand lodge has an effect on the location of many others.

Denver to Send 200.

Denver, No. 17, telegraphed yesterday for accommodations for 200 or more. They are coming on a special train. A second special will bring representatives of other Colorado lodges. Applications for reservations have been received from more than 100 lodges in various parts of the country.

lodges in various parts of the country.

Three places are available for the business sessions. They are the new municipal Auditorium, on which work will be started soon after the first of the year; the Armory and the temporary auditorium that is to be seeded for the accommodation of the Gypsy Smith meetings.

K. K. Kubli, exalted ruler of Portland Lodge, conferred yesterlay with W. M. Ladd and others of the committee having in charge the Gypsy Smith auditorium project. It is desired to include accommodations for committees in the building if the Elks are to use it, but, inasmuch as the new public building may be ready for occupancy in time, Mr. Kubli could not agree to hold the Elks meetings there. hold the Elks' meetings there.

The new system will be established in Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane simultaneously with Portland.

HUNT LICENSE EVIL HIT When the committee first figured on the dates for the convention they did not take into consideration that 1913 is a leap year and that the second Monday in July is the 8th and not the 8th. The fact that the convention is one day nearer the first of the month brings happiness to the committee, as the roses will be blooming in greater profusion. Laborer Seized for $250 Robbery Believed to Be Trying to Get From Police View.

Fear that the crime of murder will be traced to him if he remains longer in custody, is ascribed by police offi-cers as the reason for a frantic effort on the part of Joe Miller, an Austrian laborer, to get out of the City Jail. The man had $530 on his person when arrested, and has given orders for the
