Mrs. Joseph Yonkers Sees Coos Bay Wreck Through Spyglass. Gives Alarm.

SIX ARE LOST OFF LAUNCH

Unidentified Man Added to List of Dead --- Son Witnesses Death of Father From Rowboat-Three Victims Leave Families.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Jan. 21 .- (Special.)-From her own home Mrs. Joseph Yonkers viewed through & field glass the wrecking of the gasoline launch North Star No. 1, of which line launch North Star No. 1, of which her husband was the captain. She was the first to give the slarm of danger and witnessed the passing of the little hoat out on the bar, where the lives of six men, including her husband, were lost. It was reported first that only five went down in the wreck. It is supposed that the engine of the boat broke down. broke down.

broke down. Mrs. Yonkors was waiting for the return of her husband to his home on South Slough when she saw, through the glasses, that the boat had passed the mouth of the slough. Then she realized the fate of the boat and the men aboard and at once called for help. She appealed to N. J. Bingham, mana-ger of the excelsior factory on South Slough Bingham at once shut down his mill and called for volunteers and in a few moments started in the launch in a few moments started in the launch pirate with his mill crew to reach the bar.

Researce Ter in Vain.

The efforts of Bingham and his erew, however, were fruitiess. The fil-fated launch was in some trouble and an anchor was seen to be dropped, but it did not hold and stern-first, the it did not hold and stern-first, the little craft was carried out by the strong lide and struck the submerged jetty. The men aboard probably were jetty. The man aboard probably were killed at once. The cabin of the boat was carried away and the hull was in a short time thrown on the jetty to be bat-tered into splinters. Although Bing-ham made a quick trip to the bar he was too late. The wreck of the launch and the resulting death of those shoard happened in a moment. The accident was witnessed from the life-saving station and the life-saving life-saving station and the life-saving craw was called out, but owing to the distance of the station to the bar it was impossible for the craw to get there in time.

Bridge Tender Drowned.

One of the victims was Ira Albee, tender of the South-Slough bridge, and also tender of the Government channel lights. His son, Wyman Albee, was in a rowboat lighting the channel lamps when the accident happened and wit-nessed the death of his father, while he was uiterly helpless to give any as-slatance. Wyman Albee says all the witchins jumped overboard just before the launch capsized.

Those lost in the wreck were: Joe Yonkers, the captain; William Brain-ard, Frank Tanner, Ira Albee, Thomas Farrier and a stranger, who is be-lieved to have been J. H. Rodgers, who had been working at a logging camp. He was on his way to Smith Powers' camp on South Slough. Captain Yonkers leaves a family and Brainard leaves a wife and four chilof McMinnville College showed the at-tendance in the Fall term to have reached 179, as against 157 for the same term one year ago, the increase being in the preparatory and college departments rather than in the com-mercial and conservatory. There was strong encouragement in President Riley's report of his trip East. The board of education of the Northern Baptist convention is now fully organ-ized and hope is held out that this board will soon be an effective agency in the development of such Eaptist in-stitutions as McMinnville Colleges. President Riley was elected recording secretary of this board, and at his sug-gestion it was voted to hold an educa-tional conference in Des Moines, ia, on May 14, the day next preceding the May 14, the day next preceding the opening of the Northern Baptist con-vention. The college problem will be the special subject considered at this gathering. Real encouragement was found in the financial reports. It was pointed out that MoMinnville College has never yet in over half a century found it peces-sary to close its doors; that its trus-tees had never made other use of its permanent funds than that for which it was designed and that no teacher had it was designed and that no teacher had ever failed to receive every dollar of salary due him. The budget of ex-penses for the present year was esti-mated at $22,355.02, and the treasurer's report showed receipts for the six months amounting to $11.484.09. The total liabilities of the college were shown to be $1439.42 less on December $1 than on May $1 last.

A campaign for $250,000 will be con-ducted by the trustees beginning Sep-tember 1, 1913. It was the board's pleasure to receive an addition to the permanent funds of an annuity of $1000, which brings the total to $60,000. Similar gifts are in prospect was very slow and expensive. When Mr. Olcott took charge of the Secretary's office in April, 1811, it was estimated that the services of two ex-pert stenographers would be required for at least two years to bring the re-cording work, up to date. The Secre-tary of State then hit upon the plan of photographing the records. A cam-era was procured and the work has since been moving along rapidly. It is estimated that the work will be brought down to date within four months of the time the machine was installed. installed.

The addressing machine will save the state from $1000 to $1300 in the mailing of the initiative and candi-dates' pamphlets for the 1912 primary and general elections.

FACTIONS IMPEDE IDAHO LEGISLATURE

Special Session Aim Is Stayed and Revenue Measures Still Hang Fire.

TAX BOARD IS OBSTACLE

Morgan-Day-Macbeth Wing Meets Sharp Rebuke of Governor and Preliminary Skirmishes Give Hawley Slight Advantage.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 21 .- (Special.)-Although the 11th Idaho Legislature has been in extra session in Bolse one week and the Senate and the House have been organized on a working basis, with Lieutenant-Governor Sweetser presiding over the former and Speaker Storey over the latter, little has been accomplished in reaching a decision as to what revenue legislation should be passed to relieve the taxburdened electors of the state, and no measures have met with favor in both Houses.

The extra session, so far, has devel-oped that the members of the two Houses recognize that at least relief legislation should be passed and that where support was looked for behind Governor James H. Hawley's revenue measures, or within the rank and file of the Democratic members of both Houses, it is missing among many. Tax Commission Urged.

Governor Hawley presented the legislature with his special message ask-ing for the passage of 28 bills creating new revenue laws and five constitution-al amendments to make many of them al amendments to make many of them effective. This legislation was drafted by a special commission appointed by the Governdr and composed of Frank Martin, ex-Attorney-General and John F. MacLane, ex-dean of law at the Uni-versity of Idaho. The most important of all the special revenue legislation drafted by the commission calls for the creation of a tax commission, com-posed of three members, paid $3000 posed of three members, paid each per annum, who are given com-plete jurisdiction over the equalization of taxes all over the state.

It is the tax commission measure that has created such unexpected op-position. The Republicans declare that it gives too much power to three men and if it is passed it will work a great hardship. Not all of the Republican members of the Legislature, however, feel that way.

Democratic Support Split.

The Democrats are divided in their support of the bill. The insurgents are opposed to the passage of any of the important legislation recommended by their party. They are under the lead-ership of Representative Morgan of Latah County. The other half of the Democratic wing insists that the mem-bers of the minority party stand by the Governor in his demand for the passage of the revenue bills and so far they

It has been decided in a caucus of the Democrats that all but five of the 97 amendments introduced by Repre-sentative Morgan to kill off the reve-nue tax commission bill should be dis-When When Governor Hawley was in-formed of the plans that had been made by the Morgan-Day-Macbeth combina-tion to block his proposed legislation, he summoned the three Democrats into his executive chamber.

be three elected. The school superin-tendency, too, has several candidates, and there promises to be a hard fight on County Commissioner, although but two candidates have appeared. Demo-crats appear listless, as far as county affairs are concerned, but are taking a lively interest in National politics. The fact that there is such a warm contest for the Presidential nomination among the Democrats, with a likelihood of a close contest for the Senatorial among the Democrats, with a facilitation of a close contest for the Senatorial approval, makes for an unusually large registration of Democrats. Freed of fear of Democratic influ-ence in their primaries, Republicans are inclined to leave entirely to the primaries the selection of the candi-deter. There has been no formal dedates.
