

JUDGE DONWORTH TO STAY ON BENCH

Friends, Fearing Effect of Appointment of Humphrey, Induce Him to Act.

RESIGNATION TAKEN BACK

President Makes Up Mind to Give Seattle Man Federal Judgeship but is Told He Will Lose State if He Does So.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 22.—Announcement was made at the White House today that Judge Donworth, of Seattle, had withdrawn his resignation and in view of that fact there would be no action on the pending indorsements of Representative Humphrey and Elmer M. Hayden, of Tacoma, leading candidates for this appointment.

Behind this withdrawal of Donworth lies an interesting political story. President Taft, as announced in the dispatches two days ago, had decided to appoint Humphrey, notwithstanding the adverse recommendation of Attorney-General Wickersham and a flood of telegraphic protest that have come from all parts of Washington. Senator Jones was standing by Humphrey. Friends of the President in the State of Washington, however, informed him that Humphrey's appointment at this time would be a serious political blunder, and might cost him the Washington delegation at the next National convention. He was advised to withhold the appointment at least until after the primaries were held.

Notwithstanding this advice, the President was prepared to go ahead and name Humphrey, when friends who had been in correspondence with the White House appealed to Donworth to withdraw his resignation and continue on the bench, at least until after the primaries.

DONWORTH IS NONCOMMITTAL

Reasons for Withdrawing Resignation Are Not Told.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Relative to the reasons for withdrawal of his resignation, all Judge Donworth would say was the following, which he wrote out:

All I can say is that there has been some correspondence between the Attorney-General and myself on the subject of a reconsideration of my resignation.

When asked whether the fact that President Taft had personally informed the Washington Congressman that reconsideration would put a new phase on the matter, Judge Donworth would only say:

"None, so far as I can see."

LA FOLLETTE FOR RECALL

(Continued From First Page.)—since different from any I have addressed before. I am admonished that for the most part this audience—

The speaker was interrupted by a voice:

"This audience means business."

"Too mean business," the Senator said. "That's why I am regarded as a dangerous man. I believe that, contrary to some rumors I have heard, the men and women of New York do care for this republic; are interested in its welfare."

"Our fathers provided that each state should send representatives to Congress (their Senators) not to represent the steel trust, or the money trust, or Standard Oil, but all the people of the state."

"I would not fear corruption if it fought boldly and in the open. I fear it because it fights under cover and behind locked doors."

Great applause interrupted the speaker here and he said: "Why, you New Yorkers are no different from us Wisconsin folk."

When Mr. La Follette mentioned the recall as a "progressive" doctrine a voice from the gallery shouted:

"Would you recall a Judge?"

"Recall of Judiciary Favored." "I answered to have that question asked," said the Senator. "You would not have asked that question if you knew me. You would know that I would speak of it before I left the stage. Hence I came to New York tonight prepared to say that I favor the recall of the judiciary."

Applause greeted this utterance. "Now, I am going to disappoint you," said the Senator. "I favor the recall of the judiciary, but with restrictions and reservations, with which I would not surround the recall of legislators or executives."

"I do not defy the bench. I do not feel that its inspiration always is divine. When the court forgets its function is to construe the law as it is written by the Legislature and usurps the functions of the Legislature by writing words into that law, I believe there is justification on that score alone for the recall of the judiciary."

Supreme Court Attacked. "I will not try to tell my meaning. I mean the Supreme Court of these United States. When members of that court wrote into the Sherman anti-trust law the very words which Congress had refused to write into that law, they went outside their function."

Someone called out: "Where do you stand on the female suffrage question?"

"I believe in democracy," shouted the Senator. "I believe that the women of a community have the same right to express political judgment on the questions which affect their homes, their lives, the society in which they move and the conditions under which they live as I have. Why, gentlemen, has passed the stage of argument. We could not stop it if we wanted to, and I tell you you will be ashamed of yourselves in a few years if you do try to stop it now."

Senator La Follette has not commented thus far on the candidacy of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, another Progressive.

SCENES ON RAILROAD WHICH RUNS OUT TO COAST.

RAILWAY SPANS SEA

Road Linking Mainland and Key West Opens.

ENGINEERING FEAT HARD

For Miles Rails Are Supported by Steel or Masonry—Warships at Ceremony—Line One of Costliest Ever Built.

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 22.—The railroad which "steps across seas" was opened today when a passenger train steamed from Knights Key, on the Florida mainland, to Key West, 45 miles away.

The road, which is a branch of the Florida East Coast Railway, is constructed across the line of coral keys between Key West and the mainland. For great distances between keys the rails are supported by stretches of steel and masonry.

Warships from Portugal and Cuba and vessels of the American Atlantic fleet are here for the ceremonies. Assistant Secretary of War Oliver, who represents President Taft, and members of the House Naval affairs committee arrived today to take part in the three days' celebration.

One of the foremost figures among those here is Henry Flagler, of New York, president of the railroad. The first train on this lap was run January 22, 1909. Four more years of strenuous labor, made more difficult and delayed by storm wrecks, were required to complete the road to Key West, a distance of only 45 miles from Knights Key.

The over-sea road is one of the costliest railroads ever constructed. It steps from key to key, far out into the Gulf, at some points being out of sight of land. Between the keys are long stretches of concrete viaducts, steel and drawbridges.

Work on the extension was begun from Homestead in 1904. The first train on this lap was run January 22, 1909. Four more years of strenuous labor, made more difficult and delayed by storm wrecks, were required to complete the road to Key West, a distance of only 45 miles from Knights Key.

The first through train from New York for Key West passed through Jacksonville yesterday morning with a large passenger list. The train left Key West this morning, followed by the Congressional special and excursion trains.

EYES TERRORIZE PATIENT

said Claire was anxious to see Margaret Conway, the Australian nurse, and had telegraphed for her.

The dentist introduced a letter to Miss Conway written by Claire May 2, which said that the sisters were improving and were happy at Ollalia. Miss Williamson said she had not seen the letter before, as Mrs. Hazard would not let her see any letters or talk to Claire about the letters that Claire had written. The letter to Miss Conway contained the following sentence:

"It may take months to get her (Dorothea's) brain right, which, you know, has been so weak for years."

A letter addressed to Watson Webb, a friend of Mrs. Hazard's, and written by Claire, was also introduced by the defense to show that the sisters were happy at Ollalia and improving. This letter, dated at Ollalia April 30, said:

"I am improving rapidly, and it would be hard not to do so amongst such wonderful love and care as one is surrounded by here! It fills my whole being with health. My sister has improved also, but today her head has been weak again. However, I am deeply thankful on her account, too, as Dr. Hazard says this fast will quite clear her mind."

"We are both fascinated with this really beautiful country and get her look forward to our cabins later on. The weather here is perfect, so we are out for hours. No words can express Dr. and Mr. Hazard's kindness and thoughtfulness in every detail. It certainly is a great privilege to know them."

Mr. Hazard Declared Evasive. Miss Williamson said that Mr. Hazard first mentioned the subject of drawing the money from the Victoria bank and that it was at his suggestion that she made out the power of attorney to him. She said that when Mr. Hazard returned from British Columbia and she tried to question him about his transactions there he evaded her.

Miss Williamson said that some time after they were taken to Ollalia she was given a variety of vegetables, chicken broth and some toast, but her stomach was so weak that the food made her worse and she had to go back to the vegetable broth.

Miss Williamson said that when she was taken from Ollalia to Tacoma in July she weighed 61 pounds, fully dressed. Her normal weight was 108 pounds. She said that in May she could not have weighed more than 48 pounds, but that when Margaret Conway came from Australia she was given more nourishment and her condition improved.

California Letters Shows.

The defense introduced 13 letters that passed between Claire Williamson and Mrs. Hazard while the Williamson sisters were kept at Ollalia, Cal. This correspondence concerned the arrangements for the sisters to take treatment under Mrs. Hazard. While the sisters were in California they took mud baths and tried other "nature cures."

In explaining the glowing letters telling of returning health, written by Claire while she was at Ollalia, Miss Williamson said she knew her sister was so weak that she did things under Mrs. Hazard's direction she would not have done herself. She said that after they became weakened they were unable to resist Mrs. Hazard.

Asked by the defense why she did not tell her uncle, John Herbert, of Portland, Or., where they were going when they passed through there on their way to Seattle to take treatments from Mrs. Hazard, Miss Williamson said they knew Mr. Herbert did not approve of such fads and didn't want to arouse his opposition.

Witness said that while they were taking the treatment in Seattle their nurse feared they would die, and called in a physician, but he did not prescribe for them.

Last Message Puzzles. After Claire's death Dorothea asked Mrs. Hazard if Claire had left any message for her. Mrs. Hazard replying in the affirmative, Dorothea asked her to write the message, and Mrs. Hazard nervously indited the following:

"My last wish: My things go to my cabin for life, and an exact list shall be taken and kept by Dr. Hazard. My clothes shall go to Dr. Hazard to do with as she wishes. A jewel shall be given to Nellie (meaning Miss Sherman, a nurse) for her great kindness to me, one to Miss Robinson (a nurse) and my diamonds shall go to Dr. Hazard. The diamond that Claire gave to me, Mr. Herbert, should go to Dorothea if she is alive. If not, to May Geraldine Souper."

It was not explained who the Souper woman was.

The puzzling sentence in "my last wishes" in which Mrs. Hazard wrote: "The diamond that Claire gave to me at death to Dorothea if she is alive," is believed to have been written in error. It is construed to mean that a diamond given by Claire to Mrs. Hazard should revert to Dorothea when Claire died, but in her nervousness Mrs. Hazard wrote the sentence in the first person instead of the third.

The sentence regarding the cabin refers to one being built for Claire and is taken to mean that Claire's personal effects were to be used in furnishing this cabin for the benefit of other patients of Mrs. Hazard. The cross-examination will be continued tomorrow.

ADVERTISING A MEAT MARKET

WERTISE IT, and he proceeded to do so. "SHEEP COPY RUNS REGULARLY, and averages about ten inches across two columns. On the left of the ad is a running story, headed 'HYPERBOLIC GOSSIP.' Little detail about the business—the P.E. CAUTIONS he takes to keep his store clean and sanitary, etc. "The balance of the space is devoted to a list of the things he wants to sell to his neighbors and the prices at which he can afford to sell them. "There are no frills about the advertising—it is P.L.A.N. EVERY-

DAY COMMON-SENSE TALKERS OF TROY. Mr. Smith quotes prices, but he does not say the food stuffs he sells are WORTH MORE than he asks for them. The result is he is doing a splendid business, and in communities all over the United States who think that their special line of business cannot be benefited by advertising would do well to follow Mr. Smith's example. They would find it PROFITABLE to do so. "I shall be glad to talk to some non-advertiser about increasing his business through advertising. Office Hours: 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Sundays, 9 to 1. ### MAYOR LOSES FIGHT

Salem Council Votes to Put Up Saloon Licenses.

VETO'S DEATH IS CHEERED

Crowd in Council Chambers Shows Approval When Ordinance Turned Down by Lachmund Is Passed Without Dissent.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—In the midst of a pandemonium never before heard in a Council chamber here, the City Council tonight, without a dissenting vote and with all members present, overruled the veto of Mayor Lachmund on the recent ordinance to raise saloon licenses from $600 to $900 a year.

Following the reading of the veto message there was a rush among the Council members to reach the floor and many talks were made.

Councilman Lafky declared that he had been invited to leave town and name his price.

Lachmund's veto was based on the ground that he wished to see other businesses which had police regulation taxed, instead of placing all the burden on the saloons.

As the vote was taken a silence fell over the Council-room. Man after man voted against the Mayor and his veto. As the final vote was cast in that direction, the crowds which filled the Council chamber and stretched far out into the lobby began to shriek, clap and whistle.

In his message vetoing the ordinance Mayor Lachmund said: "I return herewith ordinance No. 1948 with my veto. I am a firm believer in strict regulation and high license as a solution of the liquor question in our city that require police regulation, which at the present time are exempt from taxation in the form of a license, and for this reason I hardly deem it fair and equitable to shoot the
