

PORTLAND CLASPS PALM OF LEWISTON

Idaho City Gayly Bedecked to Receive Trade Junketers to Fertile Valley.

MANY ORCHARDS VISITED

Journey on Train is Filled With Jollity and Entertainment Given by Hosts Wins Glad Hearts of Many Guests.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—When the Clearwater River to its confluence with the Snake, something like 19 years ago, and Lewis and Clark, the heart and soul and brains of that party, bivouacked on the banks of the principal tributary of the mightiest of rivers, it is not probable that the wildest flights of their imagination could have led them to believe that a little over a century would see the spot the center of a populous country.

But could those campfires be kindled today they would glow and gladden in the hearts of happy, contented and prosperous people.

The Portland excursion party of today arrived at the same site to find two cities, one named in honor of Lewis and the other in honor of Clark, and in these cities are fully a half-score thousand of an progressive and intelligent people.

Many of these thousands met our train at the depot, many of the splendid men who are making the place to be a watermelon as large as the apples they produce, and a great multitude of women as beautiful as their choicest roses, as pure as their atmosphere, with complexions comparable only to the bloom of the peach.

Happy Journey to City. In all there were 99 in our party. The trip was one of real joy, perhaps more than any other. With no about a man who went to bed in berth No. 6 and awoke in berth No. 4, with one shoe on and his pajamas tied around his neck. It has been whispered around that this individual was not B. Lee Faget, and the whisperings are true, but his berth was in close proximity to the one where the miracle happened. And the music we had on the way up.

Orchard Tracts Visited. Upon our arrival at the farmstead in single file and marched up the street three or four blocks, where 30 automobiles awaited us, and we were then taken over the two tracts and the surrounding country, the trip covering 40 miles. We went all over the old and new orchards and saw how the water is distributed, the reservoirs where it is impounded, and had pointed out to us all of the places of interest.

Returning to train, we were the guests of the railroad company. The train was met by the president of the Lewiston Commercial Club, and delivered a short address of welcome. He was followed by brief speeches from E. L. Thompson, Walter Burrell, Tom Richardson and C. C. Chapman.

Festive Parties Distributed. The secretary of the Spokane Commercial Club gave a fine address, and several men from the surrounding territory gave short talks, after which an adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning.

There are a great many visitors in town and it is said the hotels are crowded to their capacity, but our splendid hotel on wheels gives us the best of entertainment, so we are immune from hotel troubles.

WALLA WALLA'S HAND IS OUT Preparations Made for Reception of Portland Excursionists.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Great preparations are being made for the entertainment of the 75 Portland business men who are to visit Walla Walla Wednesday. The fact that it is the first excursion that has given this city what Walla Walla thinks it deserves, an all-day visit, has determined the local Commercial Club to make an extra effort to give the men from Portland a rousing reception and a glad handshake lasting all day. The visitors are due to arrive here at 9 o'clock in the morning, on a special train.

They will be met at the station by the local Commercial Club. As they are here all day, they will be given a chance to see the city and the surrounding country as well. The excursionists from Seattle and Spokane have invariably reached here late in the evening, and remain here but two or three hours, and this all-day-and-night visit is appreciated.

At noon a luncheon will be given in honor of the visitors and the usual toast will be given and responded to. After an afternoon which will be devoted to getting acquainted, a special train will be given in the evening, at which the principal speaker

DOUGLAS OCTOGENARIAN CELEBRATES HER EIGHTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. Margaret M. Johnson. ROSEBURG, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Although 85 years of age, Mrs. Margaret M. Johnson passed one of the happiest days of her life in Roseburg last Wednesday, when she was surprised by 20 of her friends, who assembled at her home and assisted in celebrating her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Johnson is probably one of the best-known women in Douglas County. She was born in Ohio and came to Roseburg about 25 years ago. She is living with her son, John Johnson, a business man here.

will be C. C. Chapman, of the Portland Commercial Club. The special train leaves here at 1 o'clock, returning to

'BARBS' BEST STUDENTS

GREEK LETTER FOLK AT WASHINGTON "U" GOING BACK. Professor's Report at Seattle Institution Reveals Situation Dire in Extreme—Cause Unknown.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—That Washington Greek letter men and women are deteriorating in scholastic standing and have fallen from a good lead to a position in the rear, is the substance of a report issued by Professor David Thompson for the year 1910-11. Of 194 probationers and dismissions, these students representing only one-fourth of the students, furnished 118 men and women, or more than one-half the total.

The year previous to the present report the "Greeks" had an immense lead over the "barbs." The fall is due probably to the stricter rules which made it necessary to handle the cases of delinquent students at the end of the semester instead of at the end of the year. In 1909-10 25 per cent of "barbs" were suspended, as against 13 per cent of the Greeks, and 12 per cent of "barb" women contrasted with 8 per cent from the sororities. The dismissals showed the same discrepancy.

These societies can be awakened easily without raising the least trouble. It is thought in answer to a question as to what will be done if the condition continues to exist. "Personally, I cannot understand the reason for the deterioration unless it is the change in rules. From the very best class of students to the very poorest is a long jump for one year, and the result is a question worthy of study. If the slight change in rules in this way, it will be interesting to see what the radical innovations this year accomplish."

"On the other hand, the Greek letter people bear the brunt of literary, forensic and even athletic student activity. In the clubs, literary and dramatic societies, in football, basketball, baseball, track and rowing, the Greeks are the mainstay. For their success along these lines is their organization."

SUICIDE LEAVES LOVE NOTE

Brother Finds Letter Telling of Unhappiness Near Body.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Pete Tauscher, of Agate, who killed himself yesterday, did so because of an unhappy love affair, according to a note found by the man's body. Tauscher attended a dance Saturday night, and was in good spirits. Sunday morning he was seen about his place as usual. Last evening, when his sister, Leo Tauscher, who lives with him, and who was working jointly a tract of school land, returned to Pete Tauscher's he found the latter dead.

A note saying that there was but one girl in the world for him and that he wished that he could love her again was found near by. The body was brought to Chehalis. Two sisters of the dead man, Mrs. L. Kuehner, and Mrs. Walter Bartel, reside in this city. The parents died some years ago.

LIQUOR FIGHT ON IN NORTHERN IDAHO

Idaho, Kootenai and Nez Perce Counties May Vote to Return Saloons.

SITUATION NOT PLEASING Grieving Spokane Mother Takes Life After Year's Suffering.

Present Conditions in Dry Territory Are Declared to Be Far From Satisfactory to Business Interests There.

MOSCOW, Idaho, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Asserting that prohibition has failed to promote temperance and morality, a strong element in three counties in Northern Idaho, Kootenai and Nez Perce, has brought about elections to repeal the present local option laws and to declare in favor of licensed and regulated saloons.

Kootenai and Idaho counties went dry two years ago, and they are availing themselves of the first opportunity presented to make an effort to return to the wet column. The law providing that an election may be held on the subject every two years. They will hold their elections this month, and in both vigorous campaigns are now being waged by the wet and dry elements. Nez Perce went dry later and will hold its election in March, and extensive preparations are now being made for the campaign to be carried on. In all three counties both elements are confident they will win.

Determined to return the county to the wet column, certain business men of the towns of Idaho County, in addition to waging a strong campaign, have issued a statement branding prohibition a failure, and appealing to voters to declare in favor of the licensed saloon.

"We assume," they say in the statement, "a deep and sincere interest in the situation, present as well as future, only as local option prohibition affects our moral, social and financial well-being as citizens of the various communities of this county. Some of the application of local option prohibition to Idaho County," continues the statement, after asserting that some of its business men are very interested in the liquor business, save as it may become a factor in the government of the towns of the county. For the two years past has proven to us that temperance has not been promoted nor have morals been improved. The licensed drinking place, restricted according to modern ideas, is a satisfactory one, our opinion to the existing unsatisfactory conditions."

Prohibition Believed Error. "It is our opinion," concludes the statement, "that the acceptance of local option prohibition two years ago by Idaho County was an error in judgment, and that fully as much intoxicating liquor has been sold and consumed in a manner conducive to a lower scale of morals than can possibly be secured by the licensed and restricted drinking place."

That the election in Kootenai County will be close is conceded by both the wet and dry forces. Coeur d'Alene City two years ago voted wet, but it has just wrested from Bathurst the county seat, and its people and also those of St. Maries, which was a candidate for the county seat, bent on revenge, plied a prohibition vote sufficient to make the county go dry. Realizing that voting Kootenai dry would bring a harvest to Spokane in the liquor business, the saloon men of that city are said to have contributed to the campaign of the drys, and that was a powerful factor against the campaign waged by the wets.

The most powerful factor that the wets must contend with during the present campaign is the saloon men of Spokane, who are again in the field, and it is asserted that they have already contributed thousands of dollars towards the campaign being waged to keep the county in the list.

Wets Protest Confidence. Despite the fight being waged by the Spokane saloonmen, and the fact that the prohibition forces are out in full strength, the wet element is confident of victory. Coeur d'Alene is growing under a high tax, levied for municipal improvements, and so are other towns, and they miss the revenue formerly obtained from the saloons. It is asserted that 80 per cent of the checks issued the laboring men by the county lumber industries in the county are being cashed in Spokane; and this charge, together with the fact that boot-legging has been extensive, and the county put to a heavy expense prosecuting violators, the wet element asserts has effected such change in the people that victory is assured, though the election will be close.

Should the prediction of the wet element prove true there will be left but two counties in North Idaho in the dry list, not counting Clearwater and Lewis, which must of a necessity remain dry because from them are contained the lands of the Nez Perce Indian reservation. Bonner is showing symptoms of a desire to return to the licensed saloon system, and should victory crown the work of the wets in the three counties, the prohibition people in that county instead of invoking that law selected a prohibition Board of County Commissioners, and availing themselves of the opportunity invested in them, the Commissioners declined to issue liquor licenses. As the State University is located at Moscow, and the Potlatch people of the north end of the county, and both are opposed to licensed saloons, it is said that Latah is destined to remain dry.

Latah occupies the unique position of being dry without invoking the law, because the people in that county instead of invoking that law selected a prohibition Board of County Commissioners, and availing themselves of the opportunity invested in them, the Commissioners declined to issue liquor licenses. As the State University is located at Moscow, and the Potlatch people of the north end of the county, and both are opposed to licensed saloons, it is said that Latah is destined to remain dry.

DEATH PURSUES FAMILY

Grieving Spokane Mother Takes Life After Year's Suffering.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Impelled by grief over the loss of a favorite daughter, Mrs. R. A. Shattuck, who for 12 years has been conducting a fashionable hair-dressing business in Spokane, took her own life, drinking cyanide of potassium. Her son stepped into her apartment before dawn this morning and found his mother on the bed, apparently unconscious, but when a physician made an examination he pronounced her dead.

Mrs. Shattuck's daughter, who was Mrs. William G. Cook, died a year ago, also of grief because her husband had deserted her. The daughter was on a visit in the East and had been the guest of relatives en route. Fatally seemed to pursue Mrs. Cook because in the four homes she visited on her last travels, there were deaths either preceding or following her arrival. These circumstances, together with the desertion of the husband, with Mrs. Cook actually to die of a broken heart, the physician attending her announcing excessive grief as the cause of death.

Since the time Mrs. Shattuck has been dependent.

LOGGING CAMPS CLOSING

Operations on Columbia River Are Quiet With Weak Market.

ASTORIA, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The logging camps in Columbia River are beginning to close down on account of the weak market conditions and will probably remain closed until next spring unless something occurs to strengthen the demand.

The Oregon Timber Company's camp at Clifton has shut down, as has the camp of the Columbia River Lumber Company at Deep River. In fact the latter company has finished logging its tract in that district and where the outfit will be moved to the lower country. The company has several timber tracts in view that it may purchase. The Bremer Logging Company, located at Astoria, and Frye will probably cease operations about the middle of the month.

Van Winkle Gives Opinion.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—That the County Assessor of any county has a jurisdiction to make entries in any time up to the time the books are turned over to the County Court is the gist of an opinion furnished by Deputy Attorney-General Van Winkle Saturday to State Superintendent Alderman. The question arose on a request from the County Superintendent of Crook County that the county of the various districts were added since March 1, and whether the County Assessor could make entries relative to those districts of not with the county. Distribution of taxes and making of special levies made the point important as to whether such entries could be made after the specified time.

Oil May Replace Wood at the "U." UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Twelve hundred cords of wood are consumed in one year to operate the heating plant at the university. During the winter months nine cords are used in a single day, the general average during the season of principal consumption being six cords a day. Though no policy of economy has yet been devised, a substitute for slabwood is being contemplated. When Governor West last visited the university, it was suggested, at his conference with President Campbell, that oil be introduced as a fuel.

Public Aids Road Fund.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—More than $2000 of the funds to be used for constructing boulevards, are being raised by the state institutions and the sum will be swelled to $3000 so that the County Court will not be asked for any assistance. The bills will be audited by the foreman of the convict gang on the road, with the approval of the Governor and the auditing committee of the Board of Trade, before the money is disbursed.

Seattle Maid Does Not Want to Wed Age and Riches.

FRIENDS BEGGED FOR AID Miss Elizabeth Bender Naively Beseeches Los Angeles Acquaintances to Find Suitor Who Will Rescue Her.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—"Help, oh, help!" screams Miss Elizabeth Bender, of Seattle, betrothed to a "horrid old rich man" of the northern city and her marriage day looming as an enormous "bogey" in the near future. In a frantic letter received by her friends in this city today, Miss Bender sets forth a most distressing state of affairs and appeals with "tears in her voice" to the gallant youth of the south to haste and rescue her from the impending cash incubus. She is 23, Miss Betty, and easy to look at withal. She is to be married December 23, she says, to a rich old party selected for her by her papa.

The fruition of her plans requires the co-operation of a nice young man, and Miss Betty naively admits that such is her reason for writing friends here that they may give the desirable young man a chance to prove himself the hero of the piece. Miss Betty was educated in a convent, she continues, she likes baseball, auto and horses, she can cook and keep house, she coyly admits, and she likes dogs. And seventhly, her address is just General Delivery, Seattle.

Railroads Fight for Land. MARSHFIELD, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The Pacific Coast Railway, which has had representatives in this locality, has started condemnation proceedings to secure a one-fourth interest in land at Sand Point, opposite North Bend. Three-fourths of the tract was bought recently by the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Coast wants the rest of the tract. The locality is important for a railroad, as it is opposite to North Bend.

Realty Dealer Is Arrested. GRANTS PASS, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—C. W. Cutler, who came to Southern Oregon last Spring, was arrested Saturday upon an alleged charge of obtaining money under false pretense. The alleged case grew out of a transaction wherein Cutler mortgaged crops of premises he had purchased near this place. His bond was fixed at $2500. Cutler has been associated with men of good financial standing, and was considered one of the heavy realty holders of this county, he having purchased the well-known Isman fruit farm.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lahoma, Okla. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all druggists.
