SUFFRAGIST FARM IS SORRY FAILURE

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Closes Experimental School for Young Women.

EVIDENTLY PALLS

And When Servant Force Is Cut Girl Agriculturists Lose Interest in Rustle Life.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 .- (Special.) --The experimental farm and agricultural school for young women, estab-lished as a suffragist institution by Mes. O. H. P. Helmont and maintained by her, is a fallure. The young women who forsook drawing-rooms to uplift agriculture have come back to town and the farm at Hempstead, L. I., will rease to be either a school for rustically-inclined girls or a branch of the uffrage movement.

From what has been said by the oung women who peeled off their farm duds, put on their Fall freeks and came to the city this week, the expense of maintaining the experiment station palled upon Mrs. Belmont. The staff of teachers and servants was out down and the students, many of cut down and the students, many of whom come from wealthy families, were compelled to scrub the floors and milk the cows. These tasks palled upon the students. They were glad when Mrs. M. A. Morgan, the society leader's confidential clerk, told the students of Mrs. Belmont's determination to close the school.

The first to leave under the order was Miss Leeners Brokaw, known as the prise pupil of the school and special favorite of Mrs. Belmont.

Miss Brokaw said she was amazed a few days ago, when informed of the society lender's intention to close the school.

"I consider my Summer wasted," and Miss Brokaw. "I went into this thing seriously. The scores of girls who were enrolled at different times in Mrs. Belmont's school signed a contract stating they would abide by the rules of the farm, and in this contract Mrs. Belmont promised to teach them all branches of farming, including a course in cocking.

"I never did housework in my life," said pretty Miss Brokaw, cousin of Gould Brokaw, and member of the well-known and wealthy family of Bernsrdsville, N. J. "Imagine my astonishment," remarked Miss Brokaw, "when, a few weeks ago, after a useless Summer, Mrs. Belmont discharged all the help at the farmhouse and compelled us girls to do the housework. pelled us girls to do the housework. Why, just look at my hands! I scrubbed and oiled floors and washed acrubbed and olled floors and washed dishes; just fancy!

The school's failure," said Miss Brokaw, "was due to lack of management. Mrs. Laurs Williams, the superintendent of the school. left about six weeks ago. Since then we have had no head; we just drifted for ourselves.

"Mrs. Williams' leaving considerably disorganized the school. While we were working hard on a thrifty 200-acre farm, run by a corps of expert farm men, we girls were not getting enough to cat. We stated these facts to Mrs. Belmont. We thought as we were working for our board we ought to get pretty good food, and enough of it, especially as Mrs. Belmont is ac rich and seemed so interested in our welfare.

"Life on that farm was no snap," said Miss Brokaw. "Most of the girls a from refined homes and are not came from refined homes and are not accustomed to hard work. Some of them left after a few days. The hot sun and long hours made them III.

"Instead of learning how to raise chickens, milk cows and get a knowledge of growing regetables, our work was mostly drudgery. Besides the long to the course of the course was mostly drudgery.

hours spent in the garden, we had to do our own haundry work. I simply couldn't stand this and I sent mine out. "Mrs. Belmont's original philan-trophic idea was to have weekly parties and invite the young men of the neighborhood, but we haven't had a party for weeks, and, besides, we were so tired at night all we could do was to lie down in our rooms and listen to the tiresome chorus of the mosquitees.
"I am going home to rest now," said
Miss Broksw.

When Soldiers Return With Reinforcements, Inhabitants Are Finally Pushed Back, but Church Valuables Are Saved.

LISBON, Portugal, via frontier, Sept. 19.—Cittzens of the little town of Villanova, eight miles from Codmbra, put up such a stout fafense against a ferce of soldiers sent to make an inventory of the church property to be confiscated by the state, that the soldiers were defeated yesterday. Later they were overcome when reinforcements were hurrled up.

The inhabitants, advised of their approach, sounded the church boils and gathered to the number of more than 1200. The vanguard was formed entirely of 300 women, armed with pitchforks, knives and shotguns.

The local military forces fled ingioriously. Strong military reinforcements were dispatched to the scene, and a fierce fight followed, the inhabitants

Frank W. Robinson, general freight agent of the O.-W. R. & N. He said that while the various interested roads are figuring rates in compliance with the Commission's decision, they have not yet established a ance with the Commission's decision, they have not yet established a basic rate from which to work.

"The question of appealing the case is in the bands of a committee of attorneys," said Mr. Robinson. "I don't know what they will do. So far as the rates affecting Portland shipments to concerned nothing has been dothe rates affecting Portland shipments are concerned nothing has been decided. The railroads will be prepared to obey the Commission's orders on November 15, when the new rates become effective. Whether the old terminal rates will be maintained and the new rates to intermediate points reduced in the proportions set out by the Commission, or whether the old intermediate rates will govern and the terminal rates be increased to the proper proportion had not been decided when he left Chicago, Mr. Robinson said.

While I don't pretend to know what the lawyers are going to do, the possibility of asking for an injunction from the Federal courts pending an appeal of the case was discussed by the traffic men," he said.

The National Monetary Commission estimated the annual expenditures of those who visit Europe at $200,000,000. There is sufficient evidence that the amount is between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000. COLONY LOSES $33,000 Everett Judge Decides W. A. Alloway

EVERETT, Wash, Sept. 20.—(Special.)—A jury late today decided that W. A. Alloway and wife were still mentally incompetent to handle their affairs and by this verdict frustrated alloway's intention to take $33,000 to California and give it to Prophetess Fanetta Weiss, of the so-called Christian Assembly Colony, located near Los Angeles. Judge W. W. Hlack announced to-day, in the absence of the jury, that in case they decided Alloway was mentally competent, he would take a hand, as he proposed to protect him from willy schemers working under the guise of religious cults. Mrs. Weiss controlled a colony here for years and moved when the authorities levied fines aggregating $800 for not sending children to school.

Fender Tests Are Barred. A. E. Clarke, representing a client appeared at the session of the Judiciary Committee of the City Council yester-day and requested that they recom-mend new fender tests. After considerable debate, the members sent back a resolution by Councilman Joy to the Council, without recommendation. Mr. Clark said that he could see no real reason why the Council should decline to grant new tests, as it might be that a better fender than the Nelson automatic, now being installed on the cars here, could be found. The members of the committee, however, felt that such tests might interfere with the in-stallation of the Nelson fenders and therefore declined to recommend.

of the hotel management and has been working for a railroad restaurent system. He has been gradually working his way east, it is said, and reached Albuquerque about three weeks ago. The prosecution had its agents where they would keep in touch with him.

Darrow Denies Coercion. Diekleman sent a telegram to the authorities here Monday, they said, declaring that emissaries of the defense were trying to "talk with him." He asked what he should do, and was told to "leave the emissaries alone."

Today the prosecution received word from its agents that Dickieman had de-parted suddenly for Chicago last night and the authorities at Albuquerque were requested to investigate. Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said today that his brother-in-law, B. Hannerstrom, and other representatives of the defense, had been sent to see Dickleman to learn what he knew, but declared that no other advances had been made to him. Darrow said he did not believe Dickleman had been summoned as a witness by the prosecution, and asserted that there would be nothing more gained by the presence of Dickleman in Chicago thas in Albaquergue, as the Chicago than in Albuquerque, as the man was out of California in either case and could not be forced to come here to testify for either the prosecution or the defense.
