

SENATE IN HASTE TO BREAK TREATY

Czar May Get Notice Before Christmas.

EARLY REPORT IS PROMISED

Year Will Be Gained if No Time Is Lost Now.

ADOPTION NEARLY CERTAIN

Lodge, Bacon and Cullom Deny That State Department Is on Trial. Secretary Knox Expects to Accomplish Results.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The abrogation of the Russian treaty of 1832 because of discriminations against American Jews and others may become the law of the land before the Christmas holidays.

The Sulzer resolution, already adopted by the House, directing the termination of the treaty after a year's notice, was brought up today in the Senate. The decision to refer it to the committee on foreign relations rather than act immediately was made after an assurance from the committee that it would report Monday. The Senate may then either adopt the resolution with a slight change or the Culberson resolution virtually identical.

Whole Year Will Be Gained.

The debate in the Senate included some discussion of the attitude of the State Department. Senator Culberson wanted immediate action on Monday without reference to the committee. He contended that notice of abrogation could take effect until one year "after the first day of January following the action of Congress," and therefore, if the resolution should fall of adoption before the holidays it could not go into effect until 1914.

Sensors Cullom and Lodge pleaded for the reference to the committee, which they said would report Monday.

Senator Raynor was somewhat skeptical as to the committee's ability to agree within that time.

"I have no doubt that we can do it," Senator Cullom said. Mr. Lodge added his assurance to the same effect.

Public Demand Is Seen.

Senator Clark, of Arkansas, contended that if the treaty were to be disposed of promptly action should be taken without reference to the committee. He said Congress either should act immediately upon the general public demand or go into the question thoroughly.

Sensors Lodge, Bacon and Cullom refused to accept the view that the State Department was on trial.

"The President has told us," Senator Cullom said, "that he is at work on the question and will have something ready after the holidays, and the Secretary of State assured me a day or two ago that he expected to accomplish something of value to the country."

"Finally the House resolution was referred to the foreign relations committee, which will meet on Monday."

EDITOR AND PARSON SWAP

Evangelist Fills Salem Paper With Biblical Quotations.

SALEM, Or., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—"Be sure your sins will find you out, Numbers xxxii:22," was the Biblical quotation heralded in large type across the front page of the Daily Statesman here today, when Evangelist Violet took editorial charge for the day. E. B. Lockhart, the editor, delivered the evangelical address at the meeting for Violet.

Every item in the paper was followed by a Biblical quotation.

For instance, under a story in which Roosevelt made the stirring remark "Holy Smoke," the evangelist editor wrote, "How art thou fallen, O Lucifer, son of the morning."

"The way of the transgressor is hard" is the way he hailed a story concerning the McNamara brothers.

Evangelist Violet also filled the editorial columns with evangelistic advice on how properly to conduct a newspaper.

HUMAN HAIR DUTY FREE

Queue-Cutting Edict Falls to Flood Commercial Market.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The free entry into this country of "combs of human hair" in their crude condition from China and other lands, for the manufacture of wigs, puffs, "rats," switches and other articles of personal adornment will not be disturbed by the Treasury Department.

Investigation of the subject has developed that the imperial Chinese edict ordering the clipping of the historic queues of the subjects of the Celestial Empire has had no effect on the available supply of human hair for commercial purposes.

The market has not been swamped with Chinese "pig-tails" for the sons of China are carefully enclosing the clipped queues in boxes of gold for preservation as relics to posterity.

JURY "ON STRIKE" DEFIANT TO JUDGE

MEN REFUSE TO RETURN VERDICT AGAINST WOMAN.

Twelve Stand on "Rights as American Citizens" in Disobeying Directions of Court.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14.—The jury "on strike" in Judge Withrow's court remained in session today. The 12 men who since Tuesday afternoon have refused to return a verdict for Rev. Father John White in the McDermott will case, as directed by the court, because they believe such a finding to be wrong, were allowed to go to their homes at 5 P. M., with instructions to return at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and resume their consideration of the Judge's orders.

Judge Withrow today read numerous decisions dealing with the power of courts to punish for contempt and there were rumors that he had decided to send the jurors to jail tomorrow if they persisted in their refusal to obey his instructions. However, he may keep the jury on duty indefinitely.

Mrs. Mary Farrington sued Father White, executor of the estate of her mother, alleging undue influence in the preparation of the mother's will, which cut off Mrs. Farrington with $1. Judge Withrow held the evidence was insufficient and directed a verdict for the defendant.

Thereupon the jurors said they would stand on their "rights as American citizens."

CUPID OVERLOOKS OLCOTT

Executive Is First Bachelor Governor State Ever Had.

SALEM, Or., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Those eligible maids who have been perusing the columns of matrimonial journals have been overlooking their one best bet, for here in Oregon Acting Governor OLCOTT is the first bachelor Governor of which the state has ever been able to boast.

Although it was rumored that the Acting Governor would become a benedict in the Fall, the Fall has passed and he still remains unmarried.

"There seems to be one essential qualification in which I am lacking," said the Acting Governor today, when the delicate question was broached to him. "I am financially broke."

OLCOTT is 43 years old, and he still has a week in which to sustain the capacity of Acting Governor.

FLY AND HOOKWORM KIN

Dr. Woods Hutchinson Delivers Address on "Swat" Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A live partnership exists between the larvae of the house fly and the eggs of the hookworm, according to Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of New York, who addressed the American Civic Association convention here today on the results and progress of the "swat the fly" campaign inaugurated by the association last year.

He enumerated a long list of diseases, including typhoid fever, which are spread by the fly. The house fly, he said, could not exist away from human habitation and if deprived of breeding places would soon be driven out of existence.

COHAN'S COUSIN TO WED

Lila Rhodes, Relative of George M. and Josephine, to Be June Bride.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Miss Lila Rhodes, whose dancing is a feature of "The Little Millionaire" and who is a cousin of George M. Cohan and Josephine Cohan, has announced her engagement to Charles King, now on the road in "The Henpecks" company. The date of the wedding has not been fixed definitely but it will be about June 1.

Miss Rhodes made her stage debut when she was 15 years old in "Little Johnny Jones." It was during his engagement that she met King, who took star part on the road after George M. Cohan retired from the company. The couple were subsequently in "The Yankee Prince" company.

OREGON PIONEER 1845 DIES

Milton Hale, Builder of Almost First Linn County House.

ALBANY, Or., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Milton Hale, one of Oregon's earliest pioneers, died at the St. Mary's Hospital, in this city, tonight at the age of 99.

Mr. Hale crossed the plains in 1845, settling in Linn County, near Albany. He built one of the first houses in this county and ran the first ferry on the Santiam River, near Jefferson. He is survived by three children, as follows: Judge W. C. Hale, of Grants Pass, and Mrs. J. D. Burkhardt and U. G. Hale, of this city.

DICTATOR? LOOK! SAYS T. R.

Colonel Comments on Manner of Homecoming, Then Flees.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—"Not a word on general politics or anything else, but if I am to be a dictator, as they say, does this look like a dictator's homecoming?"

Colonel Roosevelt, as he said this, pushed his way through the crowd at the Grand Central Station on his arrival from Boston, jumped into an automobile and whizzed away, leaving several would-be interviewers disappointed.

GLOOM ENVELOPS LA FOLLETTE CAMP

Insurgents Are Drifting to Roosevelt.

WISCONSIN MAN MAY RETIRE

Revelation of Sentiment Is Pleasing to Taft.

PARTY SPLIT PREVENTED

No Apprehension Felt That Colonel Will Cautiously Third Party Movement — President Controls Situation.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Dec. 14.—"Taft can have the re-nomination in 1912 if he wants it. La Follette is no longer to be considered seriously.

"If Taft is not nominated it will be Roosevelt."

Go where you will among politicians in Washington, now that the meeting of the Republican National Committee has passed into history, and these are the sentiments you hear expressed. Republican committeemen and Republican Senators and Representatives seem agreed that the harmony displayed at the recent meeting of the committee foreshadows Taft's re-nomination, unless he eliminates himself, and no one seriously believes that he will do any such thing.

La Follette Men Dejected.

Nearly every politician in Washington is willing to talk, now that the first step toward organizing for the big fight next year has been taken. In La Follette headquarters only is strict silence being maintained. There gloom and disappointment is manifest, not so much because the National Committee showed its almost unanimous friendliness for President Taft, but because those committeemen who are listed as anti-Taft and those anti-Taft men who accompanied them to Washington publicly and without exception voiced their preference for Roosevelt and not one anti-Taft man as much as mentioned La Follette.

Carefully analyzed, whatever action was taken by the Republican National Committee at its recent meeting was favorable to the Administration.

Interest, however, centered in the sentiments expressed by the assembled committeemen and the fact that not one among them paid the slightest attention to La Follette is regarded in Washington as indicative that La Follette will be a negligible quantity in the next Republican National convention.

Some Expect Early Withdrawal.

Indeed there is some talk now that La Follette may withdraw soon, for it became painfully apparent to his followers before the National Committee had adjourned that there was little

TOT HOLDS LIGHT; PAPA FINDS ROBBER

INTREPID SIX-YEAR-OLD IS STERN DETECTIVE.

Nervous Parent Loses Burglar as Youngster With Lantern Acts as Guide After Capture.

Taking a lantern in his hands, 6-year-old Harry Thompson, son of Walter Thompson, 325 East Eightieth street, lighted the way of his father when the latter set out last night to catch a robber who had invaded his back yard after robbing a store at 351 East Eighty-second street. Thompson at first hesitated to go out after the holdup man, whom he heard in his yard, but the little chap persuaded him to go. The 6-year-old, armed with a lantern, and his father, armed with a shotgun, caught the robber and took away from him a 28-caliber fully loaded revolver.

Harry, bearing the lantern, and his father, holding the shotgun close to the robber, proceeded down the street toward Montavilla. Two blocks from home Thompson lost control of the trigger of the gun and it exploded, scaring but not injuring the robber.

The robber shouted "Don't do that," and ran away. He was not caught.

When Detectives Taft and Swennes came upon Thompson, after passing him once in the dark, he was afraid to go home. Little Harry scorned the escort of the detectives, which Thompson asked for. Under the escort of Harry, still with the lighted lantern, Thompson went home.

A comedy of errors barred the detectives, and Motorcycle Patrolman Evans from reaching Thompson before the robber made his escape. When J. C. Meyers, of 351 East Eighty-second street was held up in his store by the robber and relieved of $7.50 earlier in the evening, he telephoned the police station and two detectives and Evans were sent out. The two sleuths were delayed by the streetcar on which they rode jumping the track. Evans, searching in a haymow, climbed on a beam and pulled the roof down on himself. Ten men were required to get him out from under the hay and broken roof of the dilapidated building.

Check Stubs Important.

It was during a large part of these seven years that Orrie McManigal, according to his confession, did dynamite for John J. McNamara, the convicted secretary-treasurer, and often in company with James B. McNamara.

An important feature of McManigal's confession attracted attention in connection with Mrs. Hull's visit to the District Attorney's office. This was the admission by McManigal that he usually received about $200 for each job and that when he complained that part of the money was being held back, James B. McNamara had admitted receiving the stubs of the checks and said John J. would "fix it up."

Witnesses' Identity Secret.

Most of the jury's attention today was taken up with an outlining by Attorney Miller of what the investigation was to be, how far it was to go and the number and character of the witnesses to be called. The identity of the few witnesses called today was kept in strict secrecy.

Mrs. Hull's appearance at the Federal building followed that of H. S. Hoekin, acting secretary of the Iron Workers' Association, who had been conferring with Frank M. Ryan, Police officials of Indianapolis who were present when records were taken from the Iron Workers' headquarters and

MILLER OUTLINES CASE

Verification of Items Mentioned in McManigal's Confession Sought in Records — Money "Held Out" by Higher-Up.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 14.—As a direct lead into the big dynamite conspiracy, United States Attorney Miller, at the first meeting of the Federal grand jury here today, took up the question who furnished the money for buying and paying the expenses of carrying about the country the explosives with which more than 100 structures have been blown up.

Mrs. Andrew J. Hull, now of Kimball, Neb., who as Miss Edith Winebrenner was bookkeeper for the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and who was familiar with its money receipts and disbursements, was closely questioned by Mr. Miller. Into the grand jury room were taken the stubs of check-books and accounts of the association for the five years in which the explosions took place.

Check Stubs Important. It was during a large part of these seven years that Orrie McManigal, according to his confession, did dynamite for John J. McNamara, the convicted secretary-treasurer, and often in company with James B. McNamara.

DR. J. W. BROUGHER GETS $1000 RISE

LOS ANGELES TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH NOW PAYS $6000.

Former Portland Pastor Succeeded in South Where Congregation Shows Appreciation.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 14.—(Special.)—Temple Baptist Church, of which Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, formerly of Portland, is pastor, tonight at a meeting voted unanimously and enthusiastically to add $1000 to Dr. Brougher's salary. In reporting the unanimous recommendation of the executive committee for the increase in salary, Mr. Mattison B. Jones said:

"When Dr. Brougher resigned it was a serious question as to whom the church would choose as pastor. No ordinary man could have taken up the work inaugurated by Dr. Brougher and carried it on successfully but under the blessing of God, we secured Dr. Brougher to take up the work. That his leadership and ministry have been pre-eminently successful, every member of Temple Baptist Church knows."

Others spoke enthusiastically in favor of the proposition and by rising vote unanimously and heartily added the $1000 to Dr. Brougher's salary.

Dr. Brougher responded feelingly to this generous action on the part of the church. He said that he not only appreciated the privilege of having more money to use in his life's work but he especially appreciated the heartiness and cheerfulness with which the increase in salary had been offered.

Dr. Brougher has been pastor of Temple Baptist Church for nearly two years. His salary is now $6000 a year, the largest salary paid by any church in the city.

SANTA'S CAR DESTROYED

Countless Tin Soldiers and Wooden Animals Perish in Flames.

HAVER, Mont., Dec. 14.—Whole companies of soldiers were wiped out and countless animals, wild and domestic, perished when a mail car on the Great Northern Railroad took fire between Haver and Great Falls today. All the casualties were due to the progressiveness of Santa Claus in abandoning the old reliable reindeer team for the swifter lightning express.

The fact that the soldiers were of tin and the animals of wood will soften only partially the grief of the settlers' children to whom the Christmas packages were mailed by Eastern friends.

The car was loaded with second and fourth-class matter and carried no postal clerk. Its interior was a mass of flames when the fire first was discovered. The engineer threw the throttle wide in the direction of the nearest water tank and the burning car was flooded.

Evidence Deemed Strong. The interview purported to relate to other subjects, and Lochard was not informed that he was under scrutiny. If he is the guilty man, he betrayed no recollection of having seen Mrs. Nelson before yesterday.

While the evidence against Lochard is all circumstantial at present, it is strong. It includes alleged admissions made to other criminals; a striking resemblance to the description given by Mrs. Nelson at the time the murder was discovered; alleged tendencies to degeneracy like those displayed by the murderer; accurate knowledge of the interior of the rooming-house, said to have been shown by Lochard in his statements, and a peculiar unwillingness to visit the scene of the crime just after it occurred.

The trail of events which culminated in yesterday's revelations, began several months ago when Lochard thought that J. F. Hawkes had poisoned him. The two, according to charges now before the Circuit Court, had been systematically engaged in robbing houses in East Side suburbs.

Man Accused of Informant.

One night Lochard was taken deathly sick, and rushed to Constable Hall, of Mount Scott, who conducted him to a physician. His suspicions of poisoning were confirmed and it is believed that the illness came from apple sauce he had eaten, either purposely or unintentionally poisoned. Hall had been suspicious of Lochard and took advantage of his state of mind to work out the accusation that he had carried on a series of robberies. Hawkes was drawn in and both were arrested.

When Lochard pleaded guilty he made numerous statements to Jennings, others, and among them Jennings' part career is clouded, but he has scuttled down and endeavored to earn an honest living. Hearing that he was involved, he came to Portland a week ago, engaged attorneys, and made use of knowledge he had previously kept secret, tending to fasten the murder on Lochard.

Suspect's Employer Tells.

Jennings was living in Portland at the time of the Holzman murder, and says he knew intuitively that Lochard had committed the crime as soon as he had newspaper accounts of it the following morning. Lochard had been working for him, he said, on a solicitor's basis, and had a "prospect" in the immediate neighborhood of the scene of the crime. After Barbara Holzman was killed he dropped the business, without explanation, could he be prevailed upon to return to the place.

Jennings went to South Bend to live and Lochard followed him there. He asserts that Lochard proposed that they should break into a bank, but he refused and even ordered the man out of town, threatening to arrest him himself.

It was while on this visit to South Bend, according to the story of Jennings, that Lochard fell in with two men of shady records and to them boasted of the numerous murders he had committed, among them that of the Holzman girl, "and it is the only one I regret," he is quoted as saying. "To these confidants Lochard even described the room and the house so accurately, says Jennings, that he found every detail correct when he visited the place."

Landlady Identifies Picture.

On coming to Portland Jennings directed to the rooming-house, and after pleading Mrs. Nelson to secrecy, showed her a picture of Lochard, which she

THIEF SAID TO BE CHILD-MURDERER

CHARGE TO BE FILED TODAY

Leond Lochard Killed Little Girl, Says ex-Employer.

LANDLADY IDENTIFIES HIM

Rockpile Prisoner, Who Confessed Series of Robberies, Is Accused of Having Expressed Sorrow for Slaying Babe.

Leond Lochard, confessed robber, serving a sentence at Kelly Butte, is accused of being the murderer of little Barbara Holzman in Albina last March.

Mrs. Bertha Nelson, at whose lodging-house the little girl was murdered, has identified Lochard as the man who rented from her the room in which the crime was committed and who disappeared before discovery of the body.

The charge is made by Frank Jennings, ex-employer of Lochard, and an information accusing Lochard of murder in the first degree is to be filed today.

Mrs. Nelson, the only person who saw the murderer at the time, after identifying a picture of Lochard a few days ago, went with Jennings and an attorney to Kelly Butte yesterday afternoon and after looking at Lochard said she was "pretty sure" he was the man, but reserved final judgment until she could see him in a coat and hat similar to those worn by the murderer.

Evidence Deemed Strong.

The interview purported to relate to other subjects, and Lochard was not informed that he was under scrutiny. If he is the guilty man, he betrayed no recollection of having seen Mrs. Nelson before yesterday.
