Waists of fine pongee, messalines, Persians, taffetas, marquisette and fine China silks

—In plain colors, fancy stripes and small tiny checks and Persians in different shades of blue, brown, tan, green, lavender, black, white and in fact such a variety of shades and colorings too numerous to mention.

—They are designed in most artistic and novelty styles. Some with kimono sleeves and others with sewed-in sleeves, either long or elbow lengths. Many are tailored with standing collars attached. Others with round necks finished with a plain band of material, which is also used on the sleeves and the body of the waist. Many are adorned with lace, others with fancy tucking and many with just a simple tie and bands of silk to match. The above picture illustrates a few of these charming models.
