

CLUB MAKES OFFER TO "BILL" HAYWARD

Multnomah Is After Famous Trainer to Act as Director of Athletics.

NEED FOR SERVICES GREAT

Noted Athletes Developed by University of Oregon Track Coach.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

William G. Hayward, director of athletics at the University of Oregon and one of the best-known trainers on the Pacific Coast, will be brought to Portland to assume the athletic directorship at the Multnomah Athletic Club when the new $120,000 structure is completed.

Multnomah has grown to such proportions that the club will need an athletic director almost immediately. At present boxing, swimming, wrestling and indoor gymnastics have men at the helm who devote their entire time to coaching these various branches of sport.

In the past Manager Dew Walker has extended a helping hand to these forms of sport, but the duties of the enlarged club will necessarily mean that he will be unable to take time for the details. Most of the larger clubs have athletic directors.

If the winged-M institution is fortunate enough to get Hayward, it will have undoubtedly the grandest corps of athletic instructors and coaches ever gathered together for any one organization.

Hayward has been connected with the University of Oregon for five or six years, coming to Oregon from California, where he was second in charge at the University of California. He is one of the best athletically informed men in the country, and has turned out some sterling athletes.

San Francisco is again in the column, this time with a scheme for advertising the 1915 exposition.

Some unscrupled press agent suggests that the sleeve of Ping Bodie's uniform as when the Chicago American all-whiteer ambles to the plate might set tongues wagging.

William Martin, the former Whitman College sprinter, whose disbarment for alleged professionalism was flashed from the East Tuesday, is something of an athletic prodigy, according to men who have worked with him.

Several seasons before he grasped his two telescope legs by the felloe and asked 31 times how to get from the top of the short end of a tussle with a bucking broncho. He was laid up for weeks as a result of the accident.

The injury undoubtedly affected his running, although those who have watched the rugged athlete tear down the home stretch might be inclined to doubt it.

We want two games with the Multnomah football squad, one in Seattle and one in Portland.

Such is the latest ultimatum from the pen of Tom McDonald, physical director of the Seattle Athletic Club, who is organizing an all-star cast to venture forth in quest of the Portland angers.

McDonald has in his line-up Dr. Lamson, who was a member of a Hinsons, the Pennsylvania centurion ago; Ike Dowd, an old Seattle High School end; Nig Borleske, former Whitman all-star back-field man; Dede Erickson, who is equally at home at end or quarter; Polly Grimm and Max Bakins at tackles; Pete Tegtmeyer, the old Washington center; Eddie Wascor, who played for an old Dartmouth captain and tackle; Scudmillier, all-American end with Dartmouth in 1909; and Bill Coyle, Warren Grimm and Muckletons, who scored in the present University of Washington squad, who finish their college football days November 29 against Washington State College.

If McDonald is successful in rounding up this herd, we will suggest training the guns of the cruiser Boston on Multnomah's back. Yes, indeed, the aggregation looks formidable—on paper.

CHAPMAN AND STEPHENS TIE

Grammar School Game Ends With Score Standing 12 to 12.

The football teams of Chapman and Stephens schools, which met in the game in the Grammar Schools League yesterday on Portland field, the contest ending with the score 12 to 12. Both teams scored two touchdowns and a safety.

Chapman was first to score, making a touchdown in the first period. This was too much for Stephens, which scored in the second and third quarters. Chapman evened up things in the last period, making another touchdown in the last few minutes of play.

This date for playing off the tie has not been decided as yet, but the game will probably take place next week, as the league officials intend to have all games over with before Thanksgiving.

Because not being able to comply with the rules which says a grammar school team must be accompanied by the principal or some capable representative, the game between Elliot and Woodlawn schools has been postponed till next Tuesday.

Shattuck defeated Hawthorne by the score of 2 to 9 Wednesday, while Fallings did the same to Clinton Kelly.

The popularity of Chinese pheasant hunting is shown in the decreased number of licenses issued this year, in which there is no open season for killing these birds. Up to November this year, there have been issued 1523 pheasant licenses, while in the same period last year 2083 were issued. A slight decrease is also shown in the number of fishing licenses issued, 1271 being given out up to November 1, 1910, while but 1545 have been issued in the same period this year. In 1910, 655 combination licenses were issued and only 609 in 1911.

FRANK SCHMIEDER, trainer of the Beavers last season, is likely to secure a position with the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club in the next few days. Influential members of the club who have Schmieider's ability have been in consultation with him, and it is said that negotiations have about been concluded whereby Schmieider will join the staff of the famous athletic institution.

Garry Hoffmann, chief of the Cincinnati National League team, as well as lord high mogul of the National Commission, is taking his time about selecting a successor to Clark Griffith as manager of the Reds. Among the players mentioned as possible pilots of the Reds is Joe Tinker. If Chicago parts with this player, the last of the stellar rights of the Cub machine will have left that aggregation. With Chance practically incapacitated, and Steinfield and Evers gone, Tinker is the lone remaining star.

Jimmy Barrett, manager of the Milwaukee team of the American Association last season, who succeeded John J. McCloskey in piloting the destinies of the Brewers, has resigned his job and will scout for a major league aggregation. Milwaukee made rather a disappointing showing last season, and Barrett, who was trying the managerial berth for the first time, was discouraged.

Penny Long is quoted as announcing that the San Francisco Club is through with Tommy Tennant, the red-headed first baseman. If he is sincere in this and wants to get rid of Tennant, he will have no trouble in disposing of this capable player, for several clubs in the Pacific Coast League would be delighted to grab the hard-hitting Seal. It is generally believed that Sacramento will get him.

The new Seal first-sacker for next year's season will be a chap named Jackson, from the Oklahoma City team, of the Texas League. This is the club which produced "Roaring Bill" Rapps, and if Jackson is half as good a player as the Beaver first-sacker, the Seals will be fortunate. Jackson wound up the season in the Texas League with an average almost as good as that made by his Cleveland namesake.

ELEVENS WILL CLASH

LINCOLN AND JEFFERSON RIVALS ON GRIDIRON TODAY.

Both High School Teams Are somewhat Crippled, but Fast Game Is Expected.

One of the most important games in the high school calendar will be played today on Multnomah field at 3 o'clock between the oldest and the youngest high schools in the city, Lincoln and Jefferson respectively. The rivalry between the two is intense and this game will undoubtedly be one of the most hard fought of the season. Jefferson in 1910, its first season of football, was defeated by Lincoln by only one point.

Although the Jefferson team is somewhat crippled, the rooters are making preparation for a big celebration, after the game. The injured men of the Jefferson team will be held on the bench and in the event of a bad start, these men may go into the game regardless of their hurts. Even Ashworth, whose nose was broken in the Albany game, may be called upon to play, although Johnston probably will start the game in the center position. Coffer, who has not been at practice or at school for some time, will also be held in readiness. So keen is the feeling between the schools that each side will exert every possible effort to win.

Tyson, the big center on the Lincoln eleven, is suffering from a badly injured foot, but he will probably play the whole game in his accustomed place.

If Jefferson wins the match it will probably be through its own work, on which it has been working overtime under the direction of Coach Smith.

The teams will line up as follows: Lincoln: ... Jefferson: ...

What Former Portland Baseball Stars Are Doing.

No. 3—Andy Anderson.

WHEN Jack Grim was busy signing up the Portland team of 1901 he handed, among others, a big, well-built young athlete in the person of Andrew N. Anderson to play second base. This worthy had had a varied experience in different portions of the Northwest during the three or four years he had spent in the States. He had played for Seattle in 1898 and in Montana in 1899 and 1900, but did not come to Portland heralded as a star.

The season was not many weeks old before the batting prowess and fielding ability of the silent young man of Swedish ancestry brought him into the limelight as one of the stars of that high-class team, and he was soon a favorite with the Portland fans.

Andy remained with the Portland team during the season of 1901, when the first Northwestern League pennant was captured, and in 1902 and 1903, the latter year being the first of the Pacific Coast League. In 1904 he joined the San Francisco Club and remained with that aggregation until early in the season of 1905, when an injury caused him to retire for two seasons. He retired from the game in 1906, but in 1907 he was prevailed upon to join the Aberdeen team, of the Northwestern League, where he played the remainder of the season. He was offered the management of the Aberdeen Club, but declined, as he had decided to embark in business in Portland. He now conducts a billiard and pool establishment in partnership with "Jerry" Powers. Andy Anderson married a Portland girl and is now a full-fledged citizen of Portland.

Sale of the Perry Graves Bankrupt Stock An Awful Sacrifice At Eilers Music House

$100 Cash for Good Upright Pianos $150 for Better Ones $200 for the Best! (or pay $4, $5, $6 a month, with 10 per cent added to these prices)

Bring $100 cash this morning to Eilers Music House and get a fairly good piano—choice of a roomful—or agree to pay $110—paying $10 now and $4 a month, and have it sent home. Really very good pianos will go now for $150, and the very finest that were carried by the defunct Music Company will be simply thrown away for $200. If you want them on little payments simply 10 per cent extra.

There are three great groups of this entire stock of upright pianos. We shall not carry them a single day longer than necessary; hence the prices to close out quickly are as stated—$100, $150 and $200. One and the same offer to each and all. First comers secure best choice.

Depend upon it, we are in earnest, determined to close out all of the pianos from the receivers right away—hence these astonishingly low prices. Let us tell you why:

Early last summer the Perry Graves Music Company unfortunately was forced into receiver's hands. Attempt was made to sell out at small prices enough of the stock to satisfy demands of insistent creditors. But this proved too slow. The receiver was then instructed to dispose of the entire establishment at whatever sacrifices might be necessary and stop expenses. Eilers Music House had the ready cash. Their offer was accepted and affirmed by Judge Gatens Monday.

The Perry Graves Company was started in competition with another local institution of similar name. The finest stock of classical and popular music, the best-known makes of mandolins, guitars, band instruments and all sorts of other musical instruments were carried in stock, as well as pianos. When we were invited to bid on the stock we decided, if successful, to install a complete general music department in our new establishment at Seventh and Alder streets, which is now being done. In a very few days Eilers Music House of Portland will carry everything known in musicdom, as we do also at Seattle, Spokane and at many others.

We had to take the entire stock of pianos in order to get what we really wanted. The Washington-street store was closed yesterday. The pianos have been brought over to our new building. They are really in the way. Hence we must make quick sale of them.

CAPTAIN COYLE WILL NOT CONTEST

Injury to Keep Washington Star Out of O. A. C. Game at Seattle Tomorrow.

TWO PLAYERS CHALLENGED

Coach Doble Declares Jessup and Christman of Oregon Aggies Are Ineligible—Decision of Faculty to Be Accepted.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 2.—(Special.)—Quarterback Coyle will not be able to play against Oregon Agricultural College Saturday, said Coach Gilmore Doble tonight. "There is something the matter with his knee that has put him to the bed for the last few days of practice, and even if it were healed before Saturday he would be in no condition to enter sharp conflict."

This means that if May, Jessup and Christman are allowed to play for the farmers, Washington probably will be defeated by a small score. "What kind of a game is that Oregon institution to play on us, boys? Here they have Carlson, who has played football since the oldest man can remember; Jessup, who worked for the University of Utah only last season, and Christman, who comes fresh from a Kentucky institution with a record for always bringing in the bacon."

Carlson has always been wise and kept with the amateurs when on the gridiron, so we can't touch him, but the others played intercollegiate football last season and should not enter Saturday's game. With these men out and with Wand at quarterback in place of Coyle we might be able to wallop the Aggies."

Coach Dolan, of Oregon Agricultural College, telegraphed Graduate Manager Zednick today that he could give him no information as to the eligibility of the men in question. The O. A. C. faculty committee is now carrying on an investigation and Zednick will rely absolutely on its decision. As the Oregon men are scheduled to depart tonight for Seattle, an immediate finding is expected.

Never before has Washington taken so much care to ascertain the record of her opponents as now, and this, coupled with the earnest statements of Doble,
