BY ROSCOE, FAWCETT.

When America's Olympic candidates assemble at San Francisco for the Western track and field trials early in May, the Northwest will likely be represented by at least five sterling athletes, Sam Bellah, pole vaulter and javelin; Martin Hawkins, hurdles; Forrest Smithson, hurdles, Multinomah Club; Edmundson 440 and hurdles; Con Walsh, hammer and weights, Seattle Athletic Club.

Of the track and field Napoleons who will try for an opportunity to inoculate Sweden with the Pacific North-west, one, Smithson is a world's champion while two others, Bellah and Walsh hold National titles.

Smithson, winner of the high flights at the London Olympiad, made application for a transfer from Los Angeles back to the Winged "M" shortly before departing for Honolulu a few weeks ago and is training assiduously, He won the Coast championship last August 25 at the Astoria Centennial games.

Bellah won the Coast pole vault crarship and two others at the same meet under the colors of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, but it was in the National meet at Pittsburg that he gained most fame, tleing for the 1911 American title. He, too, is now a member of the Multnomah Club and will compete for the winged "M".

Walsh belongs to the Seattle Athletic Club and while there is some question as to his eligibility to compete for any but British clubs, the big Irishman may be found in the fold at San Francisco. He won the hammer and 56-pound weight pennants at Pittsburg last Summer.

Milie Murphy, the veteran Penn Mile Murphy, the veteral rath sylvania conditioner, will train the Olympic team again," said T. Morris Dunne, the Portland man who is on the team selection committee for the Western division, yesterday. "It will be managed by Mat. Halpin, of the New

"The American team will be chosen from the athletes making the best showings in the three different meets. Boston, Chicago and San Francisco, but." addd Mr. Dunne. "the winning of an event does not signify that an athlete has a cinch on a place.

"The wrestling will be all Graeco-Roman style so the Multnomah Club will likely hold a Graeco-Roman tournament soon so as to show the boys the distinction from the catch-as-catch-can. The weight divisions are as fol-

The weight divisions are as fol-lows: Feather, 132 pounds limit; light, 149 pounds; middle (a), 165 pounds; middle (b), 182 pounds; heavy, above 182 pounds. Edgar Frank can make 122 so the scale will work quite a hardship on him but as he expects to be back East anyway I expect to see him enter the preliminaries."

Those who have been assigned the of selecting America's Olympic team have a Hortulean Job on their hands," writes Walter Eckersall in the Chicago Tribune. Yes, and no. Yankee athletes have always shown their class in the International meets and the committee on selection will have a snap empared to that assigned to the sub scription delegation. It really should be comparatively easy to bundle to-gether a swell bunch of blue bloods after the corralling of the shekels has been completed.

In actual records the United States leads in all branches with the exception of the broad-jump. England also has a splendid mark in the 440-mile dash, F. G. Black having negotiated the quarter in 49 4-5 when the American the quarter in $2.5 b wach the American and English universities met. In the short sprints the Americans seem to have the beat of all the countries and the Americans also are forging ahead in the hurdles, and weights and hammer throw. Furthermore men like Pauli or Paul Jones should take tile easily, while we have Melvin sard for the shorter distances and McGrath for the hammer and Weight events.

Indian athletes have been enjoying a great year in all the lines of endeavor in which spoed, endurance and cunning and pure grit are the vital factors. Bender and Meyers shone in the baseball calcium and then there shot across the football horizon Jim Therpe, of Carlisle, one of the greatest athletic marvels of the age and an Olympic certainty.

But in horse stealing the redskin apparently has lost his cunning, as witness the arrest of Sam Morris, former Portland pitcher, at Lewiston, Idaho, a day or two ago charged with being an accomplice of Jonas Williams, eacher Indian who confessed his being an accomplice of Jonas Williams, another Indian, who confessed his crime. Morris first attracted attention with the Nez Perce Indian nine when his brilliant playing got him a job with McCredie. Sam soon developed a thirst for the ambrosial fluid which finally put him on the baseball shelf for keeps. Later he lost an arm in a railroad accident.

Ardent Fan-Wolverton's record as a baseball manager is as follows: 1907—Williamsport, Tri-State League, pennant; 1908—Williamsport, Tri-State League, pennant; 1909—Newark, Eastern League, second; 1910—Oakland, Pacific Coast League, second; 1911—Oakland, Facific Coast League, third.

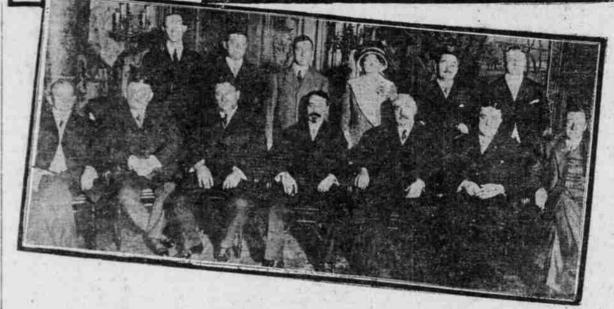

Will Hank O'Day be an umpire batter? This in the interesting speculating being indulged in by the Eastern baseball fans. The new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, through his long years of umpire service in the Na-years of umpire service in the National League, should know baseball, but whether the experience thus gained will help him in welding a winning baseball machine in the dark city furnishes problem number two. O'Day will have broth manager pure and simple be a bench manager, pure and simple.

students here is that the initiative should be taken by the university and this feeling is so strong that it is deubtful if a settlement could be reached in any other manner."

The Barometric editorial scribe evidently overlooks the fact that athletic relations were severed through the medium of a resolution passed by the students of the Oregon Agricultural College. This being the case, in the interests of fair dealing, it would seem to be up to the said Corvallis students to start the ball rolling by rescinding the obnoxious resolution.

A football game for 1911 seems out of the question, owing to the lateness of the day, but with Whitman, Washington State and Idaho threatening to withdraw baseball and baskeiball teams from the conference, Oregon and the Oregon Aggies owe it to themselves to patch up their differences at the colleges possible time. Otherwise the to patch up their differences at the earliest possible time. Otherwise the adage about "biting the nose off to spite the face, etc.," still goes.

AMATEUR ATHLETICS

Owing to the fact that there are so many teams put into the athletic field by business houses, some of the which started putting houses which started putting out teams about three years ago will not be represented in either indoor or outdoor baseball. Dilworth, who has always had strong teams in both branches, has no representative in the indoor league now and will probably not have any in the outdoor league. "Three years ago, when we and a few other houses started this kind of ball, it proved a good thing both for the men and the business whose name they bore," said George Dilworth yesterday. "Now, owing to the fact that almost every place which langs a bitwels out has its team, interest has they bore, said George the fact that terday. "Now, owing to the fact that almost every place which langs a shingle out has its team, interest has been lost both to the people and the players. Cliff Harrison, who managed the team for us last season, has now gone into the automobile business in Eastern Oregon. This is another reason for my giving up the team."

Columbus Club held another amoker for its members on Wednesday night. It was a success from start to finish. The features were two boxing matches, the first between McNeil and Swanson and the second between Schmeer and Stevens. McNeil and Stevens were the respective victors, after hard fights. Wrestling and tumbilian completed the programme. The tumble artists were Schockley and Eulrich, a combination that furnished plenty of humor.

FARM TO BE STUDY

Opportunities for beneficial and offective work through well-directed activity in his new position as agriculturist for the O.-W. R. & N. Company are numerous, declares C. L. Smith, the farmer-educator who has just been added to the staff of the Harriman system in the Northwest.

Through his connection with the Washington Agricultural College the prefix "professor" has been added to his name, but he prefers to be designated as a plain farmer. He has won success through the combination of scientific application and old-fashioned methods in his farm work.

Goes On An Eleventh-Hour Shopping Tour

And Finds He Can Select All His Presents at Gill's

Books

First of all, there is a BOOK suitable for any relative or friend, and he can spend as much or as little as he cares to. And he selects several BOOKS, because he knows that every message of love, affection, good will and friendship can be conveyed in a BOOK. (Being on the inside, of course he knows that nowhere else in Portland can he find as good assortments of BOOKS as at Gill's.)

is a handsome Hand Bag for the wife; a beautiful Manieure Set for sister; an Address Book for Mother; a Cigar Case for Dad and a Wallet for big Brother. These are only a few of the things he sees in Leather, but the "hints" may help you find just what you want.

Arts and Crafts Jewelry

> Fountain Pens

Here he finds many dainty suggestions, such as Brooches, Belt Buckles, Hat Pins, Powder Puffs, Rings, Tie Pins, Fobs, Cuff Links, etc., etc., all at popular prices.

In leather, he finds a multitude of gift pieces. Here

He can't get by the Pen case! He uses a fountain pen himself-a Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen-so he knows just how much an Ideal can be appreciated. Result: His "boss" will find an Ideal on his desk Tuesday morning and one is going by mail to Cousin Nell at college. Everyone likes a good fountain pen,-that's why Waterman's Ideal is always safe.

A box of paper with envelopes to match is alluring, and although Gill's Ad-man is accustomed to seeing these how pleased any person would be with these "always-sure-to-please-Xmas-cabinets."

Calendars

The Dodge Calendar for Business Men would certainly please Uncle Ben, and the Nature Calendar is the very thing for Aunt Ann. And in the large variety of Art and Sentiment Calendars, there is something for every relative or friend. The prices are so little, there is no strain on the pocket purse.

Verily, here is a gift for ALL the family!—a practical gift!—a gorgeous gift! And the price,—why, a single "Unit" costs no more than a single gift book. No more disorder in Gill's Ad.-man's home library, for Christmas morning will find his wife and children moving all the books to a Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcase.

Decorations. Tags, Seals, Etc.

Last but not least, he must select some dainty Xmas tags, stamps, seals, cord, tissue paper, etc., etc., for no matter what the gift may be, if it is not properly "dressed" it will lose the "Christmas spirit."

Miscellaneous

But the Ad.-man sees so many things, he can't begin to name them all. If you have not completed your gift buying, you must come and see for yourself. UNIQUE SHOW WINDOW ATTRACTS CROWDS

The Third-street show window of the Powers Furniture Company is one of the greatest downtown attractions of Holiday week, being such a strikingly realistic reproduction of a snow scene as to delight not only the children, but grownups as well.

The action is laid on the hills of a snowbound village, showing the houses in the distance with the bright lights shining out, the snow-laden fir trees, the rustic bridge crossing a tiny stream, and Santa Claus and his reindeer team racing over the snow, discovered by two children out coasting by moonlight.

Credit for the labor and ingenuity required to accomplish a window dressing so effective and unusual is due Mr. J. Walter Johnson, who has delighted Portland shoppers with many other novel window effects in
