LE GALLIENNE TO WED THIRD TIME

New "Quest of Golden Girl" Ends With Engagement to ex-Actress.

POET HAS DIVORCE PLAN

He Would Have Separations Issued to All Comers, Like Marriage Licenses - Fiancee's Alimony Troubles Recalled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Special.)— Since he was divorced by his second wife, who accused him of indiscreet conduct Richard Le Gallienne, the poet, has presumably continued his "Quest of the Golden Girl" and has presuma-

Mrs. Howard Hinton, mother of Mrs. Perry, has announced the engagement of her daughter to the post, but says that the wedding date has not been set. In fact, she declares that the ceremony will not be performed for a long while. Since she diverced R. Hinton Perry, who is her cousin, Mrs. Perry has been making her home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Hinton, at a handsome little cottage at Pokeneke Park, near Darlen, Conn. There Le Callienne has been frequently entertained.

Easter Divorces Urged. in spite of the fact that Le Gallienne is so sure he will be happy with Mra. Ferry that he has asked her to become his third wife, the post wants to have divorce made easier. He argues that neither state nor church should have anything to say about the marriage of two persons, and that should they choose to be divorced, it is nobody's business but their own.

Since the state does have something to any, however, he is willing that a divorce license bureau, such as the marriage license bureau, he estabmarriage license oursel, he candilabed, and that couples secure divorce permits upon application, by signing names on the dotted line and paying the customary fee. One of Family of Financiers Gets Most Expensive Apartment in Most Exclusive Building of Kind in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 .- (Special.)-Murry Guggenheim, one of "the" Guggenheims, has been engaging in a pursuft that is shared by most of the rest of the world, the open seasons being September and May. That pursuit is flat-hunting and Mr. Guggenheim announces that he has bagged game.

Mr. Guggenheim, whose family deals everything from scrap iron to mines and millions, is very well satisfied by the knowledge that he has acquired a the knowledge that he has acquired a lease on the most expensive apartment in what is described as the most exclusive apartment building in New York. His annual rental for a suite at $9 Fifth avenue, opposite Central Park, is $25,000. Mr. Guggenhelm considers this extremely reasonable. The rental, of course, includes janitor service.

Building Not Ready Yet.

The building is not yet completed but it soon will be and already a number of distinguished persons have been announced as tenants. To be sure, they will not pay as much rent as he does, but Mr. Guggenheim can move into his $15,000 apartments with the comfortable feeling that his neighbors, at least, are "the right sort of people."

Senator Elihu Root is to occup the tenth floor. The Senator's yearly rental will not be $25,000. To Murry Guggenheim alone belongs the distinction of paying this record price for a Guggenheim alone belongs the distinction of paying this record price for a mere apartment.

Commodore Robert E. Tod of the Atlantic Yacht Club, member of the firm of J. Kennedy Tod & Company, contents himself with a modest fourth floor apartment in the same building, at about $10.000 a year rental.

For his $25,000 Mr. Guggenheim will have twenty-two rooms and eight bathrooms. Two thousand square feet in rooms. Two thousand square feet in the apartment will be available for en-tertaining. In every sieeping room there will be a jewel safe.

Two arched doorways lead from the reception hall into a stately drawing-room or living-room, nearly 45 feet long and 22 wide. Great windows look out on Central Park and the Palisades.

To the south of the drawing-room are two smaller apartments for entertaining. These are to be elaborately panelled respectively in French walnut and white oak, with hand-carved work that has been done in France and which in its delicate tracery is like a dainty web of Flemish lace.

The dining-room, to the north, will have marble wainscoting with panels of tapestry, also set in carved woodwork.

the Supreme Court as to how this case shall be decided. If the contention of the state of Minnesota is overruled, Governor Harmon will have no recourse but to appeal to the people in behalf of an amendment to the constitution, and such a decision would be a hard blow to the Harmon Presidential boom.

On the other hand, if the Supreme Court sustains the contention of the state of Minnesota and overrules Judge Sanborn, Governor Harmon will have an opportunity to go before the country and "point with pride" to his effective appeal to the Supreme Court, assuming that the court listens to his argument. There will be a vast deal of other important matter before the Supreme Court at the Fall term, though nothing quite as important as the trust decisions of last term in the Standard Oil and Tobacco Company cases. The pre-cedent then established will be followed in all similar cases brought before the court of last resort, and in the apcourt of last resort, and in the approaching term, argument will be heard in the "anthracite coal trust" case, directed against the Reading, Lehigh Valley and D. L. & W. railroads, and in the case against James A. Patten, E. G. Scales, F. B. Hayne and W. P. Brown, charged with maintaining a corner in cotton in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Kentucky After Railroad.

Another case, arising in Kentucky, will be of interest in the West. The state of Kentucky has undertaken to tax the Southern Pacific Railroad Company on the basis of several million dollars for its ocean-going steamers, on the ground that the corporation is legally situated in Kentucky and therefore subject to taxation. The Southern Pacific was incorporated in Kentucky. The Supreme Court docket is decidedly crowded, there being nearly 300 cases entered, the largest number on docket at the opening of any term'in the last ten years. Probably 300 new cases will be docketed in the course of the term.

be docketed in the course of the term.
If the court works no faster than it did last term, it will not dispose of half the cases pending, for at its last term It decided or otherwise disposed of but 454 cases. It would therefore appear that the court is about two years behind in its work, and will continue to fall behind unless it can put on greater speed than it has heretofore shown.

The probabilities are that the court, to save time, will cut down the allowance for argument, necessitating counsel to be brief and to the point. The tendency of Congress to legislate on a wholesale scale has not helped the Supreme Court, but rather has greatly in-creased its labors.

—Timbers are on the ground for the new bridge across Rogue River at the east end of Main street, and work will be begun as soon as the steel arrives. The contract calls for completion by December I.

The new bridge will be of the most modern steel type. It replaces one of the landmarks of Southern Oregon, the old wooden Centennial bridge, built as a toll bridge in 1818 by Thomas Chavener, founder of Gold Hill, and owner of the rich gold discovery from which the town was named. The Centennial has been unsafe for heavy traffic for over a year.

Recluse Suddenly Expires as Niece Visit Him After Estrangement. Body Rescued From Flames and $20,000 Is Reward.

NEW YORK. Sept. 24.—(Special.)— The sudden death of a hermit, for years embittered against his kin; a freakish fire which nearly cremated his body and almost caused the death of his two pretty nieces who were visiting him. and the finding of a fortune in cash, jewels, stocks and bonds in the barn of the recluse's lonely farm near Stony Point, on the Hudson, are the striking features of a strange story of real life which has just come to light through estate of Cartson Stemmerman. The letters of administration are sought by the dead man's brother, Nicholas Stem-merman, of the Bronx, a business man of property, whose daughters, Georgine and Sophie, figure in the story and may come in for a goodly share of their uncle's estate.

Carston Stemmerman was born & years ago in Germany. He came to America in 1863 and settled in New York. He speculated in real estate with a good deal of luck, and 15 years ago be gave up his business and retired with his wife to the Stony Point farm.

In 1898 Carston Stemmerman and his brother, Nicholas, fell out, and thereafter, for several years, the Stony Point recluse wrote to no one except his other brother, Louis, who, it is said, now lives in Chamberlain, S. D.

Two-years ago the sister of Carston's wife, who had kept house for him since his wife died, became insane and was put in the State asylum at Middletown, N. Y. It was then reported in Stony put in the State Asylum at Middletown, N. Y. It was then reported in Stony Point that Stemmerman and his house-keeper, known to her neighbors only as Lens, had had a violent quarrel in regard to property and jewels, and that the recluse had put his gems, cash and securities in some safe place where they would never be found by Lens if she survived him.

The recluse died suddenly on June 11 last. Two weeks before that he made up with his brother Nicholas and had come to New York to visit the latter, who was ill.

That night about 10:30 o'clock the two nicces, who were alone in the old house with the body of their uncle, were awakened by the smell of smoke. A violent storm was raging. The place had been set on fire by a stroke of lightning. The young women carried the body of their uncle from a bedroom downstairs.

For many weeks after the funeral of the recluse, an unavailing search was made for his hidden fortune. made for his hidden fortune.
Finally one day when everybody had given up hope of ever discovering the missing fortune, Frederick Rose, a neighbor, made the lucky find. He had gone into the much-searched barn to stable a cow. He was poking into a dark corner of the loft, far down under the rafters, when the prongs of his pitchfork struck against something hard. He poked again.

This time the hard object gave forth a metallic sound. Rose crept into the corner on his hands and knees, and succeeded in dragging forth an fron box. He at first thought it was a lunch box, but when he got it downstairs it took him only a moment to realize he had "struck it rich." When he had pried open the lid, there, before his eyes, iay revealed the long-hidden fortune—envelopes full of securities, several bank books, a number of life insurance policies, some silver spoons and a glittering pile of gems with a picture of the recluse's mother.

Rose delivered all of the valuables in the box, estimated at more than $20,000, to representatives of the Stemmerman estate. The court has now granted to Nicholas, the brother, the letters of administration.

LEADER'S FEAR IS AROUSED

(Continued From First Page.) nates against the voters of straight tickets. A Republican or a Democrat can vote a straight ticket with one cross mark. A member of another party that has indersed some outsider is compelled to make two cross marks at least, and also study for some time before he knows whether he is correct or not. And the State constitution guarantees that voting must be as easy for one class of citizens as it is for another.

For publication, the Tammany men express confidence that the decision of Justice Gavegan will be reversed. They insinuate that he may be prejudiced, as he was elected two years ago on the fusion ticket, named by the Committee of One Hundred, indorsed by the G. O. P., and later accepted by Hearst. Yet they overlook or ignore the fact that in National matters Gavegan is a Democrat and long active in labor circles. Lawyers who have read his extremely clear decision declare that it sounds to them like mighty good law and they do not believe it will be upset. and they do not believe it will be upset. The final ruling, of course, will come from the Court of Appeals, and it is pointed out that a precedent aiready exists which covers the present case. Over in Brooklyn last year Supreme Court Justice Garret J. Garretson was renominated by the Republicans. The judicial convention of the Prohibition party met, but did not nominate, authorizing a committee to the Prohibition party met, but did not nominate, authorizing a committee to fill the vacancy. Later this committee named Justice Garretson, and the Democratic candidate took the case to court, pointing out that the election law forbids a committee of a party from naming as its own candidate a candidate already in nomination by another party. The unanimous decision of the Court of Appeals was written by Chief Justice Cullen, a Democrat living in Brooklyn, who said:

"If the Legislature does grant to a convention, committee or body the right to make nominations, it cannot limit the right of such convention, committee or body the mittee or body to nominate as its can-

How Nature Makes New Complexion

(From The Family Physician.) It is well known that the human skin is constantly undergoing a tear-ing down and building up process. With advancing years or waning vitality this tissue-change lags: the lifeless, solled surface skin stays on so long that its owner gets a "poor complexion." Common sense tells us this dead skin cannot be erflivened or beautified by any cosmetic, jotion or powder. The natural thing to do is to remove the offensive skin-remove the bad com-plexion. It has been found that ordi-nary mercolized wax completely ab-sorbs the devitalized skin, in minute particles so gently, gradually as to particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience. Mercolized wax, which any druggist can supply, is put on at night like cold cream, only not rubbed in, and washed off in the morning. If you would have a brillantly beautiful complexion, just use this simple treatment.—Adv.

two weeks of election day, which will give plenty of time to print the necessary ballots.

If the Levy law is thrown out, Murphy probably will revise his present plans, which call for an absolutely Tammanyized ticket.

Of the six Justices of the Supreme Court to be elected three are to fill new places created by the present Legislature. The term of Justice Francis M. Scott, Francis Key Pendleton, and Dan Chalan expire. The two latter are appointees of Governor Dix, following vacancies caused by a death and the resignation of Senator O'Gorman.

Murphy, it is understood, will turn

Murphy, it is understood, will turn down Justice Scott, who although a Democrat, is not a Tammany man. Pendleton is a pretty good citizen and will be renominated. Cohaian, who had announced he meant to get out, chirked up under the influence of the Levy law and only intimated he might run again. Now he is on the fence.

When Surrogate Thomas died in office early this year, Murphy demanded that Governor Dix name Robert Luce, a faithful friend. It happened to be one of those few days when Dix was independent, and he appointed Robert L. Fowler, a respected lawyer. The vacancy must be filled at the election this Fall, and Murphy, it is said, has promised Luce that he shall be on the ticket.

Weeping by Tammany Expinined.

Weeping by Tammany Expinined. Successfully to turn down Scott and Luce and also elect Cohalan might be possible under the Levy law, but it could not be done under the present statute. All of which explains why there is weeping and gnashing of teeth in the inner circles of Tammany.

There is opposition to Murphy and opposition to Gaynor and the charter he is trying to force on New York. The Gotham Republican organization is now commanded by a diplomatic politician, Samuel S. Koenig, who will bring about a fusion ticket and take advantage of the mistakes of his opponents.

The popularity of Koenig was demonstrated last year when he ran for re-election as Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, the head of his ticket, was defeated for Governor by a plurality of 65,401. Keenig was kept out of office by the narrow margin of 1873.
