Among the cities of the Pacific Coast Portland is second only to San Francisco, and ranks far ahead of Los Angeles. Reports com-pleted yesterday by G. B. Kerth, man-ager of the Portland validating office of the Transcontinental Passenger As-sectation, show that for the regular tourist season ending November 1, the number of tickets validated in Porttourist season ending November I, the number of tickets validated in Port-land was 14,55. The number of tour-lats who visited the city is estimated at 25,666. This is by far the greatest number of validations for a single season since the Lewis and Clark exposition. It exceeds the 1910 record by more than 4066. Seattle validated only 2000 tickets in the season, while Los Angeles handled about 3566. Tacoma, Vancouver, H. While San Francisco validated ap-proximately 48,000 fickets, the record of Pertland is considered the best on the Ceast, inasmuch as the business of the California city represents thou-sands of delegates to the National Edusands of designtes to the National Edu-cational Association and the Interna-tional Sunday School Association, both of which held their 1311 meetings there. Mr. Kerth believes that the normal business done at San Francisco was business done at San Francisco was no greater than that handled in Port-land. Even the figure 14.558 does not represent the total number of tourists that visited Portland within the sea-son just closed. Many of those whose tickets were validated at San Fran-claco traveled through Portland and spent from one day to a month in the city. Tickets sold at Eastern points for San Francisco permitted a routing through Portland with stopover privi-leges here on payment of a small sum through Portland with stopover privi-leges here on payment of a small sum in addition to the regular tourist farc.
