CHARTER MAKING

Official Commission Hurries to Complete Its Draft by Tomorrow.

PARTIAL REPORT PASSED

Ellis Amendment to Be Changed to Include All Street Work-Dock and Auditorium Bodies Are Retained:

The official Charter Commission is emdeavoring to finish its work in time to file the proposed draft with City An-ditor Barbur tomorrow. A partial repert was submitted to the commission by the revision committee last night, and another meeting will be held to-night, when the revision committee is expected to submit the remainder of the Sigel Gruize was instructed by the commission to re-draft the Fills amendment so that it will include all street work, instead of covering only hardseek instead of covering only hardsurfacing, thereby creating two systems for awarding street work. An amendment was introdeed providing that 10 per cent of the property owners may start a street improvement, and that 75 per cent instead of 80 per cent may quash it. It provides also that til per cent may object to the kind of improvement, and may stop the improvement of they designate another kind. This amendment was laid on the table.

Price Not Cut, Say Two.

Mr. Grutze and John H. Burgard declared the Eills amendment has not yet cut the price of paving, and George II. Cellars said the word "competitive" in the amendment amounts to nothing so far as obtaining competition is concerted. W. F. Woodward thought the fills amendment should not be tampared with, and remarked that the price of sand has falles from 12 and 14 a lead to $1.50 a load. D. O. Lively remarked that he was to blame for that, that he put his sand at 50 cents a load lecause of a fight between the sand companies. Price Not Cut, Say Two.

"The Ellis amendment does not cure The Eills amendment does not cure necessit evils because we have a paying trust," remarked J. E. Werlein. "We ought to make it harder for the paying companies to pile up street intervenents. As it is now the contractions have more work than they can possibly do."

It was decided to retain the Dock

It was decided to retain the Dock Commission and Auditorium Commission as at present, after considerable discussion as at present after considerable discussion. In which Mr. Weriein decisred that "we are getting farther away from the commission form of government every time we meet," that the keeping of the two commissions would be putting the stamp of disappressal on the form of government the committee professed to be favoring.

Abeliahment Is Opposed. Abelishment is Opposed.

Other members of the committee declared the Dock Commission and Auditorium Commission could be done away with later, that it would be an unwise move now, when they have just enjered upon their work, to do away with them and place their works in the hards of a Council.
