

WARD CURES SCANNED BY COURT

Prosecutor in Opening Address Tells of Death of Rich Spinsters by Starvation.

MONEY PROVISION CITED

Attempt to Throw Out Testimony of Sister of Patient Who Died Will Be Blow to State if It Meets Success.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 18.—The jury to try Mrs. Linda Burfield Hazard, the "starvation doctor," accused in the Kitsap County Superior Court at Port Orchard of murdering Miss Claire Williamson, a wealthy English spinster, was completed today and two witnesses for the state were examined.

Court adjourned early to hear arguments on a motion by the defense to exclude the testimony of Miss Dorothea Williamson, sister of the woman alleged to have been starved to death, concerning her personal experiences while under Mrs. Hazard's care.

Miss Williamson is expected to be the star witness for the prosecution and the exclusion of her testimony will be a severe blow to the state, Judge Yaker will announce his decision tomorrow.

History of Case Related. The opening statement of the prosecution was made by Special Prosecutor Frank H. Kelly, of Tacoma. He reviewed the life of the Williamson sisters, telling a story of the habits of taking up with strange cures and how they went to Mrs. Hazard for treatment in February of last year.

On May 19 Claire died, having been starved to skin and bone. No notification was sent to the relatives, but a family nurse in Australia, hearing of the death of Claire, hurried to Olalla, where Mrs. Hazard was residing, and found Dorothea, a living skeleton.

Mrs. Hazard said Dorothea was insane and had already applied for appointment as guardian of the administration of Claire's estate.

Portland Man Called. The two witnesses called today by the state were Dr. Silas Van Deerlin, pastor of Christ Church, Los Angeles, and an old friend of the Williamson family, and John Herbert, of Portland, a maternal uncle of the sisters. Both witnesses testified to the good health of Claire and Dorothea when they visited in Los Angeles and Portland prior to going to Seattle to undergo Mrs. Hazard's treatment.

The court ordered all witnesses, of whom there are more than 30, excluded from the courtroom, but made an exception of Samuel G. Hazard, husband of the defendant and a West Point graduate, who has been summoned by the state and who will be permitted to sit at his wife's side during the trial.

Jurors Married Men. All of the jurors are married men and many of them expressed an opinion against inflicting the death penalty, but said that nevertheless they would be able to give the defendant the law and the evidence.

The jurors are E. M. Kell, Navy-Yard employee; A. H. Duncombe, merchant; H. O. Messford, rancher; M. Miller, grocer; W. Shiner, Navy-Yard machinist; A. J. Beach, teamster; F. T. Ryan, Navy-Yard clerk; R. L. Montgomery, farmer; G. A. King, machinist; A. C. Comment, Navy-Yard employee; S. A. Macomber, Navy-Yard employee; Jerry A. Horn, rancher.

PRIZES OFFERED ON HOGS

School Children of State Will Be Invited to Compete.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—The livestock association of Portland has agreed, under the new plan of Superintendent Alderman, to submit prizes for the best hogs raised in the state by school children, for the purpose of promoting interest in the hog-raising industry.

Superintendent Alderman estimates that even if but five hogs were raised in a district under this plan, it would mean an addition of 12,500 excellent classes animals. The cream of these will be exhibited at the State Fair.

John H. Albert, of this city, also announced today that he will offer cash prizes for gardening in Salem, the prizes to be awarded for the best year-around gardens produced by school children of the city.

PACIFIC "U" BARS DANCES. Despite Student Petition Favoring Faculty Rules Against Hops.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY, Forest Grove, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—After an agitation of several months it was decided last night at a meeting of the faculty that there should be no dancing at Pacific University. Dancing has never been allowed in the institution and President Ferrin announced in chapel this morning that the past policy would be continued.

About two months ago a petition was circulated among the students with the purpose of introducing dancing as one of the social events of college life. No sooner had this petition been presented to the faculty before a counter-petition was circulated expressing opposition. The president announced that 53 per cent of the student body signed the first petition in favor

SNOWBOUND MINER ALIVE

Thomas White Escapes Death After Two Weeks in Mountains.

ALBANY, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—After being alone in the mountains for more than two weeks, almost cut off from civilization by deep snow, Thomas White, a miner, has come out alive and well, searching parties have been looking for him for more than a week and he had been given up for dead.

White left Gates December 23 for the Quartzville mining district, where he expected to meet his employers, Churchill & Upton, of Portland. When about half way he was so exhausted with traveling through the deep snow that he took refuge in a miner's cabin to wait until his employers passed there coming out. Here he waited for several days and then resumed his journey. It required him five days to cover about ten miles into Quartzville.

Thinking, because White did not arrive, that he had abandoned the trip, Churchill and Upton came before White reached Quartzville. When they found he had started almost two weeks before

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Jan. 18.—(Special.)—In choosing the cast for the senior play production of Oliver Goldsmith's "The Stoops to Conquer," the faculty committee has decided upon Earl C. Latourrette, of Oregon City, to act the part of Young Marlowe, and upon Miss Mildred E. Bagley, of Salem, to impersonate Kate Hardcastle, the other leading character.

The remaining important parts will be taken by Sidney E. Henderson, of Portland; Rex Turner, of Salem; John W. Shattuck, of Gresham; Roland C. Kennedy, of Portland; Matthew M. Statny, of Jefferson; William G. Dunlap, of Portland; Miss Emma Waterman, of Baker; Miss Jean K. Allison, of Portland; and Miss Rubie Hammerstrom, of Astoria. The play will be staged at the Eugene Theater some time early in April, just prior to the annual Spring vacation.

they decided he was lost and sent out searching parties. White also came out by the southern route, which is longer but more easy to travel now, and reached Lebanon last night, coming here today. Here he met his brother, Edward White, and brother-in-law, William Miller, both of Lebanon, B. C., who had come to join in the search.

One searching party which left Gates is still in the mountains, and a messenger left there today to try and find them.

LONE DOG KILLS WILDCAT

Sheridan Rancher's Hound Performs Unprecedented Feat.

SHERIDAN, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—"Funch," the 4-year-old hound dog owned by F. J. Steward, a Sheridan rancher, established an unprecedented feat this week when he whipped a full-grown wildcat in a battle royal, which lasted the utmost strength and nerve of both animals. H. C. R. Akin, who is the owner of the Hiandahl Heights ranch in the Hylands, which is managed by Steward, while walking across his ranch, was accompanied by the hound and another dog, when the hound dog took up a trail which he discovered in the light fall of snow.

The trail finally led up to an old burned fir snag, where the hound dog and another dog were high and with the dog, Akin found that the latter had tamed a wildcat. Akin was unarmed but finally managed to get the fierce animal where the dog could get at him. The wildcat and dog "mixed" immediately and the battle that followed was the fiercest imaginable. Both wildcat and dog were high and exhausted when the dog, revived by another spurt of strength, obtained a hold on the cat which finished the latter after a few minutes additional struggle.

ROSEBURG, Or., Jan. 18.—(Special.)—Alleging that indictments were created by the grand jury, and must stand or fall in their entirety as they come from that body, Judge Calkins, of Medford, yesterday denied the motion of Attorney Jackson, who asked that certain portions of the indictment returned against Jesse O. Drake be stricken.

Drake is accused of criminal libel in connection with writing and causing to be published an article, in which he is alleged to have rebuked Judge J. W. Hamilton, District Attorney, and George M. Brown, Judge John S. Coke, Justice of the Peace, and Sheriff Quinn and numerous other county and district officials. The indictment was written following the trial of Roy McClallen, who was acquitted on a charge of murdering Ben Mahan.

EGGS TO BE DISPLAYED

O. A. C. TO SHOW BEST WAY OF KEEPING HENS.

Cold Storage and Fresh Product to Be Compared by Giving Them Cooked to Visitors.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 18.—What promises to be one of the most unique and interesting features of farmers' week, which starts on February 5 at the Oregon Agricultural College is the special egg show. Poultry shows are held throughout the country in large numbers every year, but the egg shows, although seemingly of more importance, are uncommon.

The egg show will be held on February 9 in the new stock judging pavilion, but special lectures will be given on the subject several times a day during the whole of the farmers' week.

Eggs of every size and age will be exhibited and the visitors to the show will be personally introduced to all the intricacies and changes between the absolutely fresh, the strictly fresh and the fresh eggs, unshipped, tumbled, moss-covered, insect-infested henhouses will be contrasted with the up to date though cheap plant, with the clean yards and, with the abundance of fresh water and the methods of feeding. The output of these two plants or in other words the egg production, will be exhibited.

The difference between the cold storage eggs and fresh eggs will be demonstrated. Eggs of both varieties will be cooked in the presence of the spectator, who afterwards, will be allowed to sample both eggs and thus find out personally what the difference really amounts to.

Demonstrators will attempt to show the advantage of clean eggs, sorting both as to size and to color, and scientific methods of packing.

OREGON'S CHANCES GOOD

Hawley Urges Big Appropriations for Western Waterways Projects.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 18.—Representative Hawley today appeared before the House rivers and harbors committee and made an hour's argument in favor of liberal appropriations for commercial waterways in Western Oregon. While the committee held out no promises, Mr. Hawley received unofficial assurance that if the river and harbor bill is reported, all amounts recommended by the chief of engineers for projects now under construction would be incorporated, and this will go to the good of the Columbia River projects not in Mr. Hawley's district, as well as to those along the Coast.

The aggregate amount of appropriations that will be allowed for new projects has not been determined, but in view of Hawley's showing that location in Oregon is pledged to raise $1,700,000 to aid in defraying the cost of various proposed improvements which have been approved by the engineers, members of the committee are expected to give preferential recognition.

Oregon, in this respect, has taken a possible advance of most other states, and the committee is disposed to aid these communities which are interested to the extent of contributing materially to the cost of improvements.

Our January Sales give the same chance of economical buying in the boys' department as in our men's stock. Parents will surely profit largely in outfitting the boys at this store.
