FAIR KLAMATH IS JUNKETERS' OASIS

Portland Business Men Are Met by Citizens' Delegation at Midland.

CITY'S GROWTH SURPRISES

Visit to County Fair and Inspection of Field Products Included in Joyful Day-Morning Mista Lend Beauty to Shasta.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Sept. 18.— (Special.)—The junksters awake this morning as the train circled around the morning as the train circled around the sternal snows of Mount Shasta for it was necessary to go far down in the state of Chiffornia to reach Klamath. Yes, more's the pity, one must go out of the state to reach one of the gemeitles of Oregon by rail.

However, it is worth while. It is worth almost any sacrifice for a citizen of Oregon to make to get even a glimpse of the city of Klamath Falls. The Portland delegation was met at Midland, eight miles south of Klamath, by Mayor F. T. Sanderson, E. R. Reames, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Judge H. L. Benson and W. P. Shive, as a committee to welcome the excursionists.

Ride Revenis Beauties. Ride Reveals Hesuties.

The train arrived at Elamath in time to enable the party to see the lakes and the valleys bathed in the beautiful morning sunshine. The members arrived and disembarked at one of the most beautiful depois in Oregon. a building constructed of native Elamath grante with inside tilling of purest white. Capacious beautiful and arranged to give the finest and choicest.

But to stop at the depot. The junketers were met by a cavalisade of automobiles, all gally decorated in the Portland colors, and throughout the town on every hand, on every building, they saw the emblems of Portland.

A meeting and a greeting at the hotel, a spread of welcome from the Mayor and from that prince of Oregon citizens, Judge Baldwin, and to the members dispersed to meet and greet the business men of the town. Passing friendship and business associations for the future.

Dinner on the train and then away to the Klamath County Fair, where the members of the party beheld races, broncho busting, roping, steer throwing and branding, but greatest of all to see was what the Klamath people have in the way of agricultural preducts. And what a surprise is Klamath. It is well up in altitude, 4000 feet, but here were found as fine vegetables, apples, pears and other fruits as ever were seen. What a revelation. The visitors had been led to helleve Klamath County was a stock country, but these exhibits showed that agriculture can and is here followed to great profit.

Rapid Growth Enjoyed.

But the town itself; the location is row and the party will reach Portland at 9:20 Friday evening. Thus far the trip has been one of pure enjoyment and profit, and it is hoped it may so continue to the end.

ASHLAND, Or., Sept. 28.—(Special.)
—The tourists arrived at Ashland at 6:23 o'clock last night and after supper we were excerted to the Commercial Club assembly rooms. Judge Watson delivered an address of welcome. He expressed his sorrow that the visit was expressed his sorrow that the visit was at such a late hour as to preclude a single glance at the country around the town and this was also a great regret to the Portland people.

Then the visitors enjoyed songs, piccolo solos, hurrahs and slogans and short addresses from W. P. Jones, of the Merchants National Bank, Chairman Hyland and Julius Meter, the latter speaking particularly of the Panama Exposition.

a Exposition.

Judge Baldwin, of Klamath Falls, one of the early citizens, in fact one of the founders of Ashland, spoke as the representative of all sections. He spoke particularly on the road question, as Jackson County will vote on a $1,500,000 bond have for road construction on Saturday next J West a 11,500,000 bond have for read construction on Saturday next. J. Fred Larsen told one of his inimitable Sweds stories. Chairman Hyland took up the good roads question, followed by John F. Carroll, of the Portland Telegram, on the same subject.

William S. Day, secretary of the Ashland club, read "Swat the Fly," followed by a splendid address from C. C. Chapman.

a right to appeal from the ruling of a Juvenile Court to the Circuit Court, Anna Foster, appellant in the case of Poster va. Hattie Myers, has met another reversal, this time from the State Supreme Court. A decision has just been handed down affirming the judgment of the Circuit Court. The ruling of the court that no appeal can be taken from decisions in the Juvenile Court affects all the counties in the

The commencement of the case dates back a couple of years, when Loretta Hoag, having been abandoned by her mother, anna Foster, because she was unable to care for her, was committed by County Judge Grant B. Dimick, sitting as the Judge of the Juvenile Court, to the custody of Mrs. Myers, who resides at Marquam. Shortly after this the mother of the child married again, and through LaForce and Stevenson, of Fortland, sought to regain custody of the child, and retaining Joseph E. Hedges of this city as her attorney, Mrs. Myers fought this movement.

After considering the case, Judge Dimick denied the motion of Mrs. Foster, but through her attorneys she carried the case to the Circuit Court, where a motion was made by Hedges to dismiss her appeal on the ground that no such remedy is provided in the statute from the decision of the Juvenile Court. Circuit Judge James U. Campbell, before whom the case came up, sustained the motion of Hedges, and the matter was then carried to the Supreme Court, where she was again worstad.

According to the opinion handed down, the appellant having defaulted in the original proceedings taken to declare the child dependent and abandoned, ceased to have any right to its coustody. Thereafter, her legal rights in regard to the daughter were no greater than those of any person who might ask the court for leave to take

The visitors were taken in due time and by various routes to the Baldwin Hotel where they met a welcome unprecedented thus far in the trip. SALEM, Or. Sept. 28.—(Special.)— The actual strack on the University of Oregon referendum petitions started today before Judge Galloway in the Circuit Court, when the taking of tespelitions to reduce the valid number of names below the point required to fle the petitions.

Secretary Olcott, who is made defendant in the suit, was the first witness. He said that the petitions were in his custedy and have been filed. David W. Ross, handwriting expert and assistant cashier of the First National Bank in Portland, was the only other witness of the afternoon. Name after name was declared by him to be either a forgery or a fictitious name entirely, and in many instances he pointed out specifically where either the circulator or the attestor of the petitions involved were the ones forging the names.

From the rate that testimony is now being taken the trial promises to drag out probably throughout the rest of the week and possibly longer. It will be necessary to invalidate over 6000 names on each petition.

Attorneys Fall to Shake Witness in Lewellyn Case.

POLICEMAN SLAYER HELD

Miss Bertha Wells Who Was With Army Bugler Just Before He Was Shot Says Officer Was Within Six Feet of Victim.

VANCOUVER, Wash. Sept. 28.—
(Special.)—Roy L. Burkhart, the policeman who shot Bugier Harry L. Lèwellyn, when he tried to escape after being arrested and who died a few hours later from the woune, was today given a preliminary hearing before, and was bound over to answer to the Superior Court en the charge of manslaughter.

He was released on ball of $5000. He is to be tried at the October term of court.

In the preliminary hearing today, Miss Bertha Wells, the woman with Lewellyn when he was shot, was the chief witness for the state. She was on the witness for the state. She was on the witness stand for nearly an hour and her story could not be shaken, even by rapid-fire cross-examination by W. E. Yates, who has been retained by the defense, in addition to R. C. Sugs, City Attorney, and R. H. Back and Charles W. Hall. Fred W.

To him again by Miss Wells, she said.

Dectors Are Questioned.

She was positive in her statement that Burkhart was not more than five or six feet from Lewellyn when he satelled the fatal shot. In the station when he was lying on the table, she asked Lewellyn when he saked Lewellyn why he ran away, but he gave her no answer.

Cown, and Lieutenant S. A. Campbell, in command of A Company, also were in the holding the post more examination at the post hospital.

Mr. Yates made a motion for dismission of the case on the ground of no evidence or rebuttal and both sides waived argument.

The court room was packed during the trial, many soldiers being present. The defense offered no evidence or rebuttal and both sides waived argument.

Girl Calls to Sweetheart.

Girt Calis to Sweetheart.

Miss Wells said that she and Lewellyn, who was handouffed, his hands being in front of his body, were standing in front of the police station on the morning of September 29, under arrest. Wynne Gasaway, a policeman who was with Officer Burkhart when the double arrest was made, pulled out his key and was unlocking the door when Lewellyn broke and ran down Washington street, followed closely by Burkhart.

She shouted, "Don't run away, sweetheart," but Lewellyn heeded her not, and when at the corner of Seventh street, as he turned to run toward the garrison, Burkhart shouted, "Halt" and fired. Lewellyn gave a cry and fell near the curb, and was taken to the police station by Gasaway and Burkhart. They had trouble in removing the handcuffs, Gasaway dropping the key, and it was picked up and handed to him again by Miss Wells, she said.

A Legacy of Ill Health

How Invalids Are Malic by the After-Effects of Malaria, the Grip and Other Acute Discuses.

After an attack of fever, the grip, or other acute disease the patient is frequently left in a condition that may mean a lifetime of misery if proper precautions are not taken to restore the blood and drive out the lingering poisons that cause the so-called "after-effects" of these diseases.

Malaria, typhoid, scarlet fever, measles, rheumatic fever, the grip or influenza, and, in some cases, severe colds, leave weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over sensitive nerves-a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, nervous prostration, and even consumption. Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of strengthening the blood and nerves during convalesence.

Mrs. William Patterson, whose address is Box 33, R. F. D. No. 4, Snohomish, Wash., says: "I had an attack of the measles and was sick for over a year. I was very weak and could not get my strength back. I was so short of breath that I couldn't walk any distance at all without fainting. I had awful headaches a greater part of the time. I was nervous and run down in flesh and strength. Friends, who saw me, thought I would never get well. I was living at Everett, and was treated by two doctors, but they didn't do me a bit of good. Finally, I had to remain in bed and the doctor said that nothing but a change of climate would help me. After being confined to bed for a month, my mother decided to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I received great help from a few boxes, and grew stronger and felt better in every way. I took the pills regularly for quite a while and was completely
