

FOLA LA FOLLETTE IS SUNDAY BRIDE

Senator's Actress Daughter Is Married to George Middleton, Playwright.

CAREER WILL CONTINUE

After Honeymoon, Wife Will Resume Work Before Footlights. Only Few Witness Ceremony in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—Miss Fola La Follette was married this afternoon at the residence of her father, Senator La Follette, to George Middleton, a New York playwright. Only the immediate members of the two families were present.

Paul Kester, of New York, acted as best man and Miss Mary La Follette attended her sister as bridesmaid. Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, chaplain of the United States Senate and pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church, solemnized the ceremony.

No invitations were sent out for the wedding, and there will be no announcement cards.

The bride wore a traveling suit of dark blue cloth, and after an informal wedding breakfast, which was served immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton left for their future home in New York.

The simplicity of today's wedding was in deference to the wishes of the bride, who has strongly marked democratic convictions and simple tastes.

After her graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1905, Miss La Follette became a professional actress, securing a place in Ada Rehan's supporting company. Miss Rehan was then making her last tour of the United States in "The Taming of the Shrew."

After this Miss La Follette appeared in support of Alice Fisher, of "Mrs. Jack" fame. "The School for Husbands," by Stanislaus Stange, was Miss Fisher's play at this time. Miss La Follette later became leading woman for Leo Dietrichstein for two or three seasons and last fall was given the leading feminine role in Percy Mackaye's "The Scarecrow."

Miss La Follette does not intend to give up the stage because she has married. On the contrary, she will resume playing in "The Scarecrow" in the course of four or five weeks.

Mr. Middleton also is interested in the stage, being a dramatist. He wrote the play "The House of a Thousand Candles," from Meredith Nicholson's novel. He collaborated with Paul Kester in a comedy which Margaret Anglin produced and is the author of several other accepted and successful dramas. A book of his, with the title "Embers," is soon to be published. Mr. Middleton is a member of The Players and other New York clubs.

INSANE MAN STABS PRIEST

Brooding Over Italian-Turkish War Drives Church Employee Mad.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—His mind deranged by much thinking over the Italian-Turkish war, Francesco Barletta, a Neapolitan employed at Corpus Christi Church in this city, attacked with a sickle and seriously wounded Father Charles Buss tonight in the parsonage. The blade of the weapon was driven into Father Buss' back below the right shoulder blade, but the priest is expected to recover.

Father Buss grappled with his assailant, who fled to his own room in the house, where he locked the door and piled furniture against it. When the police arrived, he climbed out of the window and made his way to a church in the Italian quarter. The police followed, and after a pursuit of four hours Barletta surrendered. He was locked up for examination as to his sanity.

ANCIENT FORTUNE DIVIDED

Millions, in Bank of England 200 Years, Find Owners.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 29.—The family of Dr. Thomas A. Pennington, a physician of this city, say advice just received from Brantford, Ont., has established claim to $4,500,000 in the Bank of England, which has been lying idle there more than 200 years.

The fortune will be divided among nine heirs, including Dr. Pennington and two brothers in this city. A sister, Mrs. A. Craig, of North Dakota, gets a ninth share and two nephews and three cousins, if found, will get a half million each. The struggle for the fortune began 50 years ago in Brantford, the claimants' ancestry being traced back 300 years to the Earl of Pembroke.

Northwestern Pacific Passenger Goes Into Ditch.

HOBLAND, Cal., Oct. 29.—The north-bound passenger train of the Northwestern Pacific Company was derailed tonight, a mile south of this place, in a collision with a cow, just as the train ran out on a 200-foot trestle. The engine, mail and express cars left the rails, toppling into the shallow coulee beside the track.

George Gilmore, fireman, was seriously scalded, and James Lawrence, engineer, was bruised and cut. The passenger coaches remained on the track, and the passengers later were brought to this place with teams. They will all be able to proceed toward Ukiah at 4 o'clock tomorrow, when the track will be cleared.

Lakeview Selects Another Site.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—General Manager Dunaway of the Nevada-California-Oregon Railway Company, has selected another site for his Lakeview depot, this time at the foot of Center Street, directly west of the courthouse and about eight blocks from the business district of the city. The committee having had the provisional selection of a site on its hands has had difficulties to contend with, one of which was the necessity of selection of a second site owing to the litigation which would have been necessary to establish title to the first site, and the alleged operations of silent forces who are asserted to have secured options on available property ahead of the company or to have hoisted prices beyond reason for desirable locations.

Children Shunted From Mother's Arms by Divorce.

NEW ROCHELLE AROUSED

Youngsters Thrice Run Crying to Home of Parent, Who Can No Longer Keep Because She Marries Again.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 29.—

(Special.)—Mysteries of modern divorce which bade their mother, when she married a second time, to somewhat joyfully turn them out of doors and tell them to go live with their father, in another street, were too much for Geraldine Blackman, a girl of ten years, and her brother Dean, nine years, to solve for a time, and the sight of the two children, tears streaming down their cheeks and crying for their "mama," running up and down fashionable avenues of this city caused quite a sensation.

The children ran to Rochelle Heights, a fashionable suburb, and up the steps of a handsome residence in Cortland avenue. "We want our mama," they cried, falling into the arms of that woman when she opened the door.

"But I can't keep you any more because I have married again," said the mother, gently turning the children about and nudging them toward the sidewalk, where a distracted governess waited.

Children Can't Understand. "God gave my mother to me and no one in the world can take her away," said Geraldine, who could not understand. But the governess took the youngsters to the home of their father, Captain Walter P. Blackman, a real estate operator, in Rochelle Place.

Twice after that it is said, they sneaked from the house and charged back to their mother's home, only to be returned. Finally they accepted the situation and romped at the captain's home.

Captain Blackman obtained a divorce in 1907. Mrs. Blackman requested that she have the custody of the children. Captain Blackman agreed on condition that if she married again she was to return the children to him.

Another Marries Again. Mrs. Blackman who was the daughter of the late John E. Dean, a Chicago millionaire, has just been married to George Walsh, a Southerner. The ceremony was held at the residence of the children to their father's home and left New Rochelle on her honeymoon.

The children have been told that there is a new papa at their mother's home and they are content to remain with their own papa," said a friend of Captain Blackman. "They could not understand the situation at first but they will soon forget their sorrow."

Captain Blackman would not discuss the affair.

When Captain Blackman brought suit for divorce, Mrs. Blackman's father made efforts to have him withdraw the action. He offered to settle $100,000 each on the children but Captain Blackman would not consent.

The President was able to show by the records that the harbor was not ideal or even attractive; that no monopoly had been gained, and that the Guggenheims were in no way interested or involved. This left Pinchot out on a limb, and many men who had formerly sympathized with and followed him showed their disgust as has Mr. Shipp.

Motives Purely Political.

It is generally recognized that Pinchot is now playing the conservation game purely for political purposes. While originally he was working out various theories on the assumption that he was laboring in the interest of the people, he has now lost sight of that end, and is using his conservation clamor purely as anti-Taft political dope, and every move he makes is designed to embarrass and to annoy the President. It is also true that a great many enthusiasts still cling to Pinchot, and allow themselves to be fooled into believing that he is actuated only by the highest motives, but a great many others have ceased to be fooled, and have begun to do their own thinking. The split between Pinchot and Secretary Fisher contributed largely to this end, for there has not yet been a mutual understanding as to the proper policy of the interior or has surrendered his opinions and his views to the President merely because he has entered the Cabinet. On the contrary, the President has altered some of his opinions, and today he and Secretary Fisher are working in entire harmony. A vast throng of conservation advocates are content to accept the judgment of Secretary Fisher when that judgment differs from the pronounced views of Mr. Pinchot.

Country Aroused to Saving Waste.

Perhaps it is no more than fair to admit that the agitation promoted by Pinchot served a good purpose, radical and extreme though he has always been. That agitation served to awaken the country to a realization that something must be done to put a stop to waste. But having awakened the public, Pinchot asked them to go way beyond the caution demanded by reasonable and practical conservation; he would conserve practically everything for future generations, and let the present generation pay tribute to monopolies which control some of the natural resources as have passed away from the Government in years past.

Every reform goes through this primitive stage. But practical men, from President Taft down, recognize that conservation must be more than a theory; it must be a practice, and the problem of today is how to revise and modify the existing land and other laws so as to permit proper use of the natural resources still owned by the Government, both in the United States proper and in Alaska. There is such a thing as conservation with proper use, and that is what the President and Secretary Fisher advocate; and that is what the conservation congress now advocates. That private organization appears to have passed from the control of Pinchot to the control of the Taft Administration. The Kansas City congress was no such gathering.

And nothing contributed so much to the transaction as the "packing" of the convention of 1910, when anti-Taft and anti-Ballinger delegates were corralled from all parts of the country to support resolutions drawn by Pinchot for the ostensible purpose of embarrassing the Taft Administration. The Kansas City congress was no such gathering.

TAFT RIGHT, SAYS HILL

LAW, EVEN IF UNWISE, SHOULD BE ENFORCED.

Railroad Builder Not Worried About Canceled Lease, for Ore Fashions Do Not Change.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 29.—James J. Hill today commended President Taft for whatever influence the President might have exercised in the Government's suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation.

Mr. Hill said he indorsed President Taft's course, even though other so-called captains of industry had been reported as offering criticism. The railroad builder, however, did not intimate that he approved the law under which the proceedings against the Steel Corporation have been instituted.

Among the defendants in the dissolution suit are three sons of Mr. Hill. "The President has taken oath to enforce the law," Mr. Hill said, "and he is only doing his duty. As to whether the law is wise or unwise, that is a grave question, but the President is right in enforcing it if it is the law."

"I am not worried about the ore lands or the cancellation of the Steel Corporation, contracts for ore does not go out of style, the fashions don't change and it will not run away. If it lies in the ground for 35 years and iron and steel increase in value, it will not be worth any less than it is now worth."

COFFIN IS MAN'S PULPIT

Centralia Salvationist Is Carried Through City Streets.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—James Astell, of the Centralia Salvation Army, is not squeamish as to how he attracts a crowd, but the method he adopted last night was an unusual one. Astell was placed in a coffin at the hall and carried down Tower avenue to the principal corner of Centralia. There he was "resurrected" for the regular street meeting, after which he was again placed in the coffin and carried back to the hall, where, from his coffin, he preached a sermon with the title, "A Voice From Hell, and What God Thinks of Centralia."

The streets were blocked by hundreds of curious onlookers during the progress of the street meeting.

GROUND DROPS 150 FEET

Famous Gold-Producing Property at Quartz, Cal., Threatens Destruction of Buildings—People Live in Peril.

QUARTZ, Cal., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—This place is threatened with destruction and the inhabitants are deeply concerned by the cave-in of the famous App mine, which began last Thursday, reaching a climax at 9:30 o'clock last night when a hole 200 by 300 feet and 150 feet deep appeared on the side of the mine, swallowing several buildings.

The cave-in began last Thursday, when the floor fell out of the sixth level of the mine, dropping down to the eighth or below, but the most serious disaster did not occur until last night, when about all the north workings, which had been extensively stoped from the surface to the tenth or the eleventh level. So far as surface indications are concerned, it is the most extensive cave-in in the history of California.

That 42 men who returned to the mine to work 6 hours after the cave-in started were not buried beneath 100,000 tons of debris is regarded by mining men as pure luck.

Quartz was aroused by rumblings resembling the premonitory signs of an earthquake, and men and women ran into the streets, only to find themselves in darkness, without the power to discover the nature of the catastrophe. The transmission line of the Sierra & San Francisco Power Company which supplies Tuolumne and Calaveras Counties with light and power had been swallowed up, and no light was to be had. What little light the stars might have shed was obscured by clouds of dust. Yawning crevices appeared everywhere, and the people were afraid to move.

The App mine, which was located in 1854, is the property of Captain W. A. App, who has his home in San Francisco. It long has been known as one of the most valuable and stable gold-producing properties in the state for the last decade or more, the 60-stamp mill has been crushing from 250 to 375 tons of ore a day.

PRICE FIXING CHARGED

BUTTER AND EGG BOARDS UNDER FEDERAL INQUIRY.

Chicago Commission Firm Said to Have Submitted Secret Compact to Authorities.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(Special.)—

Government agents have nearly completed the gathering of data to be submitted to the United States grand jury in an investigation of the Elgin Board of Trade and the Chicago Butter and Egg Board, to ascertain whether those organizations have controlled the prices of butter and eggs in violation of the Sherman act. It is said that documents have been submitted to the investigators by a Chicago commission, firm, tending to prove the contention that the law is violated. Price sheets, copies of secret by-laws and other papers are said to have been obtained.

A Senate committee investigated these organizations two years ago, but nothing resulted. Subsequent to that the Government brought suit to dissolve the Chicago Butter and Egg Board from maintaining its butter and egg quotation committees, in violation of the Sherman act. This is now on hearing before Master in Chancery Morrison.

The present officers of the Elgin Board of Trade are: President, John Newman; vice-president, D. E. Woods; treasurer, William McCredie. These officers and G. H. Gurley of DeKalb and C. H. Potter of Elgin constitute the board of directors.

Potter was one of the prospective members of the grand jury. Judge Landis was told of his connection with the Elgin organization and he told him he would not do as a grand juror.

Millionaire Fights for Divorce.

OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 29.—(Special.)—George C. Brownell and William Stone, attorneys of Charles D. Taylor, the millionaire miner, have filed notice of appeal to the Supreme Court from the decision of Judge Eakin opening the proceedings for annulment of his marriage to Miss M. S. Taylor. Mr. Taylor was granted an annulment of the marriage, and later Mrs. Taylor, alleging that summons had not been served upon her, asked that the decree be set aside. That was done and she filed an answer and asked that she be allowed $2500 monthly alimony during the pendency of the action.

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF.

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Costs You Nothing to Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-by-four table, he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail. Stuffed Olives. Boston Clam Chowder. Strained Gumbo. Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms. Roast Beef Ham. Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut. Lobster a la Newburg. Baked Pork and Beans. Combination Crab Salad. Hot Mince Pie. Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Black ordered cracker and glasses of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But neither of them was deceived. "I am afraid you can't stand the gleam, Mr. Black. Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen. My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how a dyspepsia business is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now I'll tell you what to do," and thereat the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The reason is it relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets absolutely stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloating, flatulence and all eruptions and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address P. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

SEATTLE, Oct. 29.—The steamship Northwesters arrived today from Nome with $1,000,000 of gold bullion and more than 500 passengers. The number of persons remaining in the Northern camp is said to be less than 1500, as against 2600 who stayed last season. The weather progress.
