Individuals Not Likely to Contribute for Tveitmoe, Johannsen and Clancy.

TRADES COUNCIL HAS COIN

San Francisco Labor Men Believe Money for Trial of Officers Will Come Out of Treasury of General Organization.

McMANGAL ON WAY EAST.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—Ortis E. McMangal, confessed dynamiter, left Los Angeles tonight in company with Detective Malcolm McLaren, of the Burns Agency. His destination is thought to be Indianapolis.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—(Special.)—Frank E. Maxwell, secretary of the District Council of Carpenters, and George Newsum, a business agent of the same organization, this morning asserted that they know of no movement to collect a defense fund to defend Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johannsen and Eugene A. Clancy. The San Francisco labor leaders indicted in Los Angeles for alleged connection with the so-called dynamiting conspiracy. They are in close touch with the Building Trades Council and had there been anything started they would have been informed, they say.

The Building Trades Council maintains a defense fund for its officers, and any time that an officer of that organization gets into any difficulty that would require funds to fight this money is at his disposal.

Although none of the officers of the Building Trades Council could be reached today, and the officers of the Labor Council and the Building Trades Temple are closed, it is believed that some of this defense fund of the Building Trades Council will be devoted to the defense of Johannsen, Tveitmoe and Clancy.

It is not probable that the union men at large will be asked to contribute to the defense fund. The expected result of the McNamara trial, during the life of that case the union men of San Francisco willingly contributed thousands of dollars to the defense fund.

When the confession came they felt bitter over the result, not because of the money that had been expended on the defense fund, but over the fact that they had been duped.

LABOR MEN ENJOY HOLIDAY

Head of Los Angeles Trades Council Promises Surprises.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—Although expecting to be arraigned in the United States Court here tomorrow on the charge of having been parties to a national dynamite conspiracy, three of the four labor leaders who were indicted by the Federal grand jury Saturday apparently enjoyed the New Year holiday.

Olaf A. Tveitmoe, of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer of the California State Building Trades Council, passed the day on a trolley trip, accompanied by several labor leaders of this city.

Anton Johannsen, organizer for the same organization, and J. E. Munsey, secretary of the Iron Workers' Union at Salt Lake City, conferred briefly with their attorney, Job Harriman, and local labor leaders.

Johannsen sent a telegram to his wife at Corte Madera, saying that he expected to return to his home there the latter part of this week.

Munsey, after his talk with Harriman, passed much of the time with his wife and stepson, who came here with him from Salt Lake City in response to grand jury subpoenas.

Ben Wise, 41, Is Thought to Have Taken Acid by Mistake.

Ben Wise, a salesman in a Portland clothing store, was found dead in his bed at 365 Marshall street yesterday morning. The coroner was not notified until late in the evening, when the information was supplied indirectly.

Wise took carbolic acid in the night. A bottle similar to that containing the poison stood on the stand near his bed and contained a sleeping potion. It is thought that he may have taken the acid by mistake in the dark. Wise was 41 years old.
