FISHERMEN WIN SAND ISLAND WAR

Judge Decrees Dozen May Renew Occupations and Shall Be Recompensed.

Controversy Which Has Been Pending in Court for Past Five Years, Settled-Master in Chancery Appointed by Judge.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 17 .- (Special.) -Federal Judge George Donworth handed down an oral decision today permitting several dozen fishermen to renew their occupations along the shores of Sand Island at the mouth sheres of Sand Island at the mouth of the Columbia River, thus settling a controversy that has been in the Federal Courts for five years.

The court appointed Attorney Maurice Langhorne, of this city, as special Master in Chancery to hear evidence and decide the damages due these fishermen because of their inability to use their fishing territory at any time during the five years the suit has been pending. The decision is said by attorneys to be the most important handed down in the Federal Court in many months.

The suit was begun in 1968, when the Columbia River Packers' Association obtained an injunction against the fishermen and owners of fishing sites on Sand Island. H. S. McGowan, of McGowan, Wash, was one of the principal defendants. Immediately after the injunction was granted the association made personal use of the fishing grounds. The Federal Government then resurveyed the mouth of the Columbia, which is continually changing in geographic lines, and placed Sand Island in the State of Oregon tastead of Washington. When Judge Donworth was appointed the case was handed to him and he has had it ever since.

FIELD SECRETARY SPEAKS

Miss Bertha Fowler Recounts Progress of Missionary Society.

Miss Berths Fowler, of Philadelphia, field secretary of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, gave an address at a meeting of members of the Fortland conference yesterday afternoon in the Taylor-street Methodist Church.

Miss Fowler reviewed the history of the society in the 30 years since it was organized and the constant increase in its membership. There are, she said, 178,000 names on the membership roll. The receipts, as shown by the treasurer's report, amounted to more than $700,000. The society owns property which is valued at $1,000,000.

Miss Fowler dwelt on women's work in the church, declaring that it af-forded all the opportunities for growth culture and character. In referring the work of the auxiliaries, Miss Fowler said:

"In the beginning, your work should start with the family. You must begin in a small way, of course. An important task is that of providing means to interest young girls and boys after the period of childhood has Social life begins then. ır passed. Social life begins then. If you want to keep your young people together you must offer them some attraction to offset the harmful influences that appear at that age. Miss Fowler delivered a second address at Centenary Methodist Church last night. She will leave for California tonight, where she is to attend a home

NATIVE LOGS TO BE USED

Structure to Rise in Glacier National Park Which Attracts Thousands of Tourists-Great Travel Is Predicted.

A reproduction of Portland's famed forestry building, which attracts thousands of admiring visitors yearly, will be made within the next few months in Glacier National Park.

Howard A. Noble, of St. Paul, general passenger agent of the Great Northern Railway, was in Portland yesterday to arrange with Portland officials for the arrange with Portland officials for the loan of the plans used in erecting the structure on the Lewis and Clark fair grounds. His visit was the result of negotiations previously conducted between Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, and William Harder, general agent in Portland for the same road. It is Mr. Hill's idea to reproduce the forestry building in exact detail and on his recent visit to Portland he nessed several hours in making an in-

The Great Northern road will pay the expense of the structure. Permission has been obtained from the Government to use native logs growing in the park. In addition to this building 38 other permanent buildings are to be erected in the park. All are to be of the Swiss chalet type.

1800 Visit Park in Year. "We are making efforts to attract Eastern people to the park," said Mr. Noble. "Every visitor is sure to come to Portland, as the difference in the price of the railroad tickets to the two places is so slight that a traveler cannot afferd to stay away from the Charles

Last year 1800 persons visited the park. All went through to Portland and other cities in the Northwest. We expect more than twice that many this year.

'The movement of all classes of travel to the Coast will be exceedingly heavy this year. Our inquiries for col-onist rates already are in excess of those we received last year. The col-onist movement this Spring will break all records. Central Oregon will be the Mecca for hundreds of homeseckers. The movement to Central Oregon last Spring and last Fall was necessaril somewhat limited, as the railroads ha somewhat limited, as the railroads had not yet penetrated to the heart of that section. Now that we are able to transport travelers as far south as Bend, from which point it is easy to travel in any direction, we expect to take hundreds into the state's interior in carload parties. load parties. , Great Travel Predicted. "Tourist trayel to Oregon will be beavier this year than ever before. This is due to the prominence given to the Rose Festival and to the Elks' convention. The Rose Festival now is re-garded by Easterners as a great Na-tional event, and it will attract more attention from year to year throughout the East. We have arranged for two or three special-train parties to the Elks' meeting. The movement will be exceedingly heavy. The St. Paul Elks will travel over the Great Northern in will travel over the Great Northern in a solid train of sleeping-cars and will carry about 200. We will have other special trains from various points in North Dakota and South Dakota, as well as from Western Montana. The Elks are strong in those sections, and all are talking of coming to Portland.
