lar import.

As soon as the news spread among those concerned in the case, there was a gathering of the prosecutors in District Attorney Cameron's office, and another of the attorneys for the defense in the office of Jay Bowerman. From each went forth a statement, the prosecution charging that the burglaries had been committed by agents for the defense, and the defense saying that it was a "frame-up" of the other side, with an evident intent to force the case to a change of venue. change of venue.

Defense Denies Implication.

While denying with great warmth any knowledge of the act, Attorneys Malarkey, Bowerman and Summer, actany knowledge of the act. Attorneys Malarkey, Bowerman and Sumner, acting for Wilde, announced that they would take no advantage that might offer through the abstraction of the documents but would consent to the admission of copies. They assert that nothing was taken that would have been interviews to them and noint to mothing was taken that would have been injurious to them and point to the crudeness of the work to show that it could have been only malicious.

The missing papers are two leaves torn from the loose-leaf ledger of the bank, said to have contained the personal account of Louis J. Wilde, and the account of the Union Telephone Construction Company, owner of the bends sold to the bank and now in last the case against Wilde; all the study of certificates of deposit, aggregating $500,000, representing the sum paid by the bank for the Omaha bends; letters from Wilde to W. Cooper Morris; communications from persons in the East, telling of Wilde's operations there and not admissible as evidence and two checks, paid by outsiders for blocks of the Tacoma bonds which Morris is alleged to have accepted in lieu of $40,000 of his profits on the sale of the Omaha bends to the bank.

More Records at Courtbouse.

More Records at Courthouse.

Nearly all the material evidence in the possession of the prosecution was at the Courthouse, having been taken there last week for presentation to the grand jury in the latest prosecution of Wilds and Morris for a similar transaction involving $12,500. It is pointed out by the defense that under an order from Judge Gatens they have access to every bit of documentary evidence which the prosecution intends to offer and that anything that has not been seen by them is automatically barred from presentation at the trial. Therefore they ask what possible motive could the defense have for a theft which would give them no advantage thing," said Deputy District Attorney which would give them no advantage and simply result in projudice against first to arrive at the District Attorney' first to arrive at the District Attorney office yesterday, putting in his appearance about 5 o'clock. He was followed in a few minutes by District Attorney Cameron, who went to his office, but did not observe that anything had been disturbed. Frazier entered with a letter and noticed the Oregon Trust ledger lying upen on the table. He invited Cameron's attention, and in a moment hoth men said that intruders had been for the office.

After thorough investigation of the premises they suspected that someone had clambered through the transem from the hall. From this it is inferred that there must have been two men, one to lift the other. After entering the outer door, the intruders went through the suite of offices and broke open desks used by Deputies Fitzgerald, Collier and Michelet. Nothing, so far as could be made out, was taken from these desks, but the contents were much disordered.

Intruders Use "Hmmy."

The search ended at a closet in the private room of Judge Cameron, where the few exhibits not at the Courthouse were deposited. The door of the closet was "limmled" in a crude manner. The ledger and certificate of deposit book were spread out on the District Attorney's desk. With them before him, the thief, with no index to guide him, turned to the accounts of Wilde and the construction company, and tore them out roughly, leaving ragged and the construction company, and tore them out roughly, leaving ragged edges in the file. He did likewise with the stubs of the certificates of deposit, and broke open a drawer in Mr. Campers mentioned. Then, leaving everything just as he finished, with the ledger open at the place where Wilde's account had been, he departed.

As soon as the facts were known, the District Attorney communicated with the Sheriff and Chief Slover. Slover arrived and took charge, but Sheriff

Ciark Also Reports Theft. Attorney Clark was callled at on ded to the sensation by reporting that his desk in the Yeon building had been broken open also. The desk, a handsome one, was marred slightly. A list of witnesses and scrawled memoranda were all the papers taken, but the thrifty robber also annexed a small revolver and half the contents of a box revolver and half the contents of a box of cigars.

The crimes were committed some time after 4 o'clock New Year's day, as at that hour District Attorney Cameron. Deputy Fittgerald and Attorney Clark were closeted in Cameron's office for a conference. Later, Clark went to his own office. No frace of suspicious persons had been noted in either building.

The defense sees nothing but a crude attempt of the other side to add to the public sentiment in the case against Wilde, and link the act with the charges made last week that the grand jury which indicted Wilde had been tampered with. Both sides denied belief that the principals of the adverse litigants were cognizant of the crime, and lay it to hired agents acting on their own Initiative.

"Lift Burden From Wage-Earner and Home Owner," Slogan of Office Seeker.

PLATFORM IS ANNOUNCED

Candidate for Nomination Pledges Self to Work for Uniform Taxation and Would Repeal General Property Impost.

"Lift the tax burden from the wage earner and the home-owner." is the slogan of Henry E. Reed, of $41 Mont-gomery, street, who formally an-nounced his candidacy for the Resub-lican nomination for Assessor yester-day. Mr. Reed's only opponent for this nomination at this time is the in-day. Mr. Reed's only opponent for this nomination at this time is the incumbent of the office, B. D. Sigler, who will be a candidate for re-election. However, the Workingmen's Political Club is endeavoring to induce C. M. Rynerson to become the candidate of organized labor on the Republican ticket for this office.

For some time W. J. Cuddy, a veteran newspaper man, has been urged by his friends to enter the race for the Assessorship, but hy has conclude not to be a candidate, having recently purchased a small farm in Washington County onto which he is moving.

"I have been considering becoming a candidate for Assessor on the urgent request of friends," said Mr. Cuddy yesterday. "I am sorry to disappoint my many friends who gave me a great deal of encouragement, but I have long wanted to get back to the soil. All I wanted the job for, anyway, was for the salary of $4500 a year, and that is all that is to be made out of it honestly. From the small ranch I have acquired I expect in a few years to be doing fully as well financially. In three years I will have at least 5000 hens laying eggs every day for me. With the possibilities of farming in Oregon, politics offer no attraction for With the possibilities of farming in Oregon, politics offer no attraction for

Platform is Announced.

In the declaration of his candidacy, filled with County Clerk Fields yestorday, Mr. Reed favors repeal of the general property tax, exemption of porsonal property and improvements, taxation of incomes, excepting incomes of persons who require all they carn for living expenses; taxation of speculators' lands as other lands are taxed, taxation of the uncarned increment in land, and economical business management in the Assessor's office.

Coincident with filling a declaration of his candidacy, Mr. Reed issued a platform in which the subject of taxation is exhaustively treated. In part Platform is Announced of his candidacy, and platform in which the subject of taxation is exhaustively treated. In part Mr. Reed's platform follows:

I favor such constitutional and statistry exactments as will give Oregon a stable and uniform system of assessment, which system shall have as its essential features equality of issuation, certainty of levy, convenience of payment and economy of administration. I favor, as part of such asystem, the repeal of the present general property jax and the exclusion from primary taxation of all improvements upon land, and the further exclusion from perimary taxation of all and every kind of personal property, including accounts, bilis, notes, bonds, capital stock, mortgages, bank deposits, merchandise and stock in trads, livestock, steambeats, money, furniture, machinery and implements.

I favor taxation of incomes graduated in such degree that it will fall heaviest upon those enjoying the greatest share of this National industry, and lightest upon those of moderate means. In order that the tax should not fall upon earnings from wages of those who require all they earn for the expenses of living, there should be an exemption as to unmarried persons of $1000 of income a year, and as to married persons of $100 as year. The married should have an additional exemption of $200 of income a year for each dependent child under the age of 15 years not engaged in a gainful occupation. Incomes derived from the ownership, use or cultivation of land subject to the land tax should likewise be exempled from the income tax.

The unimproved lands belonging to a non-resident owner should be taxed higher than the unimproved lands of a resident owner. The non-resident owner of unimproved lands is, as a rule, a speniator, pure and simple, who buys and holds for a rise.

I favor amendment of the law of 1507 relating to the sais of property for delinquent taxes, so that the exorbitant interest new collected from delinquents shall be reduced to a reasonable charge. Light Income Tax Pavored.

Single Tax Opposed. Single Tax Opposed.

I am opposed to the so-called single tax system of taxation which seeks to shift upon the land all the cost of government. It means confiscation, for the land alone cannot bear all the expenses of government. If the single tax theory should be adopted in Oregon it would seriously impair, if not destroy, municipal and private credit based upon land. Land is already burdened with more than its just share of taxation. Setween 1993 and 1910, acres and city loss paid an ammais average of 50.6 per cent of all the taxes of Oregon and 85.5 per cent of all the taxes of Mulmomah County, Bare land, if justly and equitably assessed, should not pay over 50 per cent of the taxes.

Rare land, if justly and equitably assessed, should not pay over 50 per cent of the axes.

The office of County Assessor should be conducted for the benefit of the public, and the acts of the Assessor should have the fullest publicity. If elected, I will so conduct the office, Taxation, in whatever form imposed, is taking the people's money from them, and the people have the right to know in what manner the Assessor is proceeding to determine the assessments, which is the first step toward taxation.

If elected County Assessor, I will give the office my personal attention and direction at all times. It will be my endeavor to derive from all the agencies employed the greatest amount of money for the smallest amount of money for the smallest amount of money for the current year of 1911, the expenses of the Assessor's office have increased 17 per cent, compared with the expenses for the year 1903.

In my judgment, there is no justification whatever for so large an increase in the expenses of the Assessor's office in the past nine years, nor would so large an increase he necessary under judicinus business management of the satisfies of the office. In the same period of nine years, the expenses of the Cosnity Clerk's office have increased only do per cent, the legal department of the Sheriff's office 152 per cent, and the tax collecting department is largely due to an extraordinary expense for advertising made becausery by act of the Legislature of 1911. Without this extraordinary advertising the expenses of the tax collecting department of the tax persons of the tax collecting department of the control per cent The lorgers in the tax collecting department of the Legislature of 1911. Without this extraordinary advertising department have increased only 107 per cent since 1903.

The contract for the construction of the temporary jail called for the payment by the county of $23,400. The cells will be moved into the west wing when it is completed. The County Commissioners say that the defects in construction which permitted the prisoners to break out of their cells and open one of the two doors leading to the room outside the cells was only temporary and can be adjusted without difficulty. They do not propose to refuse acceptance of the work on that score.

The County Commissioners also held a conference with Oscar E. Heintz, proprietor of the Pacific Iron Works, who put up the steel work for the east wing of the Courthouse. Architect Whidden estimates that he was 365 days behind with his contract which, at a penalty of $50 a day, would make him liable to pay $15,350. Mr. Heints pleads that he agreed to finish the work in brief time and did not learn until after the contract was signed that the condition of the steel industry was such that he could not get his material as rapidly as he expected. He told the County Court that no contractor could have done better.

"We do not propose to exact blood and to get his descriptions of the steel industry was such that he could not get his material as rapidly as he expected. He told the County Court that no contractor could have done better.

"We do not propose to exact blood and get his get ludge Cleeton." but will The County Commissioners also held "We do not propose to exact blood money," said Judge Cleeton, "but will insist on the penalties only in cases where the county has been actually damaged by reasons of delay."

The attempt of the city to furnish work at reduced wages to the unemployed assumed a serious aspect yesterday, when more than 500 men appeared at the office of Park Superintendent Mische in the City Hall and applied for work on the Mount Tabor boulevard being built by day labor under an appropriation of $10,000.

As early as 6 o'clock yesterday morning the line of laborers began to form in the corridor of the City Hall and by 8 o'clock, when the office was opened, the line extended through the corridor a distance of about 100 feet. The scepe in the City Hall corridors was pitiful. Men bent and gray with age stood in line with husky laborers of all classes and with boys apparently no more than 18 or 20 years of age. There was the typical hobo and the tramp. Then there were well-dressed men who did not look like they belonged in a line of destitute laborers. There were mechanics of simost every class.

Many as they stood in line complained of having no money and being plungry. Several declared they had had nothing to eat since Sunday.
