CENSUS TAKERS ERINDICTMENT

Supervisor and Two Special Agents Are Charged With Fraud by Government.

Guy E. Kelly Arrested and Puts Up Bail-Warrants for Enumerators Will Be Served in Tacoma Today.

TACOMA, Wash, Oct. 11.—(Special.)

-Guy E. Kelly, supervisor of the recent facoma census; W. A. McKenrie and flacey Corwin, special census agents, and five other Tacomans, all directly supported with the company taking in compected with the census-taking in its city, were indicted today by the rederal Grand Jury, which returned 14 secret indictments to Judge Hanford and was discharged. Six of the in-lictments do not concern the census-

Kelly, who was indicted twice, one ill charging him with conspiracy to rid and abet the violation of the cen-us act, and another alleging that he sus act, and another alleging that he sided and abstred a violation of the census act, was arrested late this aft-graces at the office of the United States District Court, where he came to inquire whether any indictments had the District Court.

The warrants against Special Agent McKennie, who is still connected with she Census Bureau and residing in Washington, D. C., and against Corwin, who fied from Tacoma last May and is now supposed to be in New Zealand, were not made out today, but telegraphic service is expected shortly against McKenzie. Service on the other five census indictments will be had tomorrow, as all the indicted men are residents of Tacoma.

What the indictments against Mcmension and Corwin allege is not known.

The indictment charging Kelly with renspiracy was not made public tonight for the reason that the other alleged tomapirators are not in custody, but the other indictment, which charges that Kelly did "wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously aid, abet, counsel, command and induce census enumerators to make fictitious returns," contains six counts and accases him of inducing Dale W.
Whitner, Ernest C. Tanner, Howard W.
Cady, George E. Hoke, Foster Quinlan and Elisworth A. Noble, all census enumerators, to add 587 fictitious hames to the Tacoma census roll.

Kelly asserted tonight he was absolutely innocent of the charges made against him and asserted he still befleved the actual population of Tacoma when the census was taken was at Jesst 110,000.

Never once, by word or implication.

when the census was tasen was at least 110,000.

"Never once, by word or implication, slid I seek to induce any enumerator to make a fraudulent entry; further-more, if any were made I have no knowledge of it," said Kelly, "As to the indictment charging me with conspiracy, that is ridiculous. I don't even know what I am accused of having conspired, for I was not permitted to see the indictment. I expect to brove my innocence of both charges and prove it easily. AAll I want is a Tair trial, and the speedier the better."

TAFT TALKS ON PEACE

to the spirit of Portland by recounting that on this, his third visit to the city. he had found it growing each time more attractive, and the spirit of progress sore noticeable.

"I fear, though," he said, laughingly, "that I'll have to take the existence of Mount Hood on faith. Every other tvantage is apparent and make an Impression upon the visitor."

He brought forth the first round of applause in an incidental way by declaring that one of the objects of his present "swing around the circle" is en help the people of San Francisco gurn the sod for the Exposition in time Sent the Canal is completed before they are ready for it.

Then he launched into a discussion ef the railroads and their present relations to the public as a result of the enactment of the rate bills and the amendments to the interstate commerce art. He said that the railroads' failure to respect the act of 1887 caused the people to demand and to go a law with teeth in it," and that since this has passed, the deflance previously offered by the carriers has disappeared. Rebates have largely ceased and diseriminations, if there be any, are posgible of elimination, he said.

Fair Play Is Asked.

With this revolution on the part of the callroads, even though it was forced upon them, the President made an appeal for fair play-

"Let us treat them as part of the They are entitled to conelderation," he sald, "When we find anyone trying to climb into political or other power by denunciation of the vallenads without just cause, let us visit. bim with the condemnation he deserves. Let's leave the rallroads to work out their own salvation under the restrictions imposed upon them by law, but let us take them out of politics and make them stay out of politics." The President expressed his confi-Wence in the possibilities for good consained in the Supreme Court's decision's in the Standard Off and the American Webacco cases. He said that no business man will have difficulty in meeting the conditions imposed by the court when it ordered those corporations to dissolve. He criticised those who have found Tault with the decision because the court applied its now famous "light of reason" qualification to it, and defled Those publicists and jurists and others. scho don't deserve the name," to bring concrete cases that cannot be governed tinder the terms of the ruling.

Frowns for Muckrakers.

I can't see why we can't continue to have progress in business within lines of the law," he declared, after voteing the belief that the corporaons whose dissolution has been ordered will obey the order, "Lat's frown down upon the muckgakers and those attacks of honesty and enterprise from which the whole He prefaced his remarks on the turiff by declaring that no changes ought to be made without a full un derstanding of the effects. In line with that idea, he said he has created the Tariff Board that is to report December I all the facts in the woolen and the cotion schedules and what the effects will be. This board now is studying the cost of producing those articles in Europe and in America, that it may have full knowledge on the subject.

"Because I didn't have such reports when Congress passed the wool and cotton schedules, I vetoed them," he asserted. This brought forth tremendous cheers.

Conservation Potent in West. Conservation, he admitted, is a quesion of more importance to the p ONE IS IN NEW ZEALAND of the West than to the people of the East.

"It is easy for us in the East, who have wasted all our resources, to give advice to you people of the West on the conservation of yours, who have not yet had time to use them," he "Really, these resources belong to all the people in the country, but in equity they belong more particularly to the people who live in the neighborbood.

He expressed the belief that the Western people naturally think that conservation means saving the natural resources for their grandchildren, but he added that he favored only such conservation that will permit the peo ple now in the West to live long enough to have grandchildren.

"While I am anxious to make progress in preserving these re-sources," he said, "it is necessary that the opportunity offered capital is such that capital may come in and develop the country.

Resource Leasing Payored

The President declared himself again in favor of the leasing system for the development of public resources. He pointed to the success of such a system been returned against him. Kelly gave his personal bond for 13500 in each this personal bond for 13500 in each tharge to appear at the next term of the District Court. gress to do something that will encour age those who are waiting to develop the country into action.

His plan for workmen's compensation His plan for workmen's compensation provides for a system of insurance that an injured employe may be able to obtain immediate and certain benefits. He pointed out the necessity of a law that will take the cases of injured workingmen out of the courts, and denounced the existing systems in most states as a lottery.

In appealing for more stringent regulation of the railroads' safety appliances he declared that the statistics pliances he declared that the statistics of killed and wounded on American railroads a few years ago were such as to bring the blush of shame to hay loyal citizen. He pointed to the improvement of the past few years as a opeful sign to the future.

Peace Foes Denounced.

Mr. Taft grew eloquent in discussing the arbitration measures. He bitterly denounced those who opposed them on the grounds that the country thus is making of itself a coward, and de-clared that the United States now is such a powerful Nation that it can af-ford to ignore the petry annovances caused by weaker and comparatively insignificant countries.

The only way to get rid of war," he declared, "Is to furnish a substitute for it. My ideal and my hope is to have an arbitration court in which every nation in the world will be able to find

He said that it is just as reasonable to arbitrate questions of national honor as it is to arbitrate those of personal honor.

"I differ utterly," he exclaimed.

"with the majority of the Senate committee on foreign relations that has disapproved of the provision in the treaties that allows either party to demand a year for consideration."

He said that a year frequently will give the people calmer and better judgment on subjects that might cause them to act unwisely if they acted in baste.

haste

The President's speech in full was: Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentleme of Portland, My Fellow-Citizens: This is the third time that I have had the honor of addressing the citi-zens of Portland. Each time that I come here it seems to me that your has grown more attractive, and city has grown more attractive, and that the spirit of progress, which was evident the first time, has continued in force to demonstrate your appreciation and use of the advantages which Nature has given you. I fear that I shall count today the extetence of Mount Hood on faith-(laughter)—but every other advantage is apparent and makes a deep impression on the visitor.

I want to thank the people of Portland for their most cordial reception.
I am on a long trip. This is the 35th day of the 46 days of that trip and I day of the 46 days of that trip and I live to tell you the tale. (Applause). I am so constituted that an invitation to visit a city in any part of the United States for any purpose of a public or quasi-public feature has a great attraction for me and I like to accept it. Therefore, when I had decided to visit Kansas in order to celebrate the semi-cenennial of that state and to visit San Francisco, in order that we might not be too late in turning up the sod of the exposition, lest the camal be complete before we got there canal be complete before we got there (laughter), I found myself in a situation where I felt like accepting and did accept every other invitation all over the country in 22 different states; and that is how I am here to respond your hospitable invitation to visit

Now, when a President visits as many states as that and has tried to talk to audiences under the conditions that are confronting his intelligent, carnest and patriotic citizens, I believe that it is his duty to discuss with them the issues that have been presented to him in the administration which you have put upon his responsibility, and to make such explanation as he can of those things which have not reached you in their full tryth and significance.

Federal Is Most Important. "The Pederal Government is, of sourse, the most important, because it is the largest government we have in this country, and we have a good many. There are the municipal, the county and the state governments. The municipal government comes to us most closely, and then the county and the state and the Federal Government are in proportion more remote. But there certain points at which the Federal Government touches the people most closely, and it is with reference to those points that I should like to say

"First, with reference to the railroads
—the interstate railroads that furnish us the arterial system of our commerce. The interstate commerce law was passed in 1877. That law was intended to abeliah undus discrimination, un-reasonable rates, and the rebates furwith Judge Cooley at the head of the Commission, the railroad gave some attention to the proceedings of that Com-mission, but after a time it became clear that they did not regard the Commission as having sufficient power to require them to pay much attention to it. The proceedings to remedy injus-tice in the fixing of the rates were so cumbersome, so slow, that it seemed as if the statute offered very little re-form." PROTZMAN - CAMPRELL SHOE COMPANY IS THRIVING.

Court Throws Out Case Based on $600 Bill Which Was Not Presented for Payment.

The application of Edwin Clapp & Son, shoe manufacturers of the East, Son, shoe manufacturers of the last, for a receiver for the Protzman-Camp-bell Shoe Company, has been thrown out of court by Circuit Judge Gaters. The receiver was domanded on the ground that a bill for $500 remained ground that a bill for $500 remained unpaid, but evidence showed it never had been presented to the management of the company for payment. Eugene C. Protzman, manager of the company, said yesterday that the trouble arose through fault of the treasurer; that nearly $10,000 in bills have been paid to the Clapp company since the first of the year, and that the Protzman firm is able and ready to since the first of the year, and that the Protuman firm is able and ready to may all bills on demand.

"The firm has more than enough money to pay everything that is due or nearly due to anybody." said Mr. Protuman. "It was so apparent to Judge Gatens himself that the application for a recoiver was a fraud that he threw the case out of court at once, without giving our attorney an opportunity to present his side of the case.

"As a matter of fact, this bill was never presented to us. No one ever came here and asked us to pay this money. The Protuman company is selling goods right along, making money every day, and there is no reason why this outrageous application should have every day, and there is no reason why this outrageous application should have been made."

COUNT WANTS TO BURN

Man Tired of Life Files Long Plea With County Clerk.

What are you and 1 But a slew and a fry. A first and a white A scramble for birst, And a red hot first when we die!

This is the ditty with which Count August Schaffelysky de Mukkadel de Castellane Seymore closes a two-page document, filed with County Clerk Fields yesterday, in which the "Count" asks to be chieroformed and cremated. He asks that his ashes be scattered to the winds from an aeroplane and that the winds from an aeroplane and that the ditty be chanted by his "crema-torisu" as the ashes are thrown. The "Count" demands that his ex-istence be ended by chloroform, and says it shall be the duty of the Sheriff, doctor or nurse to administer a liberal dose of the drug, and asks that all "professional opinions" as to his "professional opinions" as to his chances of recovery, as well as all "prophecies, paimistry, clairyoyants and other guesswork" be totally disregarded. He asks that his executor be exonerated of all blame and that praise likewise be withheld.

Tank Locations Protested.

Residents of South Portland held i meeting last night to protest against the location of the Union Oil Company's tanks at the foot of Porter street. Representatives of various man-ufacturing plants in South Portland spoke against the action of the City spoke against the action of the City Council in granting the company the right to locate its plant in the district. It is planned to prepare an ordinance and submit it by initiative to the people repealing the present oil tank ordinance. Another meeting will be held tonight when the new ordinance will be drafted.
