Klamath Falls of "Juice."

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—Owing to the greatly increased demand for power the Klamath Falls Light & Water Company, which is one of the Siskiyou corporation's stations, is once more up to its capacity, practically, after increasing it by the larger company which it found the 1000-horsepower generator run by a 500-horsepower capacity water wheel, which could move the generator with only half a load. The wheel was displaced about six months ago by a 1040-horsepower wheel and this wheel has now practically all been done owing to the increased power that has to be generated. The work of hitching the Klamath Falls plant to the 30,000-horsepower plant at Fall Creek, near Dorris, which has been delayed by a lost shipment of four carloads of insulators shipped to the corporation, will go ahead rapidly now, as the insulators have been located and one has already reached Ashland.
