OREGON BEFORE 150,000

MULTITUDE EXPECTED TO SEE ST. PAUL LAND SHOW.

Northwestern Exhibit to Be Great Success, Predicts W. A. Campbell—Mid-State's Display Big.

That the products of Oregon will be shown to 150,000 persons in the heart of an old agricultural region, at the Northwestern Land Products Show, is the prediction of Will A. Campbell, secretary of the Northwestern Development League, who is making a trip over the Northwest with the Hill party.

The land show to which Mr. Campbell refers is the first enterprise of the Northwestern Development League organized in Helena last May, of which the Oregon Development League is a subscribing member.

"Unlike any other land products show, the exposition to be held in St. Paul is not a money-making proposition for anyone," said Mr. Campbell. "The states simply got together through their Governors and Commercial Clubs and decided to hold a land show. They have been materially aided by the Hill lines of railroad and we are going to conduct a show under the most favorable circumstances—with all the money we can get, to be devoted to advertising the show and bringing people in to see your products.

"It will cost us about $50,000 to put on this show. Of this sum about half will be used for advertising the enterprise. The business men of St. Paul and Minneapolis have put up $10,000 for official exhibit space to be used by the seven states in the league. The other $20,000 has come from the railroad companies and enterprising communities which wanted separate exhibits from the official displays of their states.

"There are practically no salaries being paid out of the land show money, no commissions and no waste. If we have any money left from the show we will put it in the treasury of the Northwestern Development League, which will continue to do something for the American Northwest after the land show is over."

The league is publishing a book giving uniform information about each of the states of the Northwest and this book will be placed in newspaper offices, school rooms and Commercial Clubs everywhere. Maps of the American Northwest are also to be prepared by the league and 500,000 of them will be published. These are for the school rooms of the United States.

"We will open a permanent exhibit in the Twin City and make it a show place for everyone who visits the gateway to the American Northwest," said Mr. Campbell. "Oregon will be represented in this and without doubt we can supplement the work already being done by the Oregon League by supplying hundreds of names of prospective settlers who visit this permanent exhibit."

Prineville and Central Oregon will have a separate exhibit at the Twin City land show, the Commercial Club of that town having collected enough samples to fill two cars.

"Central Oregon certainly looked good to the members of the Hill party," said Mr. Campbell. "James J. Hill said although he had good reports from the Central Oregon district, he was surprised on visiting it and it looked much better than he supposed. The grain samples were so high that Mr. Hill thought the straw had been spliced. It made everyone connected with the Oregon Trunk line glad they had built the 115 miles of crooked road against heavy odds to reach such an empire."

FORECASTS.

Portland vicinity—Fair, followed by rain by Thursday evening or Friday morning. Northwesterly winds, shifting to southerly.

Oregon—Fair, except rain along the north coast. Winds becoming southerly.

Washington—Fair east, rain west portion. Winds becoming southerly.

Idaho—Fair, except rain southeast portion; cooler southeast portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The barometer is rising over the North Pacific States and no rain of consequence has occurred in this district during the last 24 hours. The storm yesterday over the upper Mississippi Valley has moved east to the New England States. It was attended by general rains and high winds in the Lake region, Middle Atlantic and New England States. It is much cooler in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Lake region and correspondingly warmer in the Atlantic States from Maine to the Carolinas.

The conditions are favorable for fair weather in this district Thursday, except along the North Oregon Coast, Western Washington and Southeastern Idaho, where rain will occur. It will be cooler in Southeastern Idaho.
