Residents of Jovita, Wash., Complain to Commission.

OLYMPIA. Wash., Oct. 18 -- (Special.) -All kinds of complaints have been received by the Public Service Commission, but the oddest one on record came in when residents of Jovita protested that it is impossible "to beat" the new tariff framed by the Commission to cover the interurban line between Ta-cover the interurban line between ra-coma and Seattle.

The tariff made out by O. O. Calder-head, statistician for the Commission, fixed the round trip rate from Jovita to Tacoma at 15 cents, which was a cut of 1 cents under the old rate. But the Jovita people used to buy a round trip licket, under the company's sched-ule, to Millon, for 50 cents, and then another round trip from Millon to Ta-coms for 15 cents, making the round in for 20 cents. New however there is no possible combination by which they can make the trip for less than 35 cents. Then they appealed to the Commission, but the Commission will not be able to help them. The matter rests entirely with the railway company. If it wants to cut the rate 5 cents it can; the Commission does not propose to interfere with the tariff at this time.

Besides the paintings there are two bronzes by Phimister Proctor, whose chief interest is in animal sculpture. All four artists are landscape painters, and as each has an individual interpretation, Nature is shown in many mods. Childe Hassam paintings glow with sunlight and warmth, and his Eastern Oregon scenes are of great interest. The mysterious twillights in which Keith delighted are familiar to many, and the number of his paintings which are exhibited shows that the "dean of California artists" is popular in Portland.
