Presiding Judge Gatens is standing firmly in the position he assumed at the outset of the controversy and insists that the courts have the right to set aside on proper grounds even a warrant of arrest issued by the Gov-ernor, as was done in the Martin case. Judge Gatens is fully determined to have Martin returned to Oregon. He would like to have Rinker brought back to face the charge of kidnaping that has been lodged against the Den-ver officer, but this cannot be accomplished without necessary extradition papers, which Governor West yester-day intimated he would not issue. BAY CITY AT TAFT'S FEET

The President's principal address of the day, at the auditorium, was on the subject of the vetoes and the tariff board. The audience was a most re-sponsive one, and frequently intersponsive one, and frequently interrupted with long applause. Pollowing an appeal for support of scientific revisions of the various schedules, based on reports of the tariff board, Mr. Taft called out a storm of cheering by announcing to the lemon growers of the state that the tariff on their product would not be changed until the tariff board had time to investigate and report on the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

"The tariff board," said the Presi-

The tariff board," said the Presi-dent, "Is made up of highly honorable men who are anxious to find the facts without reference to their political effect. They would scorn to change their views for any political consideration. I would scorn to suggest that they change them for any such reason and they would scorn me if I made any such suggestion."

Mr. Taft's day was full of interest and incident, and he was constantly on the go from early morning until mid-night, when he retired at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Edwards, in this Twice in the course of the day Mr Taft referred to enfranchisement of the women of this state. He laughingly declared at the auditorium that during the automobile parade through the streets he had endeavored to bow just a little lower to the ladies than when he was here two years ago, and he hoped that fact was duly noted. At Occidental College, where girl students were among his hearers, the President urged that the women of the state, now that they had been entrusted with a duty, would not fail to live up to it. Mr. Taft was taken to Pasadena for with the Board of Trade of that city. On the way back he stopped at Alhambra to review a mass of school children. As he was leaving Alhambr. there was an exciting incident which for a time threatened danger. An untied horse attached to a delivery wagon took fright as the President's car whizzed by at the head of a long pro-cession of cars, and started on a wild dash in the President's wake. Three or four local detectives loaped from escorting cars and grabbed for the frightened animal's bridle. They were shaken off. The three machines in the parade closed around the horse, shut ting him in as they rushed along. I was a pretty, but dangerous, maneuver and completely shielded the President.

President Taft heard nothing of the alleged attempt to dynamite a bridge alleged attempt to dynamite a bridge on the Southern Pacific Railway last night above Santa Barbara until late tonight. The President's train last night followed the regular train from San Francisco, ten minutes behind, and if any trouble had been encountered there would have been plenty of time to flag the special. All the railroads are handling the Taft train with the greatest care. the greatest care

Mr. Taft made tonight a further ap-peal for support of the arbitration treaties at the banquet given in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce at at Blanchard Hall to address a meet-ing of negroes, where he declared that he thought Booker T. Washington "one of the greatest men of this and the last century, white or black." "I think so," he added, "because he has had the courage, while he loves your race, to tell you the truth, and to tell you the one way by which you can earn your place in the community and render it better and higher. He has had the courage to tell you it is work, attention and industry that shall make you valuable to your community, that will cure the prejudice that you now have to struggle against, and that when you furnish a mercenary or a selfish motive to the white man, how-ever low he may be, he will respect you and ask for your labor to assist in building up the community."
