With New York Associates Eastern Capitalist Controlled Many Electrical Companies in West. Wife Here Through Illness.

George Barclay Moffatt, 'captain of industry, New York banker and the man who conceived and carried to completion the Oregon Electric Rallway project and who was the first president of that road, died shortly after noon at St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday. His wife, who came from New York to bewith him during his lilness, was at his bedside when he expired. While coming west to look over holdings of his banking firm here he suffered a severe attack of stomach trouble which induced him to go to the ospital immediately upon his arrival. Dr. Ernest F. Tucker was summoned and attended him through his illness mach trouble with a complication of other diseases was the cause of death, as determined at an autopsy performed by Dr. R. C. Yenney at the Helman Undertaking parlors last night. Mr. Moffatt was 57 years old. The body will be cremated today.

Overwork Taxes Strength.

Mr. Moffatt had been suffering more Mr. Mentatt had been suffering more or less for the past two years from the strain of hard work. Two years ago he began to arrange for his retirement from active participation in his business concerns, and had practically closed his affairs to permit his retirement at the time of his coming west.

ment at the time of his coming west.

Mr. Moffatt for many years had been identified with large New York financial institutions controlling big industrial enterprises. Chief of these was the banking firm of Moffatt & White, of 5 Nassau street, New Tork, of which he was for 10 years the head.

A year ago the firm was reorganized and its name changed to White, Weld & Co., with Mr. Moffatt connected with it is a special pariner. Before organizing the firm of which he was for many years head Mr. Moffatt was a partner in the banking firm of Spencer Trask & Co. He was identified in an official capacity with most of the large finan-& Co. He was identified in an official capacity with most of the large finan-cial powers of New York.

Among the firms with which he was identified at the time of his death were the financial house of White, Weld & Co. and the Electric Bond & Share Company, of New York, of which he was a director. Until just before his west-ern trip he was a director in the Amer-ican Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Western Power Controlled. The banking institution of which he was the head financed and controlled many industrial enterprises all over the country. Among the more important of these are the Portland Power & Light Company, the Portland Gas & Coke Company, the American Power & Light Company, of New York, and the Kansas Gas & Electric Company. The Oregon Electric Railway was started by Mr. Moffatt in 1906. He organized a company known as the Oregon Electric Syndicate and became its head. It was his belief in the future greatness of the Northwest and in the development of the Willamette Valley in particular that induced him to build the road. The building contract was let to W. S. Barstow & Co., electrical engineers. Representing Mr. Moffatt's terests, Guy W. Talbot came to Portland a short time after construction work on the road began in the capacity of vice-president and general manager, and saw the road completed and put into operation.

Friend Pays Tribute.

In February, 1910, the road was sold the Hill railroad interests. In June, 1910, all the securities of the Pacific Power & Light Company were taken over by Mr. Moffatt's banking firm. In January of the same year he had taken over a large portion of the securities of the Portland Gas & Coke Company. "Mr. Moffatt was one of the broadest. kindlest and most sympathetic men I have ever met," said Mr. Talbot, in speaking of Mr. Moffatt yesterday. "He speaking of Mr. Moffatt yesterday." was a true friend if ever there was Mr. Moffatt was born in Brooklyn.

INTERSCHOLASTIC COMMITTEE PUTS BAN ON ROWDYISM.

Resolution Is Adopted to Permit Victorious Athletes to Celebrate in Peace-Promises Made.

Black eyes, bruised limbs, torn pennants and mud-besmeared rooters' caps will be a thing of the past with the Portland high schools at their interscholastic athletic contests if the resolutions of the interscholastic athletic committee, adopted yesterday, are carried out. Trouble has been brewing for some time, and about a week ago reached its culmination in a free-forall fight, in which the students, urged on and assisted by outsiders, blacked each other's eyes and tore up pen-

It has been the custom of the win-ning team, after an interscholastic game at the Multnomah Athletic Field, to serpentine the streets from the head of Morrison street to the downtown diatrict. A few of the jealous ones on the losing side have endeavored to break up these parades, which have usually been headed by a high school usually been headed by a high school band. The interscholastic athletic committee, at yesterday's meeting, decided that hereafter it shall be the privilege of the winning team and school to celebrate as it sees fit, unpublished by the other schools. molested by the other schools.

molested by the other schools.

This action was taken after the Board of Education had delivered its ultimatum to the principals and scholars that unless a definite promise were made that rowdylam coase, no more athletic contests between the schools would be permitted.

schools would be permitted.

Edgar Piper, Jr., was elected chairman of the interscholastic committee y. He is president of the Association of the Lincoln chool. Other members are: resterday. Athletic Associ Howard S. McKay, director Athletic Association, Lincoln; Frank Buckley, president senior class, Lincoln; Clifton Irwin, yell-leader, Lincoln; Robert M. Irwin, yell-leader, Lincoln; Robert McMurray, president of the student body, Jefferson; Dick Grant, Washington; Don McLaren, president student body, Washington; Vere Windnagle, director student body, Washington; Paul Wilson, yell-leader, Washington, I. N. Garman, of Lincoln, and Virgil. Earl, of Washington, football and base-ball coach, met with the committee as representatives of the faculty. The meeting was held at Washington High

The committee will confer with the principal of each of the three schools, and will call an assembly at each school Wednesday morning, when, after an introductory speech by a member of the school visited, one representative of each of the ether schools will speak, assuring the students that the sentiment of the entire school was not represented in the fight. The school losing any interscholastic game hereafter, will be urged to take its defeat in a sportsmanlike manner, without demonstrations.

5 STATES UNITE IN CAUSE

(Continued From First Page.) adequate spark arresters were the most serious menaces to timber. Oil-burning equipment in the woods, he said, was desirable, but he predicted that the demands of safety and economy eventually would force the application of electrical power in all big logging enterprises.

In the discussion of this subject, which was general, one speaker pro-posed that all cigarette smokers be denied employment in logging camps. Although the suggestion was admitted to have merit, the association took no formal action. Another logger proposed that employers supply their op-eratives in the woods with patented eigar-lighters, on the theory that many of the forest fires result from discarded eigarette or cigar stumps or the care-less throwing of an unextinguished match into inflammable debris.

Taking up the subject of railroad fires, F. A. Silcox, of the United States Forest Service, made the assertion that 40 per cent of the forest fires in the country could be charged to the rail-roads. Three means of combatting the danger of fires from this source were recommended, as follows: Safeguard-ing railroad engines by the use of adevision of forestry officials and patrol-

The argument used in obtaining this co-operation, he said, was to convince the railroads that the destruction of the railroads that the destruction of timber involved a reduction in tonnage to the transportation companies.

The railroad companies were not without representation at the meeting.

M. J. Buckley and J. F. Graham, assistant general managers of the O.-W. R. & N.: W. C. Albee, of Tacoma, division superintendent of the Northern Pacific, and E. W. Osborne, of St. Paul, fire insurance inspector for the same company, presented the railroads side of the controversy and explained that they were doing all in their power to lessen the danger from fire. They they were doing all in their power to lessen the danger from fire. They pointed out that the railroads were showing a disposition not only to employ preventive measures but to assist in extinguishing fires after they were discovered. Incidentally they apprised the timber men that many of the fires attributed to the railroads were caused by trespassers along their were caused by trespassers along their rights of way.

Train Passengers Also Blamed. by H. D. Langille, of this city, who spoke of the carelessness of passengers on railroad trains throwing half-smoked and lighted cigars from the train on to the company's right of way. He also referred to the menace of way. He also referred to the menace of fires started by tramps on the same right of way. State Forester Elliott, of this state, made the announcement that only 5 per cent of the forest fires re-ported to his office this year were charged to the responsibility of the railroads. "The other 95 per cent," railroads. "The other 95 per cent," said he, "were caused by the carelessness of logging camp operators."
George A. Day, personal representative of Governor Hawley, of Idaho, a state with 400,000 acres of timber lands, told of the interest the people of his state had in the subject of forest conservation. The last idaho Legislature, explained Mr. Day, appropriated $30,000 for the protection of the forests of the state, which for the year had been thereagely and efficiently parrolled at

Announcement of the appointment of Fredrick James V. Skiff, of St. Louis, Fredrick James V. Skiff, of St. Louis, director-in-chief of foreign and domestic exhibits in the Panama-Pacific Exposition caused the members of the committee in charge of the campaign for D. O. Lively as director of livestock exhibits to call a meeting at the Commercial Club yesterday and lay plans for more active prosecution of the campaign for Mr. Lively's appointment. Naming of officers to be in charge of the various exhibits will now be in the hands of Mr. Skiff. hands of Mr. Skiff.

hands of Mr. Skiff.

Mr. Sffiff will be in Washington, D.
C., this week and arrangements have been made to have both the United States Senators from Oregon wait upon him and request Mr. Lively's appointment. C. C. Colt, president of the Union Meat Company, who is in Chicago to attend the meeting of the In-ternational Livestock Association, will also communicate with Mr. Skiff, as well as request the indorsement of his candidate by the Livestock Association. Between 25 and 30 subordinate live-stock associations will meet in Chicago within the next few weeks. All have been requested by the Portland Commercial Club and the Oregon Development League to indorse Mr. Lively's candidacy, and without exception they have agreed to do so. It was announced at the luncheon of the committee yesterday that C. C. Moore, president of the Panama-Pacific Commission, had promised to com-municate with Mr. Skiff, indorsing the Portland representative. Mr. Moore talked yesterday morning with Julius Meler, saying that he was much im-pressed with the campaign that Port-land was carrying on and was also in favor of the candidate advanced by this city. He said he would be pleased to take up the subject personally with Mr. Skiff and lend his own indorsement as to Mr. Lively's ability to fill the position effectively.

The committee has already gathered an enormous mass of credentials, including indorsements from representative men in every industry and in near-ly every state. Personal recommen-dations have been received from Presi-dent Taft, from Nathan Strauss, ex-Minister to Turkey, and from officials in charge of the Panama Canal. The list of indorsements include two Generous six big rallypad officials.

The list of indorsements include two Governors, six hig railroad officials, seven livestock exchange officers, four stockyard presidents, three packers, three livestock association presidents, two agricultural colleges, five Portland organizations, 37 bank presidents of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, 12 publishers of agricultural papers and scores of others.

THINK of the suffering A entailed by neglected skin troubles - mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them.
