Water has been seeping into the hold of the steamer Cascades, of the Shaver fleet, at the rate of six inches a day, despite the fact the hull has been in the water but a week. It is supposed that the leak is near her stem and the theory is that caulkers overlooked the slight gap between her planking. The vessel was towed to the yards of the Portland Shipbuilding Company yesterday afternoon and will be hauled out. Two steamers of the fleet will be at the yard for the scene of the Sarah Dixon.

BUTTER MEASUREMENTS WOMAN ESCAPES DREADFUL OPERATION

Oleomargarine's Use at Asylum Will Be Fought.

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD

Meeting of Executive Committee of Butter and Cheese Makers' Association Will Take Place at Corvallis.

If the opposition of Oregon dairymen proves effectual, oleomargarine will not form part of the bill of fare at the State Insane Asylum in the near future. The question is to be considered seriously at a meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon Butter and Cheese Makers' Association to be held Thursday at Corvallis.

President Frayer, who resides in that city, yesterday requested the Portland members of the committee by telephone to attend the meeting. The meeting is being carried on by the Portland members of the committee by telephone to attend the meeting.

Several representative dairymen of this city yesterday declared that the use of oleomargarine at the asylum is a grave menace to the dairy industry of this state, and an advertisement of immense value to the manufacturers of the product in the movement that is being carried on to have the State colored oleomargarine abolished.

Portland dairymen assert it is inconsistent for officials of state institutions to favor the use of butter when the State in state institutions in a state where every inducement is given the prospective settler to engage in the dairying industry.

It is held enough for the asylum officials to substitute oleomargarine for butter, particularly in Oregon, where the dairying industry is the State's principal industry.

Discrimination Held Unjust. "While we sympathize with the state's desire to reduce expenses, we feel that it is unfortunate that in executing economy they chose to work a hardship upon one of the leading industries of the state. We are convinced that if we have a proper understanding of the temper of the people, they will never permit this unjust discrimination."

The superintendent of the asylum complies with the laws covering the sale of oleomargarine, he can use all of it he wants," said T. S. Townsend, when asked his opinion regarding the use of oleomargarine at the asylum.

Conditions in Arizona have been bad for the last year or so, due to the closing of the copper mines and a revolution in Mexico. The recent advance in the price of copper has caused improvement. Los Angeles is a most wonderful city, and is advancing rapidly.

San Francisco appears to be getting in better shape and business men are confident of the future. Southern California has been hit hard by frosts, and in some sections the loss on the orange crop will be 25 to 50 per cent.

Encourage Dairying, It Advises. "Everyone knows that it is not made of butter. No one knows just what it is made from. I don't see how the asylum people can buy colored oleomargarine any cheaper than white butter."

Marine Notes. Carrying supplies for a surveying party working at Fort Stevens the Government steamer Arago left down yesterday.

Inspector Beck, of the Seventeenth Lighthouse District, was apprised yesterday that the New Dungeness Sand Spit buoy, No. 2, in Juan de Fuca Straits, had gone adrift.

H. J. Mohr, of Marshfield, who was appointed Portland agent of the steamer Breakwater, has arrived at his new berth at Almsworth dock, where the Breakwater will have a permanent berth.

Following repairs and a general overhauling, Light Vessel, No. 92, left down yesterday and will proceed to Swiftnore Bank to relieve No. 94, the tender, which arrived at the Almsworth dock last week, also left for the lower harbor.

Reports from La Center, Wash., where the steamer Leona burned, indicate that there was less remaining of the vessel than was found of the steamer Mascot when she burned last year at Peikin, on the same date. It is said the Leona was insured for $2500.

Frank Bellam, Portland ticket agent for the independent steamers plying between here and California ports, was informed by wireless yesterday that an engine-room of the steamer Northland, which reached the river earlier in the day, had been injured after the vessel sailed from the Golden Gate, and was transferred at sea to the steamer City of Topeka, which was met off Eureka.
