Sitting up in her bed at St. Vincent's Hospital and smiling as she shook her black, curfy hair. Miss Wilma Mc-Knight, beautiful 17-year-old daughter of a wealthy Seattle mining man, last night protested that she was just as well as ever and that, with the exception of a slight headache, she had nothing to remind her that for four hours Monday night she wandered in the rain until she sank, unconscious and exhausted, on the doorstep of the home of F. W. Keller at Front and Hooker streets.

McKnight-"Billie," as Miss McKnight—"Billie," as her friends call her—says she cannot recall a single moment of the time that passed after she left St. Helen's Hall at 5:20 o'clock the same afternoon when suffering from a severe headache. Although her hat and raincoat were drenched, showing that she had braved the storm, there is no mark of any kind on Miss McKnight, and the belief her rejustives that on leaving the hall

When Mr. Keller took the girl into his home, his mother question her closely and it was only when her name was asked that she was able to mean: "the my head," The rich and appraise clothing she were was not even ruffled and a valuable gold brace-let on her arm was regarded as indicative that no attempt had been made to too her.

Holiday Pussed With Kin. Miss McKnight had spent Thanks giving with the Noians, and Sunday night Mrs. Noian took her back to St. Helen's Hall, where for some months she has been a pupil. At that time the girl mentioned her aching head. Menday afternoon she performed her school work and went to her room to practice on the plane. She was then advised by one of the sisters to take a She dressed and went into the garden. From that moment her mind is a blank until her arrival at St. Vin-

CHIEF HAS PLAN FOR JAIL Slover Would Hasten New Building to Relieve Congestion.

Relief of congestion at the City Jail may be attained through a plan evolved yesterday at a conference between Chief of Police Slover and Chairman Coffey of the pelice committee of the executive board. The project contemplates rushing work on the new City Jail to be built on the old site. City Jail to be built on the old site, beginning by erecting one section of the building on the part of the pro-jected site now occupied by a firehouse and a Chinese store.

Hefere abandoning the plan for a temporary jall at Fifth and Everett streets, Chief Slover and Captain Moore yesterday examined the site thoroughly. It was found that the building there was of crumbling brick, which would require complete lining with sheetiron, and other improvements, which would bring the bill to about $2000. Even then the court would have to be housed in a cottage adjoining.

Many prisoners finished their sentences yesterday and the unspeakable conditions in the jall were slightly

This afternoon at the matinee the bill is "Madame Butterfly" and tonight "Carmen" will be played, with Elvira Bosetti, soplayed, with Elvira Bosetti, so-prano, as the cigarette girl of Seville, one of her best character-izations. Acceding to many requests from patrons, the Lam-bardis are to remain here one night longer than originally intended, and tomorrow, Thurs-day, night they will sing Puc-ciani's "La Boheme," an opera well known in this city. The "La Boheme" engagement has aroused much interest.

Bar Association Adopts Resolution With Governor as Target.

OBJECTORS VOTED DOWN

Criticism of Executive for Abolish ing Capital Punishment Intro duced by J. Hennessy Murphy-Several Dissenters.

A resolution aimed at Governor West and intended as a criticism of his action in setting aside the law of the state relating to capital punishment was presented by J. Hennessy Murphy, prominent Democrat, at the meeting of the Multnomah Bar Association last night and was adopted.

There were several dissenting votes, among them that of John H. Steven-among them that of John H, Stevengen, who asked especially to be placed on record as voting against the resolution, which reads as follows:

"Resolved, by the Multnomah Bar Association, in regular meeting assembled, that we reaffirm the principles of the great American who drafted the Declaration of Independence, that When a man assumes a public trust he should consider himself public property.' That this government of ours is a government of law and not a government of sentiment; that a public trust is bestowed for the good of the country and not for the benefit of an individual or party; that the very essence of a public trust exercised by a political executive magistracy is fearlessly to enforce the laws of the country and never to be an obstacle to the due process of law and the execution thereof, exemplified by the conduct of those unfit for the business they are entrusted with." business they are entrusted with."

Governor West Turget.
Although Mr. Murphy mentioned no names in his address preliminary to of-fering the resolution, there was no mistaking his intent and after ad-journment he freely admitted that his resolution was aimed at Governor

The association also adopted amend ments to its constitution, framed for the express purpose of facilitating the prosecution of shysters, and President Allen appointed George N. Davis, Ralph E. Moody, E. E. Heckbert, W. A. Carter and James L. Conley as a committee to act as a grand jury and re-turn true or not true bills against at-torneys against whom charges of unprofessional conduct may be preferred. After the meeting Mr. Allen said:
"As long as I am president of the Multnomah Bar Association I propose to ascertain why charges are not investigated if filed. I do not expect any necessity for my interference, as I believe the committee will fearlessly do its duty, but the fact remains that the members of the legal profession are charged with laxness in prosecuting those who disgrace our calling and that is a stigma which I intend to labor to remove. Previous to the adoption of the amendments there were several speeches, among those talking being C. W. Fulton, J. W. Hardy and S. B. Hus-

Referring indirectly to the fact that Clarence Darrow knew of the guilt of James B. McNamara, yet defended him, C. W. Fulton brought up the question of a lawyer's duty under such circum-stances. He concluded that an attorney should not defend a man whom he knows to be guilty and declared that money should be no object.

He said, however, that an attorney rarely knows whether a client is guilty and in such cases he declared it to be the duty of an attorney, when in doubt, to see that his client is tried according to the forms of law and receives all the advantages to which, under the law, he is entitled.

Professor John Sollie, of Albert Lea, Minn., chief judge of the exhibit, was delayed, however, and his train did not arrive in Portland until last night. Plans for the show were rearranged and today, while the members of the association are meeting in convention. association are meeting in convention in the hall above, the butter and cheese be opened to the general public. "Exhibits are much heavier this year than ever before," said Professor F. L. Kent, of Oregon Agricultural College, secretary of the Butter and Cheese Makers' Association. "This is partly due to the fact that we are holding our convention jointly with the State Dairymen's Association. The premium list, which is one of the larg-est ever offered at such a show, has also had a certain amount of influence to attract exhibitors. One of the things that cannot be overlooked, also as a contributor to the size of the show, is the opening of the railroad into the Tillamook region,

"Tillamook is exhibiting the largest and finest cheese display ever sent to the state show from that county. The Tillamook Creamery Association has nine large entries, and three other exibits are displayed by individual con-testants from that county. The Portland creameries are also entering s

Judging of the exhibits will be completed this morning by Professor Sollie and his assistant, S. G. Thompson, of and his assistant, S. G. Thompson, of the dairy division, United States De-partment of Agriculture. The pro-gramme of the Butter and Cheese Makers' convention will occupy the en-tire day, and tomorrow morning the convention of the State Dairymen's Association will open. Delegates from both organizations will be present at each convention programme and some of the speakers are scheduled for ad-dresses on both programmes.
