Kseler, of New York City. and E. W. Peck, state secretary of the Inneapolls, Minn., Y. M. C. A. Mr. Lewis said last night:

Movement's Origin Told.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement was started by the brother-hoods of the various denominations, the international Sunday School Assoplation, the international committee of plation, the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., and the Gideons, the commercial travelers' Christian organ-isation. James G. Cannon, president of the Fourth National Bank of New York City, is at the head of the move-ment. He was in Portland as the guest of the Portland Clearing House Association last April. Fred B. Smith, religious work director of the Interna-tional T. M. C. A., is the campaign manager.

"The direction of the movement is in the hands of a committee of 9 prominent business men and ministers from warloos parts of the country. C. B. Gray, William M. Ladd and myself being the Portland members of the

BRIDGE WORK PROGRESSES

No hard gravel or large rocks have been encountered and the work has accordingly progressed faster than was expected. The completion of this pier will practically finish the substituting work on the marine piera. Excavation for pier number 1, on the West Side, will be finished in two days.

J. J. Johnson, master of Evening Star, also favored the new method of electing state delegates, but opposed increasing the dues to the State Grange. All the Granges in the state are expected to vote on the subject and leave the decision to the officers of the State Grange at the next session of that body.

owing to the absence of O. K. Paimer, who owned the plant, it is impossible to learn the amount of insurance carried.

Mr. Paimer and a party of friends left last night for an automobile trip to Mount Rainier. Night Marshal Parrand Watchman Blake discovered the fire just about the time it started under the tramroad of the plant next to the Northern Pacific tracks. They turned in the alarm, the fire-house being but a block from the factory. Then they started for the fire when they started will never solve the vice question.

Mr. Molles.

M

About the time the fire started and just as the alarm was given a long freight train pulled into the yards, blocking all the crossings. Something happened at this critical juncture to the air brakes and the engine was the air brakes and the engine was powerless to back up or move the train, so as to open the Prindle street crossing and allow the department to reach the fire. The result was that there was a delay of ten or 15 minutes in getting the fire equipment across the track and then it was too late to save the factory. The department, however, confined the blaze to the plant and Thus saved several thousand dollars' worth of finished lumber that was stored in the sheds. The dry kilns were also saved.

The dry kins were also saved.

The factory was operated on a lease by the Twin City Weedworking Company. On the site of the same concern, in the early nineties, Luedinghaus Bros., of Dryad, lost a big planing METHOD OF ELECTING DELE-GATES TO BE DECIDED.

Proposal to Have Separate Bodies Choose Made--Question of Raising Dues Is Presented.

Referendum is now being taken in the subordinate granges in Oregon in the matter of electing delegates to the State Grange and on the question of actions on saloon licenses by the liquor license committee at its last meeting, the proposed plan is for every Grange to elect its delegates to the State Grange.

to the State Grangs.

Mrs. H. L. Vall, a prominent member, addressed Evening Star Grange Saturday afternoon, advocating the new method of electing delegates. Mrs. Vall pointed out that the Washington Granges elect their own delegates without county conventions, with very satisfactory results. The order in Washington is making great progress. The total delegation in Washington Stage Grange is 1000 members, but the speaker said this large body had not been found unwieldly. Councilman Maguire at East Side Baptist Church Opposes Commission.

EHRGOTT DEFIES CRITICS

Pastor Says if Church Members Cannot Enter Fight Against Existing Evils He Will Quit and Go Elsewhere.

"I must confess that I am not in sympathy with the movement for a vice commission," declared James Maguire, Councilman, in his address at the East Side Baptist Church last night "One fault I find with it is that there are too many ministers on it. A minister as a rule is one of the most impractical of men when it comes to dealing with such a problem. The reason is, they carry their heads in a cloud. Once in awhile, when one gets down among us mortals, he can accomplish things, if he will."

Councilman Maguire criticised the church for failure to sympathize with the unions. Rev. Albert Ehrgott, pastor of the church, introduced Mr. Maguire as "the Councilman who has the courage of his convictions." After he had spoken, Mr. Ehrgott said he could not indorse all that Mr. Maguire had said, but that he was heartily in favor of his position regarding the saloon and vice. Councilman Maguire criticised the

The two strange men were seen by Mrs. Ed Manninen, living on Northrup street, in the same block. The rear of the Manninen residence and the rear of the Molies residence are close together. The two men, Mrs. Manninen says, went secretively through an aileyway, from Seventeenth street, going over the back porch of her residence, and into the back door of the Molies residence. Wednesday, also, a man visited the residence under the guise of selling some household article, and was at length forcibly ejected by Mr. Molles.

Mr. Molles informed Mrs. Molles, on saint's rest.

Another statement of Ar. Maguires was that the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association and the Bartenders' Union are strongly opposed to "combination houses." He said "most big business men and corrupt officials are church members," and that "big business and corrupt officials are at fault for the immoral conditions that exist in this As to the restricted district the Councilman said:

Brewers' Association Blamed "I found most of the unfortunate men running these resorts were, I might say, owned body and soul by the Brewers' Association. I say these men are unfortunate because they are robbed by the brewer, landlord and corrupt officials. I found 101 saloon in Portland controlled by members of the Brewers' Association. One man, E. Giutch, collector for the Weinhard Brewery, controls 52 of these places. The other 49 are owned by four or five other breweries and brewery agencies. Every hell-hole in the city except two or three are controlled by these brewerles under what is known as power of attorney." The party holding such power practically owns him body and soul. They are after business, no matter how they get it, and if one party doesn't get business for them, they will find the party who can.

"They do not ask about his reputation, they only ask. 'Can he sell beer?' If they are satisfied that he can, he gets a job as manager of one of these resorts. The resort is usually owned by some substantial business man; the lease usually suaranteed by the brewers. "I found most of the unfortunate
