CONVENTION PLAN URGED

Portland White Ribboners Anxious to Get National Meeting.

At Wednesday's meeting of the ex-county committee of the Multinomah County Woman's Christian Temper-ance Union and the special committee suppointed at the recent convention, the question of entertaining the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention in 1913 will be considered, and a report to the Oregon State con-vention, which meets at Medford Oc-tober 3 to 8, will be formulated. On the result of this conference vention will depend whether the con-vention will come to Portland. The delegates, numbering about 425, must be entertained in Portland by members of the Jocal unions of Multnomah county if the convention is secured. The state convention will issue the
