NOMINATION LAW POINT EXPLAINED

Requirements of Candidates for Representative in Congress Set Out.

CLOUDY STATUTE PUZZLES

Secretary of State Olcott Gives Out Statement Anent Number of Names Necessary for Candidate's Petition.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 10.-(Special.)-Apparent conflict in the direct primary in relation to nomination of a Representative in Congress from Multmah County is believed to be cleared away in a final statement from the office of the Secretary of State.

Under the law, provision is made that if the nomination is to be for a municipal office or for an office to be voted on in only one county, onefifth of the precincts are to be repre-sented on the petition, while only onetenth of the precincts in one-fourth of the countles, or not more than 1000 names, are required for a candidate from a Congressional district.

Single County Couses Doubt.

Owing to the fact that the new Congressional district is Mulinomah County alone, and the office represents only one county, some difficulty arose, in-one county, some difficulty arose, insamuch as there was an apparent conflict of the law as to whether the petition should represent the law relating to the Congressional district or relating to only one county.

In responding to an inquiry from Donald Tewkesbury, of Portland, relative to this feature, for the Democratic,
party the Secretary says:

"I have to advise that before or at the time of beginning the circulation of any petition for nomination to the office of Representative in Congress
the person who is candidate must forward to the Secretary of State a copy of his petition, duly signed by himself
as evidence of his candidacy for the nomination for such office.

The petition must then be cir-

The position must then be cir-culated and signed by at least I per con of the electors of the Democratic party residing in at least one-tenth of the precincts in at least one-fourth of the precincts in at least one-fourth of the counties, but inasmuch as the Third Congressional District is comprised of only one county and it is provided that for district offices to be voted on in one county only, that the petition shall be signed by at least 2 per cent of the political party residing in at least one-fifth of the voting precincts of the district.

Required Number Named.

Required Number Named.

"I would advise as a matter of prudence and caution, in order that the requirement of the atrictest construction of the law might be complied with, that the representation on the patition be secured from at least one-fifth of the precincts of the county.

"As Multnomah County has been divided into 193 voting precincts and 16.715 votes were east at the general election in November, 1210, for the candidate for Representative in Congress on the Democratic ticket, in order to meet the first requirement above, your petition must contain at least 214 signers representing at least 20 precincts of the county and to conform to the second requirement, must have at least 214 signatures representing at least 22 214 signatures representing at least 33 precincts of the county."

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 10 .- The most severe storm that has swept the Pacific Northwest so early in the season since the establishment of the United States Weather Bureau here 20 years ago is still hovering over Washington and British Columbia. The severe gale which swept the North Coast last night and early today has absted and the forecast for tomorrow is for clear, sold weather.

The maximum wind velocity re-

The maximum wind velocity recorded in Seattle today was 25 miles.
The snowfall here amounted to 1.3
Inches, but in other portions of the state, especially in the higher altitudes,
it was much heavier, ranging from 12

to 15 inches.

The storm appears to be general over the Northwest, extending for to the Northwest, extending for to the Northward. A report from Nome, Alaska, tells of a severe bilizard raging there. The season in the North has been backward, and this is the first severe storm in the Bering Sea region this Winter.

Transcontinental railroads have experienced little difficulty maintaining schedules over the mountains. Most of chedules over the mountains. Most of the trains from the East arrived at Coast terminals on time today. The wind did little damage. Ship-ping was well protected, ample warnping was well protected, ample warning of the approach of the storm having been given, and no marine disaster has been reported. The only severe loss caused by the wind was at Edmonds, Wash. 19 miles north of Seattle, where huildings along the waterfront were damaged $25,990.

Vancouver, B. C. reported the heaviest snow storm of the Coast, lying on the ground ten inches deep. Victoria reported milder weather, but snow begin falling there tonight. The minimum temperature at Seattle was 24 above zero. It is expected to go lower tonight.

storm in full blast, Walla Walla is in the grip of an early Winter that has not been known here for several years. The mercury dropped to 21 degrees today, lower by 11 degrees than the previous cold mark of the season and it is real Winter weather.

Snow began falling last night, following a flurry yesterday morning and fell steadily, although lightly, all night. Today there were flurries all day and tonight it has settled down again into a heavy snow storm.

The mountains above the city are covered with a heavy snow and cattle belated in the hills are being rushed down. No damage has been done, but, on the other hand, crop prospects are much improved.

HEAVY RAINS ARE RECORDED

Rivers Rising; Five-Inch Fall of Snow at Eugene Seen.

EUGENE, Or. Nov. 10.—(Special.)—
Five inches of snow, which is considered one of the largest precipitations ever recorded here in November covered the ground today. The snow began to fall after midnight. Snow flurries have been passing over all day. The weather has not turned cold, however, and it melted rapidly.

Although yesterday's rainfall was only 25 of an inch, the river is at the eight-foot stage and is rising rapidly, indicating heavy rains in the mountains. Incoming stage-drivers report heavy snows on the Upper McKennie, extending down as far as Blue River.

MOSCOW, Idaho, Nov. 10 .- (Special.) -With the countles of Shoshone, Bonner and Kootenal dependent for a numher and Kootenal dependent for a num-ber of years past on ranges beyond their territory for their beef cattle, with meat dealers in Latah County turning for the first time in its his-tory to the ranges of Eastern Oregon for their beef supply for the Fall and Winter, and with the ranges in Idaho County, the great cattle producing county in North Idaho, rapidly vanish-ing, buyers are predicting that unless there is a revival in the cattle industry there is a revival in the cattle industry among the farmers, the time is near when all of the Panhandle must look to the ranges of adjacent states for its beef supply.

Other Ranges Sought. The advent of the railroad to Grange

The advent of the railroad to Grangeville brought with it settlers and the range lands in Idaho County are being appropriated and a number of the large cattle men have already sought the ranges of other states.

The reason assigned by the farmers of Latah County for abandoning the cattle business, say buyers, is that with the present high price of land, hay and
grain, and other agricultural products,
cattle are not profitable at the present
market price. They assert the farmers maintain this, though meat dealers
whon the class of stock is considered,
have been paying a price in advance
of the quotations of Portland and other cities.

Gradually, for the last three years,

Gradually, for the last three years, the farmers have been reducing the number of their cattle until this Summer the supply fell so far short that a great number of calves and yearlings had to be slaughtered to supply the demand. The farmers, they say, are retaining a few milch cows, and are sell-ing their hay, or feeding it to horses, maintaining that they can make more money that way than by feeding it to

It is stated that no more feed is required to produce a three-year-old blooded horse than a three-year-old steer, and that the price for the former in the market is far better when all things are considered, and many of the farmers, who formerly raised cattle, are turning their attention to raising horses. A number of them are also turning their attention more to the raising of hoge and sheep.

years stockmen from the ranges of Idaho County used to drive their herds to the Clearwater, because of its climate and abundance of hay, and feed for the Winter market, but there are for the Winter market, but there are but very few feeding this Fall as com-pared with former years. Hogs are plentiful in this county, and also in Nez Perce and Idaho, and the market price during the Summer has been good. At present, in view of the fact that "stubble" hogs are being rushed onto the market, it is slightly depressed. Sheep are scarce in this county, but plentiful in New Perce and Idaho, and the market price good. Horses are being raised in larger num. bers in this county than ever before, and they are also produced in large numbers in Idaho and Nez Perce, but the market price, when compared with that of the two preceding years, is not
